Air Force Issue Delays Action On Draft, UMT

Two Groups Feel Planes Should Be Chief Bulwark of American Security

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Congressional demands for an all-powerful air force yesterday held up action on the Administration's preparedness program.

Two groups on Capitol Hill proposed making air power the chief bulwark of American security, as a third decided to face this issue before acting on the draft and universal military training.

Members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who have the two military manpower measures before them, voted to recall defense chiefs for additional testimony on air needs. They feel the question of the size of the air force must be decided before going ahead with the draft and UMT.

Criticisms Are Listed

The recommendation that America be made supreme in the air came from the Joint Congressional Air Policy Board and a House Armed Services Subcommittee. Both urged legislation going much further in air power expansion than the Administration program.

Senators on the Armed Services Committee declared that the delay probably will not affect the prospects of draft legislation. Additional large sums for aircraft might well lessen the chances of UMT though not Selective Service, they said.

Objections to the sweeping provisions of the Administration manpower bill also were voiced by the Senate committeemen. Several declared that it called for what appeared to be an all-out wartime draft rather than the "limited" Selective Service program proposed by President Truman.

Specifically, they criticized these "faults" with the legislation submitted by Defense Secretary James Forrestal:

1. The broad registration ages —19 through 44—provided. Most every member of the group and many in the House Armed Services Committee are now opposed to registering anyone above 30.

2. The draft of veterans, particularly the attempt to force former GIs with less than 18 months' service, into the National Guard or Reserves. Sentiment against this provision is not as strong as the registration of older men.

Guard Leaders Protest

(3) A provision which would draft into the regular services any man subject to Selective Service who enlisted in the National Guard or Reserves after March 17. Guard leaders have protested strongly against this, it was learned.

Both the House Armed Services Subcommittee and the Congressional Air Policy Board demanded that American air power be made invincible.

From the former came a resolution urging President Truman to propose budget estimates for a 70-group Air Force instead of the 55 groups provided under the present expanded defense plan.

Estimated as costing an additional $2,388,000,000 next year, the measure will be considered this morning by the full House committee. Defense Secretary Forrestal has opposed such an expansion at this time, as he says it would require parallel expansion of the Army, Navy and merchant marine costing an ultimate 29 or 30 billions a year for national defense.

Board Submits Bills

The Joint Air Policy Board laid before Congress a score of bills to carry out their air policy recommendations submitted to Congress a month ago.

Representative Carl Hinshaw (R., Calif.), who was chairman of the board's subcommittee on combat aviation, said the bills are designed "to reinforce the long-range purpose of the European Recovery Program by rehabilitating America's air strength and

Finns, Soviets Sign 10-Year Defense Pact

Reds Won't Interfere In Finland's Politics, Send Troops Unasked

London, April 6 (AP).—Finland and Russia signed a 10-year treaty today, binding Finland to fight within its own borders in the event either country is attacked, the Moscow radio said tonight.

The official text of the treaty, signed in Moscow by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Finnish Premier Mauno Pekkala, said the two nations would fight together to repel aggression by Germany "or another state allied with" Germany. The pact mentioned no other country by name.

Russia also pledged herself not to interfere with the internal affairs of Finland, the broadcast said. The Soviet Union will send troops to aid Finland in case of aggression only if Finland gives its consent, the treaty stipulates.

Finns Win 2 Points

Thus, political sources said here, Finland won two major concessions during the treaty negotiations which began in Moscow two weeks ago.

Prime Minister Stalin was present at the signing ceremony. It was he who sent a diplomatic note to Finnish President Juho K. Paasikivi February 22 asking that the two countries open discussions for a treaty of friendship, cooperation and mutual assistance.

The broadcaster quoted Pekkala as praising Russia's "benevolent attitude" toward his country during the ceremony.

Finns were fearful such a pact

Soviet Zone Will Vote on Unified Rule

Russian-Sponsored Plebiscite Is Answer To Western Merger

Berlin, April 6 (U.P.).—The Russian-controlled Berlin radio said tonight that a Communist-sponsored plebiscite would be held in the Soviet occupation zone May 23 to June 13 to determine whether the Germans in it wanted a united government.

Russia's move, an answer to the economic merger of the United States and British zones, had long been awaited.

It meant presumably that for months or longer Germany would be separated into eastern and western halves instead of being administered as planned under a four-power regime, with the four Allied zones merely boundaries for occupation purposes.

Key Propaganda Device

The Communists were expected to demand that the plebiscite be extended to the western zones. Insistence on a plebiscite has been one of their key propaganda devices.

The announcement came a few hours after Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in chief, told his troops that their occupation of Germany must continue despite all handicaps until there is real peace in Europe.

Clay said the Germans now had no government on a national level "except the military four-power government, which has not proved effective."

He pointed out that since the

Royall Stresses Fairness, Faith And Firepower

Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall last night gave a Washington audience his formula for peace:

"Fairness, firmness, firepower and faith."

"Firmness and firepower without fairness or without faith," he said, "might well raise the danger of aggressive militarism . . . which must not prevail in America.

"Faith without works is of little value in avoiding war."

Army Day Banquet

He spoke at Army Day banquet of the Military Order of the World Wars at Hotel Mayflower here.

Though he did not mention Russia by name, he said the United States must be prepared to stand attack from any nation with "an insatiable desire for conquest and aggression" and be ready to take the offensive against such nation.

Later, emphasizing Army needs for bases overseas, he pointed out that "no part of the central Eurasian land mass could be effectively and decisively reached except from bases on the mainland of the Eastern Hemisphere."

No enemy can be bluffed today by "gestures and feints and halfway measures," he declared, add-

Lewis Wants Fairless at Coal Parley

U. S. Steel Head Refuses to Attend; Miners' Boss Also Lists Humphrey

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

John L. Lewis yesterday agreed conditionally to have union representatives meet today with operators' representatives to discuss the miners' pension issue that has closed the Nation's soft coal mines.

The condition he imposed was promptly rejected by the operators.

Lewis had insisted that Benjamin F. Fairless, President of United States Steel Corp., and George M. Humphrey, chairman of Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal Co., be among the operators' negotiators.

"It is not within your province or authority," the operators replied, "to choose the persons who represent the coal operators in collective bargaining."

Fairless Won't Attend

And Fairless himself announced that he would not be present. He said in a statement that "there is no occasion" for him to come to the proposed meeting. The corporation's "captive" coal mines, he added, could and would be represented by Harry M. Hodges, president of its subsidiary coal mining operations.

Situation Remains Uncertain

There the situation rested last night, with both parties in the dispute under court order to get together.

Lewis himself had set the hour for today's meeting, 2:30 p. m., in rejecting an operators' proposals for a conference at 4 p. m., yesterday. But he had insisted that the presence of Fairless and Humphrey was "essential to establish good faith."

Replied the operators:

"It is the operators' responsibility to select their bargaining representatives."

The operators said they would be ready for today's meeting, through the representatives they had originally chosen, but no word had come late last night from Lewis on whether the miners' officials would appear, in view of the certain absence of Fairless and Humphrey.

Lewis' announcement, made yesterday afternoon, it appeared was in response to a court order instructing him to bargain on the issues of the strike.

The operators, too, had been acting as instructed by the court order. They were told by that decree, issued last Saturday night, to enter negotiations. So yesterday morning they notified Lewis that they stood ready to meet at the Shoreham Hotel at 4 p. m.

Lewis Charges "Bad Faith"

Half an hour before that time, Lewis released a letter to them, telling them that their offer was "obviously not in good faith." The trouble, he said, was that of the seven operator signers, only two were past participants in the bargaining conferences that led to last year's coal contract.

A third, he said, purported to represent a group of mine owners which did not sign that contract at all.

Finally, he said, there would be no point in a meeting unless Fairless and Humphrey, president of the biggest private coal producers in the Nation, attended.

Fairless and Humphrey, though not signers of the contract, were the two men instrumental in reaching the settlement last summer that led to the contract.

Lewis, it was clear, had taken a

Stassen Takes Lead In Wisconsin, Dewey Trailing MacArthur

First 251 Precincts Of 3138 Give Minnesotan 7926 To General's 4796

Milwaukee, April 6 (AP).—Returns from 251 of 3138 precincts in today's Wisconsin GOP presidential primary: Harold E. Stassen delegate-at-large slate leading with a top vote of 7926; Gen. Douglas MacArthur second with 4796 and Gov Thomas E. Dewey third with 3600. Each slate includes 7 prospective delegates.

Milwaukee County still is to be heard from.

Stassen candidates were leading in 6 of the 10 districts which will choose a total of 20 delegates to the convention. MacArthur backers led in one district and split honors with Stassen in another.

In the First District, which includes Racine and Kenosha, Stassen delegate candidates has 159 and 149 votes, respectively, from two of 227 precincts. MacArthur's backers polled 99 and 98; Dewey's men 58 and 46.

Stassen Leads in Second

In the dairyland area of the Second District, six of 106 precincts gave the Stassen delegates 146 and 134 votes; MacArthur backers 77 and 71; Dewey men 70 and 64.

In the Third District, where Stassen ended his campaign at Lacrosse, the count from eight of 371 precincts was: Stassen 355 and 332; MacArthur 129 and 119; Dewey 93 and 92.

In the north woods Eighth District, one out of 286 precincts gave: MacArthur 32 and 30; Dewey 13 and 11; Stassen 10 and 10.

Ninth and Tenth Districts

In the Ninth District, bordering on Stassen's native Minnesota, the count from four of 376 precincts was: Stassen 165 and 98; Dewey 66 and 65; MacArthur 34 and 31.

In the far north Tenth District, also bordering on Minnesota, 13 of 403 precincts gave: Stassen 194 and 183; MacArthur 157 and 140; Dewey 106 and 99.

Record Vote Indicated By Early Turnout

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Milwaukee, Wis., April 6.—Wisconsin started piling up a record vote tonight in its presidential preference primaries, with the careers of three GOP candidates involved in the results.

There were signs that the widely boomed Douglas MacArthur strength was less solid than expected as the voters turned out in about double the number of the 1944 primary count.

Some expected this to translate itself into a stronger showing for both Harold E. Stassen and Thomas E. Dewey, in whose Wisconsin strength chief national interest centers.

Milwaukee Voting Heavy

By 12:30 p. m. 53,000 voters had turned out in Milwaukee, twice as many as voted at that hour in the wartime primary that shut out Wendell Willkie and ended his political career. Voting throughout Wisconsin was 10 to 100 per cent higher.

Urban polling booths remained open until 8 p. m. (Central Time). Since returns from Milwaukee's hot mayoralty race were being counted first plus aldermen contests and bond referendums, few looked for an early presidential delegate decision.

A straw sample poll in Milwaukee taken just before the voters checked in turned up unelocked Dewey and Stassen strength in what was regarded as a MacArthur stronghold.

Stassen led in one of the wards and ran second in the other five. Dewey ran way ahead in two wards. MacArthur led in three but was last man in two.

The Stassen forces, who had never expected to take anything in this drum-beating center for the general, showed renewed confidence following the poll, but privately conceded they had probably underrated Dewey's strength.

The voters today are choosing between three full presidential slates of 27 delegates each entered for MacArthur, Stassen and Dewey

Hoffman, Auto Maker, Nominated ERP Head

President Truman yesterday nominated Paul G. Hoffman to run America's great foreign relief and reconstruction program with the title of Administrator for Economic Cooperation.

The appointment of Hoffman, 56-year-old president of the Studebaker Corporation and an outstanding "industrial statesman," was acclaimed in both political and business circles. Nobody doubted that the Senate would move swiftly to confirm him for the $20,000-a-year-post.

A Republican who shares the global viewpoint of his sponsor, Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Hoffman was an early supporter of the Marshall Plan. He said last June:

"If we do nothing and wait for the world to fall to pieces, Russia will be there to pick up the pieces."

Felt Bound to Accept

Hoffman will have his headquarters in the Maiatico Building, a new structure at Connecticut ave. and H st. nw., across from the United States Chamber of Commerce Building. Five floors of the building have been assigned to the Economic Cooperation Administration by Federal Works Administrator Philip P. Fleming.

At a press conference in the Statler late yesterday, Hoffman told how he felt when Mr. Truman offered him the job.

"I just didn't know how to say no," he said. "The main reason I couldn't turn the job down is because it may be a chance to put up a fight for peace."

He said he hoped to give the foreign assistance program "a solid business administration."

$108,800 More Sought For Hospitals; $73,200 For School Penny Milk

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday gave Congress proposals from the District Commissioners for increasing next year's city budget by $432,500.

The request was promptly forwarded to Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), whose House District Appropriations Subcommittee now has city budget proposals totaling $101,896,283, including the new items.

One of the new items calls for spending $54,200 for setting up a new central bureau for issuing District building permits. Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler said said a proposed central bureau would let applicants for permits make a single visit to a single room, instead of five or six visits to as many offices.

$17,600 for Eastern High

A fund of $17,600 was asked for new chairs and floor for the Eastern High School auditorium.

For the city hospitals, Gallinger and Glenn Dale, a total of $108,800 was asked. For Glenn Dale the money would include $35,000 for supplies of the drug, streptomycin; $24,000 for increasing the food budget, and $12,000 for installing a central radio control system. For Gallinger, $37,800 would be used to buy stretptomycin.

The requests included $73,200 for the penny milk program in the public schools, $60,930 for increasing food budgets in the District's public welfare institutions for children and the aged, and a total of $30,500 for installing additional water mains as a fire-prevention

Daylight Time Bill Passes Senate, 46-17

Opposition Is Led By Overton; Bill Now Goes to House

The Senate voted, 46 to 17, yesterday to let Washington have daylight saving time every summer.

The daylight saving bill was steered to passage by Senate District Committee Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.).

Senator John E. Overton (D., La.) fought the daylight saving plan through a three-hour debate punctuated by two quorum calls. The first call failed to bring the necessary majority, and the Senate asked its sergeant-at-arms to call on absent Senators and urge them to come in. Fifty-one came.

McGrath Is Absent

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) author of the bill, was not present but Senator Overton rang him into the scrap.

"Little children cry out," said Overton, "'McGrath doth murder sleep.'"

Overton proposed as a substitute for McGrath's bill a plan to let the Commissioners establish daylight saving time here only after a formal vote of the citizens in a referendum.

Senator Buck attacked Overton's plan as a sure way to keep the District from having daylight saving time this year. He said the time needed to set up the referendum machinery would prohibit a time change for this summer.

Overton Proposal Beaten

Overton replied it made no difference how late in the year daylight saving time started, and called for a vote on his proposal. It was defeated by a roll call, 47 to 16.

Senator Buck cited the support of many Washington organizations for the daylight saving time bill.

In City Council Primary

Smoot, Bendheim, Beverley, Squires Lead in Alexandria

Two members of a four-man slate and two candidates indorsed by a local veterans committee held an early lead last night as votes were counted in Alexandria's Democratic primary.

The balloting was to select four party nominees to run for the Alexandria City Council in general city elections June 3.

Complete, but unofficial, returns from five of the city's six wards gave the first four places to Albert A. Smoot, Leroy S. Bendheim, Marshall J. Beverley and David D. Squires.

With only the Sixth ward due to report, the four candidates seemed assured of the nominations, which are considered tantamount to election in the traditionally Democratic community.

Smoot, far out in front in the five wards, was leading the ticket with 2345 votes — more than enough to assure him of victory. Bendheim had 1859, Beverley 1843, and Squires 1631.

The four candidates nominated in the primary will run at large as result of the recent referendum in which Alexandria scrapped the ward system of electing councilmen. Also the council will consist of seven rather than nine members as at present.

The three present councilmen-at-large still will have another year to serve when the newly reconstituted council takes form September 1. At that time, terms of the six present ward representatives expire.

Another election, involving all seven council-at-large posts, will be held next year, since a bill authorizing the referendum provided that councilmen this year would serve for only one year. Thereafter, however, terms of members will be for two years.

Man Shoots Helicopter 'Bothering Wife, Baby'

Binghamton, N. Y., April 6 (AP).—A 24-year-old farmer was jailed today on a charge he fired the gun that put 11 bullet holes in a helicopter surveying this area.

The New York State Electric & Gas Corp. sent the craft up yesterday from Scranton, Pa., for air patrol of high tension wires.

Viers Mill Village Homes Held Badly Built, Overpriced

Viers Mill Village homes, selling to GIs at $8700, are highly overpriced and in some instances substandard, a series of expert witnesses yesterday told a House subcommittee investigating the 1400-dwelling project.

Closest estimate of the value of the homes, including a 10 per cent profit for the builders, fell $1000 short of the $8700 sales price, allegedly approved by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration, FHA and VA guarantee the loan risk in the financing of the home purchases by the veterans.

The hearing was called by a subcommittee of the House Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments at the request of Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.).

There was no testimony yesterday by representatives of the Harris Construction Co., builder of the project, of the FHA or of VA. They will be heard at another session at 10 a. m. Thursday.

Key witnesses yesterday were David Johannes and Loren Murray, Silver Spring architects, who at the request of the subcommittee inspected some of the 200 homes under construction at the project, located on Viers Mill rd. between Wheaton and Rockville, Md.

They testified to finding many deficiencies in construction, and estimated the cost of building a single four-room frame dwelling, together with a fair profit for the builder, to be $7700 and considerably less if built in large numbers. The two architects particularly criticized the quality of the concrete foundations, blamed the de-

'Clandestine' Love Doesn't Bind

Folsom Fails to Deny Paternity But Asks Court to Dismiss Suit

Cullman, Ala., April 6 (U.P.).—Attorneys for Gov. James E. Folsom contended today that clandestine sex relations between Folsom and a pretty red-haired divorcee did not constitute common-law marriage and, in effect, asked the Circuit Court to dismiss a paternity suit against the widower Governor.

Lawyers for 6-foot 8-inch "Kissin' Jim" filed 99 objections to two suits brought in Cullman County Circuit Court March 2 by Mrs. Christine Putman Johnston, who claims Folsom fathered her 23-month-old son.

Nowhere in the demurrers filed today do Folsom's attorneys deny that the alleged sex relations occurred.

The two demurrers attack the legal validity of the two suits seeking to have Folsom recognized father of Mrs. Johnston's child and to have her recognized as the first lady of Alabama.

The demurrers charge Mrs. Johnston's suit does not show that "the complainant and the respondent ever consented to become wife and husband or made a mutual agreement to be husband and wife followed by cohabitation and living together as husband and wife . . ."

The demurrers contend that "their sex relations were clandestine and under cover as related to their general deportment among the people where they lived."

The answers, required by law, do not admit or deny Mrs. Johnston's charges that Folsom fathered her child born April 17, 1946, in Nashville, Tenn.

Folsom himself did not appear. He is stumping the State in behalf of his "favorite son" candidacy for President.

PEOPLE In The NEWS

Hoffman Looks Like Man With Stamina, A Much Needed Asset for his New Job

Paul Gray Hoffman, who was nominated yesterday to the $20,000-a-year job of running America's huge foreign assistance program, is a man of medium height, blue eyes, a sharp nose, thick shoulders and the suggestion of a barrel chest.

He looks like a man with great stamina, and he had better be.

The job he is about to take over is the biggest of its kind in history. It is so important that Congress decided that the man who held it would have a status equal to Cabinet officers, with powers far greater than some. In disbursing billions of dollars in Europe, he will have to decide what sums are to be spent in what countries and he will even have the power to cut off a country if he feels that it is not keeping its agreements.

Recently, before he was offered the job, Hoffman said that the foreign recovery program to help stop the spread of communism was a gamble.

"But to my mind it's a good gamble," he said.

Hoffman is the kind of American businessman who is admired intensely abroad, especially by one Josef Stalin. He has the habit of getting things done and making it seem easy. Although he has been president of the Studebaker Corporation since 1935, Hoffman has found time to engage in numerous outside activities, chief of which has been his chairmanship of the Committee for Economic Development. This is a research organization founded during the war to promote a continuance of full employment.

Born in Chicago 57 years ago on the twenty-sixth day of this month, Hoffman attended public schools there and enrolled in the University of Chicago in 1908. He left college after two years to take a job with the Studebaker sales agency in Chicago.

A year later he went to Los Angeles, where he managed to sell more Studebakers than any other man had ever been able to sell. He quit business in 1917 and served as a lieutenant of field artillery until 1919. He was back in Los Angeles, serving as head of the Studebaker agency there, when the late A. R. Erskine, then president of Studebaker, asked him to come to the home office at South Bend, Ind. That was in 1925.

He was made vice president of Studebaker and held that position until 1933, when the company went into receivership.

Hoffman was named receiver and trustee. Undaunted by the prospect of Studebaker going through the wringer, he launched an ambitious advertising program with the slogan, "Studebaker Carries On." Under his guidance, the company made a comeback and the receivership was lifted March 8, 1935. Hoffman was advanced to the presidency and Studebaker became the first company in automotive history to emerge from a receivership under its original management.

Perhaps that experience made him an optimist. Testifying before a congressional committee last June, Hoffman said that the notion that "booms and busts" are inevitable should be thrown out of the window.

"We can largely realize the age-old dream of abolishing poverty," he said.

Hoffman is the father of five sons and makes his home in South Bend. It looks as if Mrs. Hoffman will have to move to Washington if she is to see much of him for the next four years.

Paul Hoffman, Auto Maker, Named ERP Administrator

to the White House by John Steelman, assistant to the President, and entered by the east gate. He saw President Truman a few minutes after noon.

Heard "Rumors" of Offer

He said that when he left for Japan on March 16, he had heard "rumors" that he was under consideration, but insisted that there had been no official word of his possible appointment.

He said the first official approach came when Steelman sent him a radiogram during a stopover in Honolulu on the way back from the Orient.

"I'm going to try to learn something about the job in case the Senate confirms me," he said. "I would be very disappointed if we couldn't do a good job."

In response to a barrage of questions, Hoffman said he hoped that trade between Free Europe and the Russian satellities could be built up; that it should be up to the highest level of authority to decide when a country becomes a Russian satellite, and that the United States can't save western Europe, but can help that area to save itself.

He said he hoped to have "the smallest possible administrative setup" to carry out the job—a principle he brings from business administration. He went on to say that if there is a government agency now doing part of the foreign assistance job, he does not want to duplicate that agency's work in his own organization.

The Hoffman nomination papers were hurriedly prepared after the industrialist had agreed to serve yesterday.

President Truman was in a stand on Constitution ave., watching the Army Day parade, when White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross brought the papers for his signature.

At that moment, Hoffman was with Undersecretary of the War William H. Draper and other members of an advisory group which had just returned from Japan and Korea. They were holding a press conference on Japanese problems.

Hoffman Keeps Secret

A reporter broke in to ask Hoffman if he had accepted the post of administrator for the foreign assistance program. Hoffman felt, apparently, that he was under a bond of secrecy until an official announcement had been made.

"I haven't heard anything about it," he said, smiling.

Asked if he had been offered the job, he repeated that he hadn't heard anything about it.

A reporter read from a story in The Washington Post, reporting that Mr. Truman had chosen him for the $20,000 post, but all he would say was that it sounded like a good job.

As the press conference in the Pentagon was breaking up, somebody ran in and said that the White House had just sent Hoffman's nomination to the Capitol.

Vandenberg, Flanders Pleased

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.) powerful chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had been backing Hoffman for the post from the time when the Marshall Plan first began to be translated into legislation.

"I think it is a sound and able choice," Vandenberg said yesterday when he heard of Hoffman's nomination. "In discusing this vital appointment with many citizens during the last three months, Hoffman's name has been suggested more often than any other."

Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), who had a long and successful career as an industrialist before entering politics, gave The Post this statement:

"I think this country and Europe are to be congratulated on the appointment of Paul Hoffman. It is particularly satisfying to have a business and production and engineering man at the top, one who doesn't have to get his ideas up through two or three layers of officials without experience in industry.

Termed "Industrial Statesman"

"The purpose of ERA is economic recovery. We now have a man who is an expert in production, an expert in business, a man who is capable of getting the hearty cooperation of any number of people—and also their inspiring enthusiasm and confidence."

James Young, senior consultant of the J. Walter Thompson Co., and former director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Commerce Department, made this statement about Hoffman's nomination:

"I think it is an excellent choice. I don't see how the (President Truman) could have picked a better man. I think he's an industrial statesman of the highest order. He understands our economy and the impact of this program on it.

"I think he's a first-rate diplomat and a great executive. I'm sure he has the ability and the stamina to grasp all the problems he will have to deal with as well as any many I know."

Foreign Policy Errors Go On, Taft Charges

Lincoln, Neb., April 6 (AP).—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) charged today that the Truman Administration has continued what he called "the failure in foreign policy . . . of the New Deal Administration."

Taft made the assertion in a full-dress speech on "America's Foreign Policy", before a noontime Rotary Club luncheon here.

"We seem to have been dominated by a complete inferiority complex to Russia," he said. "Whatever they asked (at Yalta and Teheran) they received and gave nothing in return."

Bidding for victory in Nebraska's April 13 presidential preference primary, Taft said GOP foreign-policy principles could prevail only if both a Republican Congress and President are elected.

What the country needs is, he said:

"An Administration determined to preserve peace if consistent with the freedom of the American people."

Taft called for "a completely adequate military force to defend this country" and said it should be built around "the strongest air force in the world."

He said the Administration had made unsatisfactory progress in carrying out the Armed Forces Unification Bill and asserted:

"We still lack a strategic plan and I cannot discover that we have any real intelligence service to tell us what is going on inside of the Soviet Union."

Earlier at Hastings, Taft said he believes a selective draft law may be passed within the next month.

The Ohioan who heads the GOP Senate Policy Committee, made the observation in a breakfast address here in connection with his campaign to win Nebraska's April 13 free-for-all primary.

"However, it will take from 60 to 90 days to set up the machinery for such a draft," he said. "Perhaps by the end of that time there will be enough enlistments so it will not be necessary to activate the law."

Dewey Will Visit 10 Nebraska Towns

Albany, N. Y., April 6 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will visit 10 communities and deliver two major speeches in a two-day flying trip to Nebraska in quest of support for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Governor's office announced today he would leave Albany by plane tomorrow morning and arrive in Grand Island, Nebr., at 7 p. m. (EST).

The major addresses will be at Lincoln Thursday night and at Omaha Friday night.

Rewey and six other major GOP presidential possibilities are entered in Nebraska's free-for-all primary next Tuesday. Fifteen uninstructed delegates will be elected.

Dewey will spend Wednesday night in Grand Island, where he will attend an informal reception. He will motor to nearby Kearney Thursday morning to attend a Dewey-for-President club breakfast. Later in the day he will inspect the tricounty irrigation project in the South Platte watershed and go to Holdredge for a Rotary Club luncheon.

Dewey will speak in Hastings Thursday afternoon and go from there to Lincoln for a major address in the University of Nebraska coliseum.

After the coliseum speech, Dewey will broadcast from his Lincoln hotel an address to be carried over Station KOLT at Scottsbluff, in the extreme western area of the State.

Dewey will speak at a rally at Columbus, Ohio, Friday afternoon en route to Omaha. He will make his second major address that evening.

From Omaha he will travel by train to Chicago, where he will board a plane for Washington to attend the Gridiron dinner Saturday night.

Heavy Voting In Wisconsin

in the Republican primaries. Democratic voters had to choose between a single, 28-man Truman slate or crossing over into the Republican primaries. Many were doing the latter.

Stassen has most to lose if he runs a poor third in the final returns, and most to gain if he wins. Most of his backers here concede he can't win the nomination if he trails, but insist Dewey in third position couldn't, either.

Dewey, who had been ostentatiously bearish on Wisconsin from the start, swept the primaries here in 1940 and grabbed off a big majority in 1944.

He is obviously prepared to discount any Wisconsin setback with large delegate claims in New York and elsewhere.

maintaining it with a healthy and expandable aviation industry and a strong civil air component."

The bills make no specific recommendation in either money or planes to carry out this objective. They recommend "such sums as may be necessary" for aeronautical research, production and procurement.

Proposal in Outline

In urging a huge Air Force, the House subcommittee proposed that it should be expanded to "70 complete combat groups, supplemented by 22 special air-sea rescue squadrons, 27 National Guard groups and 34 reserve groups."

Chairman Charles R. Clason (R., Mass.) declared that "it is my earnest belief that an Air Force capable of immediate and devastating aggressive action would be our greatest insurance for peace."

The resolution recommended by the group does not require House action and would not be binding upon the President. But Clason said it will be followed up by actual legislation.

Several members of the Senate Armed Services Committee—who do not wish to be quoted while the questions are pending before the group—say they want to see if "some middle ground" cannot be found between the stand taken by Defense Secretary Forrestal and the full air power program.

Forrestal's Program

Forrestal's program would boost aircraft production by about 50 per cent and bolster up the present 55 USAF groups by additional planes, men and equipment. He insists we cannot expand the Air Force greatly without comparable enlargement of the Army and Navy required to support it here and overseas.

To determine what course to take, the Senate committee has called Air Force chiefs to testify behind closed doors today. Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington, Gen. Carl Spaatz, retiring USAF chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, his successor will be heard.

Top Army and Navy officials will testify Thursday and Friday. Forrestal will be present at all sessions.

Friday Deadline Abandoned

Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) of the Senate group said he had abandoned his Friday deadline for the draft-UMT legislation and added that "we'll be lucky if we can get a bill by the first of next week."

Gurney did not explain the reason for the delay but mentioned that many members feel the 19- to-45 age registration is too broad. He said there also "was much discussion" of the Air Force expansion proposals and "whether to put any obligation on veterans who served 90 days or more."

One member of the group who has supported both the draft and universal military training declared that if "a couple of billions are added for aircraft" this alone may block UMT.

Pepper Assails Russia

The growing sentiment for Selective Service, however, was indicated by two statements yesterday. Senate GOP Policy Chief Robert Taft, according to the Associated Press, predicted at Hastings, Nebr., that a draft bill would be passed within a month. Senator Claude A. Pepper (D., Fla.) accused Russia of aggression and said he'd vote for the draft. Both Senators oppose UMT.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said in Columbus, Ohio, that the first batch of 19- to 25-year-old men may be drafted within 90 days after Congress passes such legislation. The wartime director of Selective Service, now in charge of the standby draft system, said that induction machinery will be clicking soon after they get the go-ahead signal.

Rent Controls Lifted At Virginia Beach

Removal of rent controls at Virginia Beach, Va., was announced yesterday by Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods.

This action affects only a few rental properties. Controls over hotels and rooming houses were lifted April 15, 1946.

Dewey Gets 90 Delegates in N. Y. Primary

New York, April 6 (AP).—New York State voters elected the Nation's biggest bloc of national convention delegates today with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as the beneficiary on the Republican side.

Ninety district delegates to the GOP and to the Democratic conclaves at Philadelphia were chosen in a dull spring primary which brought out only a negligible percentage of the voters.

The State's Republican delegation is claimed 100 per cent by Dewey's campaign managers and no other presidential candidate is disputing this.

This solid New York State support supplies Dewey with more than one sixth of the 548 delegates he needs for the nomination.

On the Democratic side, the picture is not so clear. Nearly all of the delegates elected were on organization slates and wil undoubtedly follow the line of the party's State and city leaders at Philadelphia.

A few months ago these leaders were outspoken for President Truman. But in recent months they have been silent.

A spokesman for the Democratic State committee said the New York delegation probably would not make its final selection until a caucus the night before balloting begins at Philadelphia.

A few local Democratic leaders in New York City have been outspoken against Mr. Truman recently, mostly because of the U. S. reversal on Palestine partition in the United Nations.

There were only three contests for delegate posts throughout the State today, all of them in Brooklyn. Two of them were in the GOP ranks, but all contenders were for Dewey.

New York will have 97 votes in the Republican National Convention, 98 in the Democratic.

At State committee meetings later this month, the Republicans will elect 7 delegates at large and the Democrats 16. The latter will have one half vote each, however.

Civil Air Potrol Plans

The Anacostia Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol announced yesterday it will continue this year its annual summer camp for cadet members. Cadets will spend two weeks at a nearby Maryland air base, learning various phases of aviation, including actual flying, under Air Corps and CAP instructors.

Bethesda Garden Club

The annual benefit sale of perennials by the Bethesda Community Garden Club will be held Thursday on the grounds of the Farm Women's Market in the 7100 block Wisconsin ave., Bethesda. Proceeds will go to hospital projects of the club.

Thomas to Urge Law Curbing Reds

Group Expected To Offer 'Drastic' Legislation Today

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The House Committee on Un-American Activities expects to introduce "drastic" anti-Communist legislation today, Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) said last night.

The legislation will be aimed at curbing Communist activity in the United States, Thomas said.

The committee met in executive session yesterday to discuss legislation, and plans for enlarging its investigative, research and clearical staff.

Thomas told reporters the committee is "way behind schedule" and plans to accelerate and expand its program of exposure of subversive groups.

A subcommittee headed by Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) has been working for several months on legislation to curb the spread of Communism. The bill approved by the committee may be introduced by Nixon.

Red Infiltration UP

The question of Communist infiltration into Government popped up both in the committee and on the floor of the House.

Representative George A. Dondero (R., Mich.) told the House that a former leading official in the American military government in Germany is now in Prague, as a teacher approved by the Communist-dominated government there.

The man, Dondero said, is George Shaw Wheeler, onetime leading official in the denazification branch of AMG. Dondero pointed out that he had called attention to Wheeler's record nearly a year ago. The AMG loyalty board cleared Wheeler of disloyalty charges, but he was subsequently compelled to resign.

Critics Answered, he Says

"I believe that his present occupation constitutes a complete corroboration of my charges and a repudiation of my vociferous but ill-advised critics," Dondero declared.

"He is at this moment employed with the approval of the Communist-dominated government of Czechoslovakia as an instructor in the Technical High School in Prague where he was given a warm welcome. Mr. Wheeler is now perfectly at home under a Communist dictatorship."

Dondero said Wheeler was cleared for service in Germany at the intervention of William Treadwell Stone, "who is now one of the chief officials in charge of the 'Voice of America' program."

He added that Wheeler was recommended for service in Germany and cleared by the Civil Service Commission also on intervention of David Morse, present Assistant Secretary of Labor.

Thomas said his committee has found conclusive evidence in 30 cases of "pressure by Government officials" to admit Communists into this country. He said the committee will hold hearings soon on "the political influence" exerted over immigration authorities during the past few years. The cases follow the pattern of the Hanns Eisler case, Thomas declared.

Hearings Scheduled

Thomas said other hearings will include activities of Gerald L. K. Smith and the activities of the National Christian Party.

The committee, he said, will reopen its Hollywood hearings and will report on investigations in the Panama Canal Zone and Miami, Fla., where Representative Richard B. Vail (R., Ill.) held hearings on Communist activity in labor unions.

Weight Protest

Penna. Pike 'Sitdown' of Trucks Ends

Carlisle, Pa., April 6 (AP).—The spectacular "sitdown" protest against the State weight limit that strung hundreds of trucks in a bumper-to-bumper parking line along the Pennsylvania Turnpike was breaking up today.

Chairman Thomas J. Evans of the Turnpike Commission, operating agency for the 160-mile road, said the cargo carriers were rumbling through toll gate exits in orderly fashion. At 4 p. m. he reported only 300 trucks parked on the road and said the demonstration "is rapidly breaking up."

Day's Developments

The development came swiftly in the wake of a day that saw:

Inauguration of a State police drive to weigh every truck on the road.

Arrest of nearly a score of protesting drivers on charges ranging from exceeding the legal gross load limit to stoning passing trucks and "promiscuous walking." A few went to jail when they were unable to pay fines.

A statement from Gov. James H. Duff that "any endeavor by this group of truckers or by any other group of threats, coercion or intimidation to take the law into their own hands cannot and will not be tolerated."

1000 Trucks Halted

The protest, begun Sunday by drivers advocating an increase in the gross load limit, had halted an estimated 1000 trucks along the four-lane road.

Pennsylvania law limits gross weight of trucks to 45,000 pounds, and provides fines up to $50 and costs for exceeding the limit. The truckers claimed they were "unable to earn a living" under the limitation.

In addition to 10 arrests for exceeding the weight limit, 7 drivers were fined for stoning two trucks which did not stop. Other drivers took up a collection to pay the fines.

Rail Unions Spurn Raise Of 15½ Cents

Cleveland, April 6 (U.P.).—Three railroad brotherhoods today rejected the wage increase recommended by a presidential fact-finding board. They said they were willing to negotiate again before April 27, otherwise, "We shall set a strike date."

Spurning the 15½-cent hourly wage boost recommended by the President's board, the brotherhoods informed the carriers they would be willing "to negotiate the recommendation of the board into a form that will be acceptable."

The brotherhoods warned, however, that if an "acceptable settlement" is not reached by April 27, a strike date will be set "as soon thereafter as possible."

Should the unions call a strike, they could order out their 225,000 combined membership. Brotherhoods involved are the firemen and enginemen, the engineers and the switchmen.

However, Alvanley Johnston, engineers' chief, said, "Our negotiators are showing all willingness to meet with the railroads, although findings of the board as a whole are not acceptable."

Strip Miners Stand Guard With Guns

Stoppage Hits Six Bus Lines In Manhattan

New York, April 6 (U.P.).—A work stoppage by 300 bus drivers on six Manhattan lines snarled up public transportation on the East Side today. Thousands were forced to walk to work or jam into other bus, elevated or subway lines.

The CIO Transport Workers Union said half a million persons were affected by the strike. The company said the figure was closer to 200,000.

Michael J. Quill, TWU president, inspected the picket lines before the garages of the East Side Comprehensive Omnibus Corp. early today and said the walkout might be extended to other lines, eliminating transportation for an estimated two million persons.

Some groups stood impatiently at bus stops, unaware that a walkout had been called and finally hurried to subway entrances or hailed taxicabs.

The board of transportation added extra cars to elevated and subway trains and put additional buses on the lines still operating.

The union, which termed the work stoppage a lockout, charged that new bus schedules proposed by the company would result in the firing of 16 men and lower wages for others. The company said 13 men would have to be "furloughed" but said decreased business made it imperative to revise schedules.

PSC to Hear Protests Apr. 20 on Bus Fares

Baltimore, April 6 (AP). — The Public Service Commission today set April 20 to hear protests on application of the Potomac Edison Company to increase bus fares in Cumberland.

The hearing was called after a protest was received from City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland.

The Cumberland mayor and council voted unanimously last Wednesday to oppose the proposed increase. Mayor Thomas S. Post said he believed the bus increase would be "forerunner to an increase in electric rates" charged by Potomac Edison.

Fairless Rejects Demand By Lewis to Attend Parley

leaf directly out of Saturday's court order. That decree, with unusual realism, had ordered bargaining not only by the signers of the contract, but by "individuals and interests" who had bargained in the past "in behalf" of the operators and who had thereby settled past disputes.

The question was: Did this mean Fairless and Humphrey? Fairless apparently thought not.

Lewis wrote that he would give the operators time "to adjust your bargaining representation to the obvious requirements of the situation.

The conference he proposed can immediately try to resolve the issues, he said, "if you have by that time arranged qualified and proper bargaining representation, as above stated."

Lewis did not promise to be present himself. He spoke only of "representation" of his United Mine Workers Union.

Lewis has so far shown no sign of complying with another section of the court order—one which requires him to take steps toward getting the miners back to work.

The Department of Justice, it was indicated, was not in a hurry to press proceedings against Lewis for failing to follow this part of the court order. Rather, it was reportedly banking on some good results coming out of the anticipated negotiating conference.

In another move yesterday, the operators sought some court help. Ezra Van Horn, operators' trustee on the board which is to administer the miners' welfare fund, asked the Federal District Court for instructions, and a declaratory judgment on who was entitled to receive benefits from the fund.

This is, in a way, the heart of the dispute that led to the strike. Lewis contended that all union miners over 60, whether they worked recently or retired years ago, should be paid pensions. Van Horn said pensions could be paid only to miners now working for operators who signed the contract.

At issue is the language of the contract and, particularly, the terms of the Taft-Hartley Act. The court was asked to rule on what they meant. Lewis will probably be given 20 days to make a reply. Then, if the court feels it should give a decision, the case will be scheduled for argument.

Stock Exchange Pickets Make Court Appearance

New York, April 6 (AP). — The ninth day of the New York Stock and Curb Exchange strike was highlighted today by the court aftermath of last week's free-for-all between police and pickets.

Picketing around the exchanges and four brokerage offices today was uneventful.

The Stock Exchange reported a 1,310,000-share day, compared with 1,040,000 yesterday while the Curb said its sales aggregated 360,000 shares, against 300,000 yesterday.

Eleven of the 38 persons arrested on disorderly conduct charges after a battle at the entrance to the Stock Exchange last Tuesday appeared in court this morning.

A police lieutenant identified the 11 defendants as members of a group which participated in a lie-down demonstration in front of the exchange entrance to prevent anyone entering or leaving the building.

The 11 also were identified as members of AFL seamen's unions, who joined striking AFL United Financial Employes on the picket lines.

Two of the defendants appeared in court with their arms in slings and one with his right foot in a cast.

After the police identifications, court adjourned until tomorrow.

Later, union representatives met with Curb Exchange officials in a mediation session with a Federal conciliator.

At issue is the question of union security and wage increases of $9 to $15 a week.

7000 Miners In Hard Coal Fields Strike

Pittsburgh, April 6 (AP).—A sympathy walkout broke out in the anthracite fields and industrial output sagged further today on the twenty-third day of the soft coal work stoppage.

The walkout of 7000 of the 80,000 hard coal miners in eastern Pennsylvania, "is due to resentment the miners have felt for months and months over John L. Lewis and their organization being pushed around," a union official said.

Operators expressed surprise at the miners' action and said they had no advance warning.

Order Served on Operators

Meanwhile, six western Pennsylvania operators of captive and commercial mines were served today with the Government-obtained court order directing operators and the union to negotiate the pension issue.

Among those served were two coal-mining subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corp., which announced its first big cutback in the walkout. Slicing steel production by 4000 tons daily, the firm closed 2 rolling mills, 3 more blast furnaces and 17 open hearths. The curtailment was effected at Pittsburgh-Youngstown plants of the Carnegie-Lilinois Steel Corp., a subsidiary.

Citing a "rapidly diminishing" coal supply, the Bethlehem Steel Co. announced layoff of 3200 workers at its Sparrows Point, Md., plant.

The American Steel & Wire Co. closed a blast furnace at Cleveland, cutting off the daily flow of 655 tons of pig iron to foundries.

Fabricators were feeling the steel cuts. Two fabricating plans in Decatur, Ill., reduced their working hours 20 per cent. A 60 per cent cut in output of enamel ware and electric roasters was announced by the Natoinal Enameling & Stamping Co., Granite City, Ill., as it furloughed 500 employes.

Railroads retrenched again. The largest lay-off of the day—7300 men—was made by the New York Central Railroad in closing all its locomotive and car repair shops. The shops concerned lie in an area stretching from New York State west to Indiana and reaching into Canada.

In Maryland, 250 maintenance workers of the coal-carrying Western Maryland Railway were furloughed.

In all, the number made idle by the coal shortage exceeded 111,000.

Four truckloads of coal were dumped and a truck mine driver was beaten when several dozen men stopped operations of a coal-loading ramp at Cumberland, Ky.

An uneasy peace prevailed in the Harrison-Barbour County section of West Virginia, where 12 men were beaten yesterday in two flare-ups between pickets and strip mine workers. Armed guards patroled property of the Grafton Coal Co., scene of one of the fist fights.

A nonunion strip mine closed near Clarksburg, W. Va., after a visit by 200 pickets maneuvering in 40 autos.

Vepco to Recommend Power Restrictions

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—Restrictions on power use more drastic than those laid down in the May, 1946, "brownout" are in prospect if the coal strike continues, a spokesman for the Virginia Electric & Power Co. said today.

The SCC yesterday summoned the State's power and gas producers to appear at 10 a. m. Friday to show cause why a rationing program should not be instituted under the 25-year-old State fuel rationing law.

Royall Gives Peace Formula

ing that such tactics would encourage aggression and hasten rather than delay a possible war.

"We must recognize that war is a possibility, and we must cut our cloth accordingly," he said.

Secretary Royall listed some materials of that cloth as an increase of present antiaircraft battalions from the present 2 to "at least 40" to protect American cities and vital installations from air attack; bases for defense and for attack in Alaska, Europe and elsewhere, and an additional 240,000 members of the Army.

The Army, said Royall, cannot get its needed strength from voluntary enlistments, but only through selective service.

"I see no safe way of ending selective service," he declared, "until we build up a trained reserve by universal military training."

Other Leaders Stress U. S. Defense Needs

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, addressed the Military Order of the World Wars at New Orleans. "There is the urgent need—underscored by the events of the past month—to create forces capable of defending our valid interests and of giving pause to the surgeof totalitarianism in Europe and Asia," he said.

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of Naval Operations, declared at Philadelphia, "We are determined to have peace if we have to fight for it."

Czechs Challenged To Debate in U. N.

Security Council Asks Government To Present Case

Lake Success, April 6 (AP).—An unexpected American challenge to the Communist-dominated Czechoslovak government to state its case was approved today by the Security Council.

The Council voted, 9 to 0, to extend a formal invitation to the Czechoslovak government to put forward a representative who would take part in the United Nations debate on the February Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. It adjourned the case until Monday to hear Prague's reply.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, and Vasily A. Tarasenko, Soviet Ukraine, abstained from voting. They have bitterly opposed hearing Chile's charges that Russia helped the Communists gain power in Czechoslovakia.

The Council voted after Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, expressed wonder that Czechoslovakia has been reluctant to appear before the Council, and asked:

"Can it be that the Czechoslovak government is afraid of participating in an open debate? Is it apprehensive that its case will not stand up before world opinion following open and free debate in this Council?"

The Soviet Ukraine asked the Security Council to reopen the question of the membership bids from Italy, Finland, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Albania and Outer Mongolia. U. N. observers said this was Russia's answer to the western power move last Saturday for reexamination of the applications from Italy and Trans-Jordan. The five great powers will discuss membership tomorrow in the United States delegation office in Manhattan.

371 Czech Officers Ousted From Army

London, April 6 (U.P.).—Three hundred and seventy-one officers, including 60 in key posts, have been ousted from the Czechoslovak army in the nation-wide purge of "Western influences" which swept unnumbered thousands of civilians into jail, refugees reported today.

Gen. Karel Janousek, chief of the air force, reportedly headed the list of officers who have been dismissed or retired from the army since the Communist seizure of power.

Czech Attache Quits in Protest

MRS. U. S., Russia Clash in U. N. On Disarming

Lake Success, April 6 (NYHT).—Colombia called today for nationalization of armaments industries by United Nations members, but the proposal went virtually unheeded as the big powers exchanged angry charges over the responsibility for failure so far of disarmament efforts.

Alberto Gonzales Fernandez, Colombian delegate, proposed the plan in a working committee of the Commission for Conventional Armaments because, he explained, the drive for profits in privately owned armaments industries is "one of the main reasons for war."

The Colombian suggestion was all but lost beneath a stormy argument between the Western powers and Russia. United State Delegate Frederick H. Osborn touched off the trouble when he charged Russia with making "wholly unjustifiable accusations" against the Western powers, and by quoting reports that Russian military expenditures are more than double those of the United States.

as Russia has signed with other eastern and central European countries would bind her to a tight military accord with the Soviet Union. However, leading Finnish politicians said tonight in Helsinki the treaty cements the little Baltic republic together into the eastern bloc, but preserves its sovereignty.

Russia will send troops into Finland, in the event of aggression, only by "mutual agreement."

If neither nation renounces the for nine years, it will automatically be renewed for another five years and from then on in five-year cycles unless Russia or Finland gives one year's notice of renunciation.

All the provisions of the treaty, the document said, "will be in accord with the principles of the United Nations."

MacArthur Prevents Jap Legislative Recess

Tokyo, April 6 (NYHT).—Hopes of Japanese legislators to take a recess tomorrow and campaign in the provinces for reelection went glimmering today when they received a curt note from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's government section, warning them to stay on the job and stop playing politics.

The letter pointed out there was no reason for electioneering because no general election is likely to be held for some time.

Italian Union Calls One-Hour General Strike

Rome, April 6 (AP).—The Communist-led General Conferation of Labor tonight called an hour-long nation-wide general strike for April 12—six days before the Italian general election.

The confederation (CGIL) charged that the Mafia (Black Hand), with political support, was responsible for the slaying of 35 Sicilian labor leaders in the last two years. It said the strike would be in protest.

A prospect of a split in the confederation loomed as a result of the strike call. Among the six millions members are many who do not belong to the Communist or other extreme left parties.

Giulio Pastore, a Christian Democrat, opposed the strike call in a meeting of the CGIL executive committee. A minority group represented by Pastore retaliated against the strike call with a formal proposal that the confederation reconsider its stand against the Marshall Plan.

In calling the strike, the confederation's executive committee canceled a projected one-hour strike for this Thursday which was to have been extended by one hour each day.

The executive committee had given the government until Thursday to find Placido Rizzotto of Corleone, a leftist labor leader missing for three weeks.

Under the present strike call only railroad workers and firemen are to report for work between 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. next Monday.

The last of the 35 Sicilian labor leaders killed was the Communist Calogero Cangialose, who was machinegunned to death by unknown persons at Palermo last week.

After the machinegunning, Giuseppe di Vittorio, Communist boss of the CGIL, called upon Interior Minister Mario Scelba and told him he would "judge the government by deeds, not by words."

'Routine Training'

Navy Starts Exercises Off Greek Coast

Athens, April 6 (U.P.).—America's Mediterranean fleet began a week of "routine training exercises" today off the southwest coast of Greece, the United States Embassy announced.

Admiral Richard Conolly, United States commander in the Mediterranean, watched the beginning of the naval maneuver, the embassy said.

Simultaneously, United States Aid Mission Chief Dwight P. Griswold forwarded recommendations to Washington for reduction of the mission and surrender of some of its functions to Greek officials as Marshall Plan assistance replaces temporary aid to Greece.

Griswold's proposals did not apply to the mission's military branch.

It was reported that Griswold would leave Greece shortly after June 30, probably leaving the remnants of the mission in the hands of the United States Ambassador.

Turkish Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak told a press conference here today that Greece and Turkey had been discussing a customs union, but that they had decided prewar pacts were ample to govern their trade relations and that no new agreement was needed.

Bulgaria Says Greeks Kidnaped Border Guards

Sofia, Bulgaria, April 5 (Delayed) (AP).—Bulgaria officially charged tonight that 100 Greek soldiers kidnaped three Bulgarian border guards Sunday.

Foreign Minister Vassil Kolarov addressed a note of protest to Secretary General Trygve Lie of the United Nations.

United States and Britain merged their zones a formal invitation had been standing to France and Russia to join it.

"Increasingly, Soviet opposition to such fusion becomes evident," Clay said. "However, co-operation with French representatives is now definite and improving."

Leaders Meet at Dinner

The first contact during the present crisis over Russian controls on transport of the Western allies to Berlin and the Russian boycott of the four-power Allied Control Council, came tonight.

Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, Russian commander in chief, was guest at a dinner given by Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British commander in chief, for Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British imperial general staff.

A British-Russian joint commission started an investigation into yesterday's crash of a British airliner and a Russian fighter plane which resulted in 15 deaths.

American and British planes were coming in normally from the west. All reported they saw no sign of Russian fighters.

(British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told Commons in London that Robertson asked Sokolovsky to "condemn" the crash in writing and to give written assurances against a recurrence.)

Legion Post Moves For Virginia Bonus

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—Chesterfield Post 196, American Legion, has called on other posts in Virginia to join at the next State convention in demanding a "substantial bonus" for Virginia's World War II veterans.

The request was made by Byron S. Hallsted and Thomas B. Wheelwright, jr., members of a special committee of Post 196.

U. S., Argentina Join On Defense Policy

Say Chiefs of Staffs Should Handle Military Planning

Bogota, Colombia, April 6 (AP).—The United State sand Argentina have agreed in principle that hemisphere defense planning should remain in the hands of military leaders, an Argentine spokesman said today.

A proposal to tie hemisphere defense planning to the governing board o fthe Pan American Union is now before the conference of American republics.

Argentina is the strongest objector. She contends that because of the critical world situation and the necessity to meet constantly changing military problems the risk of defense plans becoming involved in political considerations should be avoided.

Less Chance of Leak

The spokesman for the Argentine delegation said Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia brought the matter to the attention of Secretary of State Marshall, and the United States agreed in principle with an Argentine contention that military secrets run less chance of exposure if they remain with a joint hemisphere defense board.

The board would be made up of the chiefs of staffs of the American countries.

Former President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela proposed at the fourth plenary conference session that colonies of European countries be permitted to determine for themselves whether they want to be independent or become part of some already existing American republic.

He thus touched indirectly on the question raised by Guatemala's claims to British-owned Honduras, and to Argentine and Chilean claims involving the Falkland Islands and the antarctic dependencies.

Betancourt urged that the conference attempt to work out a plan for calling plebiscites if necessary.

He also proposed that a special inter-American economic conference be called during the last half of the year to determine concrete plans of the American republics to meet their economic problems.

Foreign Minister Gen. Armando Revoredo Iglesias of Peru stressed the economic theme in his speech. He said the Latin-American countries could better cooperate with the European Recovery Program if they received financial, material and technical aid. He suggested this might become available through creation of an inter-American bank.

Jews Seize British Arms After Killing 7

Jerusalem, April 6 (AP).—Jews raided the biggest British military camp in northern Palestine today, killed the commanding officer and six other soldiers and escaped with a large amount of guns and ammunition, a military statement said.

The Jews wore the blue uniforms of the Palestine police and military dress, the British said. Jewish sources here said the attackers were members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, an underground group. Six British soldiers were wounded.

The camp is on the coast, 25 miles south of Haifa.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem thousands of Jews welcomed the first big food convoy to reach the city in many days. Fifty trucks made the trip over roads menaced by Arab snipers and brought food and supplies to hungry Jews.

In Tel Aviv the Zionist general council opened a five-day meeting expected to clarify the Jewish stand on the proposals for a United Nations trusteeship in Palestine and a Holy Land truce.

4 Die, 130 Hurt In Second Day Of Cairo Riots

Alexandria, Egypt, April 6 (U.P.).—Four persons were killed and at least 130 injured today when troops fired on rioters surging through streets here for the second straight day. The unofficial two-day toll of dead was 34.

Despite the end of the nationwide police strike, shooting was heard all over the city. Main streets were blocked off and troops fired into mobs in a vain effort to halt their looting. A 7 p. m.-to-dawn curfew was ordered once more.

The first aid society said all of today's dead were "foreigners," without further identifying them. Three were said to be women.

In Cairo police fired into the air to disperse 2000 workers from Shubra, northern suburb. The workers tried to break through police lines and enter the heart of the city after striking at the cotton mills. No one was hurt. Shubra is the largest Communist stronghold in Egypt.

To Curb Spending

Special Tax Put on Rich In Britain

London, April 6 (AP).—Sir Stafford Cripps laid a special tax upon wealthy British investors today as a measure against inflationary spending.

The tax was contained in Cripps' budget for the fiscal year 1948-49, which the Commons must approve before it becomes effective. The House of Lords may debate the budget bill, but may not prevent its enactment.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer said the tax, ranging from 10 to 50 per cent on unearned incomes from interest, dividends and rents in the upper brackets, in addition to income tax, undoubtedly will have to be paid "largely out of capital."

Cripps said the special levy would be assessed for one year only.

With the levy, Cripps excused half a million little men from income taxes and eased the bite on millions of other low-bracket income-tax payers.

But even the little man got some bad news with the good. The price of cigarettes, hiked by a new duty of 3 shillings 4 pence (67 cents) a pound, rose 2 pence a package of 20 to 3 shillings 6 pence (70 cents).

There will be another penny tax on a pint of beer and increased taxes on wines and hard liquors.

The tax on football gambling pool winnings was doubled, but the tax on cheap theater and movie seats was halved.

Cripps called for "unremitting attention" during the four years Britain will benefit from the Marshall Plan to the increasing of exports to dollar countries.

"The great act of the United States . . . has given us time," he said, "but time . . . is the scarcest commodity of all today and we cannot afford to waste a moment of it."

The special tax applies only to investors with total incomes of more than 2000 pounds ($8000) and ranges from 10 per cent on investment incomes above 250 pounds ($1000) to 50 per cent on all above 5000 pounds ($20,000).

For the little man, exemption for earned income allowances was increased from one sixth of the gross income, with a maximum of 250 pounds ($1000), to one fifth of the gross with a maximum of 400 pounds ($1600).

Bloom Says Truman Hopeful on Palestine

By the United Press

President Truman is optimistic over the chances for settling the Palestine problem, according to Representative Sol Bloom (D., N. Y.).

Bloom discussed the Palestine situation with the President yesterday. He said Mr. Truman told him he was "optimistic" about solving the controversial issue.

America's Most Powerful Crawler Tractor

THE INTERNATIONAL TD-24

Richmond is the lucky city! The first of the new giant International TD-24 Diesel Crawler Tractors in our territory is on display in our showrooms. For ten days it will be here for everyone to see, touch and hear about!

This new giant tractor is more than fifteen feet long, 8½ feet wide and 7 feet 4 inches high. It weighs more than 19 tons! And it has the tremendous power needed to move as much as 38 tons of earth.

The most amazing thing about this new tractor is the ease with which it can be operated. Hydraulic power does all the work of steering and clutch operation which means that the operator moves hydraulic levers instead of doing the heavy work of manipulating steering clutches and brakes. It's as easy to drive as your car.

Come in and see the tractor that makes construction jobs child's play compared to yesterday!

3 Youths Captured After 20-Mile Chase

90 M. P. H. Flight Ends With Footrace In Maryland Woods

Three 18-year-old youths were captured by District and Prince Georges County police early yesterday after a dizzying auto chase of 20 miles that led from Washington into nearby Maryland.

The careening cars reached speeds as high as 90 miles an hour during the chase which began at Good Hope and Naylor rds. se. and ended near Collington, Md.

Near Collington, the youths abandoned their car when it ran out of gas and fled into nearby woods. Police captured them on foot an hour and a half later.

Police said two of the youths live in the District, the third on in Capitol Heights, Md. They were held at Upper Marlboro over night and extradited yesterday afternoon to the District to face charges.

District police said the auto had been stolen, that the tags on the car had been stolen from still another car and that a set of housebreaking tools was found in the car.

The chase began at about 3:45 a. m., when the youths raced past Good Hope and Naylor rds. se., at a high rate of speed. Pvts. I. W. Haun and John J. Wolf of the Eleventh Precinct set theirsquadcar in pursuit.

While following the car, they learned from the police radio dispatcher that the tags on the car had been stolen several days earlier from a car parked in downtown Washington.

Haun and Wolf couldnt' catch up with the speeding auto. They chased it to Bowen rd. se., where Haun fired three shots into the trunk compartment. The pursuit continued to Upper Marlboro and then along Crain hwy.

Meanwhile, the police radio had been busy and three Prince Georges County police cruisers had joined in the chase. At one point, Haun and Wolf pulled abreast of the youths' car. They said the youth at the wheel cut over and tried to force them into a retaining wall.

The pursued auto's gasoline supply gave out, the car crashed across a four-foot ditch and slashed through a barbed wire fence. It rolled across a field and through another barbed wire fence before stopping.

The youths ran into the woods and Haun took after them, chasing them for more than a mile. Meanwhile, the police cars patroled the roads surrounding the woods.

Prince Georges County Policemen Adam Lindsey, John A. Tucker, C. L. Perrygo, Carl Keech and R. J. Earnshaw seized the trio when they emerged from the woods an hour and a half later.

Three Boy Commissioners Are Elected

Three Washington youths were named yesterday at "junior commissioners" of the city in one phase of a busy Boys Club of America Week.

Those selected, in balloting by almost 1200 members of the Eastern Branch, 261 17th st. se., were Edmond Smallwood, 15, of 336 14th st. ne., president of the board; Edward Blank, 14, of 436 16th st. se., and Robert Colbert, 14, of 3425 E. Capitol st.

Charles Reynolds, director of the club, said the trio facor local surrage and more boys clubs here. The junior editions of the local government will meet with the District Commissioners at 10 a. m. Thursday and later tour the police and fire departments.

For speediest techniques, without using their names, three other Boys Club members yesterday were named champions in a pie eating contest. Winners in the midget, junior and senior classes, respectively, were: Martin Vermillion, 10, of 529 Eames pl. ne.; Bradley Wimberley, 12, of 1030 D st. ne.; Raymond Schmidt, 17, of 254 15th st. se.

In line with this week's observance, Kenneth Newman, 17, of 1133 24th st. nw., a member of the Georgetown branch, 2726 M st. nw., yesterday presented a gavel in behalf of thetwo local clubs to W. Frank Gatewood, president of the Advertising Club of Washington.

'Church' Plan Fraud, Says Postoffice

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

"The Puritan Church" and its "chancellor" yesterday were barred from the mails for fraud.

Harrison Parker of Chicago claimed he was the hereditary chancellor of the church. He used newspaper and magazine ads for a puzzle contest to raise money for its building fund. He took in over $230,000 in a few months.

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson ruled yesterday that the contest was a fraud, that there was no such church, that Parker made up the name for a money making scheme of his own, and that Parker never meant to use the money he got to build a church.

The so-called headquarters of the church in LaGrange, Ill., the postmaster general said, was just an office where Parker took in the money. The fraud order issued yesterday puts the church puzzle contest out of business. Letters sent to the church from now on will go back to those who mailed them. So will a large mass of mail that has piled up in the LaGrange Postoffice since February 25, when hearings on the case began.

Parker's only hope of blocking the order would be a suit in the Federal courts, either in LaGrange or in Washington, to hold up enforcement.

Parker's contest ads showed a crude map of the United States, giving the names of a number of towns and cities. To solve the "puzzle" one listed the place names in which certain letters were found. A $250 prize was offered. Three out of four of the thousands ow answers sent in were correct.

Those who answered, whether their replies were right or not, were invited to send up to $12 for the "church building fund" so they could get into another contest of the same kind, for prizes up to $3500.

measure for the Home for the Aged and Infirm and the Industrial Home School at Blue Plains.

$36,600 to Complete Home

Other items were $36,600 for additional equipment and other expenses for completing the District's new Receiving Home for Children, and $10,600 for investigations of on-the-job veterans' training.

President Truman also asked Congress approve an extra $45,109 next year for hiring 15 additional Capitol policemen on the House side. The request for the extra men was initiated by House Sergeant at Arms William F. Russell.

Aged Home Improvements To Be Pushed by Miller

Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) will go to bat for improvements at the Home for the Aged and Infirm at Blue Plains, he promised yesterday.

He made this clear in two letters to Commissioner Guy Mason in reference to charges made Monday when Miller and Representative Charles B. Deane (D., N. C.) of the House District Subcommittee on health, welfare and education, inspected the home.

Superintendent Otto J. Cass told the Congressmen the building is a fire trap and inmates do not have adequate food.

Miller asked Mason to confer with the Welfare Board and prepare a report plans and cost estimates for installing a sprinkler system "so that I may present it before the (District's fiscal 1949) appropriation is finally acted upon."

He also suggested that "the superintendent be given the privilege of making his own food budget and that this be based on the actual needs of the individuals hospitalized there."

fects on improper building methods and improper inspection.

Other witnesses included:

Perry G. Burdette, Montgomery County tax assessor, who figured $7000 as a fair andreasonable selling price for the houses.

Francis K. Metzger, Montgomery County assistant supervisor for assessment, insisted the construction of the homes was "far below average." He said $5000 or $6000 would be a more equitable price.

Alvin C. Ketcham, Chevy Chase builder, credited the project homes with an excellent plumbing job, but estimated a fair profit could be made at $7000 each.

A. O. Burghardt, Chevy Chase architect and builder, who priced the homes at $6700.

Andrew J. Kessinger, Silver Spring real estate broker, who sets $7250 as a top selling price.

Representative Beall urged the committee to look into all angles of the project to see if there were any illegal or unethical practices undertaken with a view to getting a high price for the homes.

West Virginia Pickets Close 4 Strip Mines

Charleston, W. Va., April 6 (AP).—Motorized pickets closed at least four Harrison County strip mines today, and there were promises of more action tomorrow. There was no violence, but six truckloads of coal were dumped.

A fifth mine continued operations as the pickets cruised past it, accompanied at the time by two State policemen. State Police Capt. E. E. Stout said the officers were on a routine road patrol.

German Art Bill Up in House Today

Not Badly Hurt

Bus Hits Boy, Runs Over, Drags Him

In Fairfax, a six-year-old schoolboy narowly escaped serious injury yesterday when a school bus struck him, ran over him and dragged him 20 feet.

Raymond

Raymond Welch, of the Riley subdivision opposite Falls Church High School, was in good condition last night in Arlington Hospital with bruises and a "bump" on the head.

Police said the accident occurred at 8:55 a.m. when young Welch, waiting at the High School grounds for a bus to Fairfax Elementary School, ran into the path of a second school bus driven by David J. Isdell, 16, of Route 1, Fairfax.

The bus struck the boy, police said, knocked him to the ground, and passed over him without a wheel touching his body. His clothing, however, caught in the bus differential and he was dragged 20 feet before the vehicle stopped.

Senatte Already Has Measure to Put Off Its Return

A companion bill to the Senate bill introduced last week to send the German-owned art masterpieces at the National Gallery of Art on a cross-country tour, is scheduled to be introduced in the House today.

Representative Claude I. Bakewell (R., Mo.) will introduce the House bill, a duplicate of the one introduced by Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.).

The legislation would keep the 202 art works by world-famed painters in this country until the United States recognizes a national government for Germany, where the paintings were found in a salt mine in 1945.

Trustees of the National Gallery would be authorized to exhibit the art across the country at reasonable admission fees, with proceeds used for benefit of German children through the United Nations International Children's Fund. The United States would accept responsibility for safe transport of the art.

Additional support for keeping the paintings in this country temporarily came yesterday from Common Cause, Inc., an anti-Communist, citizens organization pledged to further democratic ideals.

A statement by Mrs. Natalie Wales Paine, president of the organization and founder of "Bundles for Britain," read in part:

"Beyond the consideration of safety for the paintings and benefit to the American public, there is an overriding moral obligation to use this German art for the relief and rehabilitation of the German people to whom it belongs, at this moment of their dire need."

President Truman, a brief visitor to the exhibit on Sunday, apparently liked it so much that he returned Monday accompanied by Mrs. Truman and their daughter Margaret.

The Trumans entered the gallery a few minutes after the 5 p. m. weekday closing hour and stayed fo ralmost an hour, escorted by Secret Service men and gallery officials.

Yesterday, 19,568 persons visited the gallery, to raise the total of visitors since the exhibit opened March 17 to 437,969. Viewing hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p. m. weekdays, 2 p m to 10 p m Sundays until April 18.

Maryland Due To Join Baby Number Plan

Unless balked by public protest, Maryland will adopt the nationwide scheme to number individually all babies born after December 31.

Dr. A. W. Hedrich, State registrar, of Baltimore, said last night he would recommend adoption of the so-called "Book of Life" plan to the Maryland State Board of Health.

"I think it (national registration) is coming," he declared last night. "We're socializing at a rate that is going to make this system necessary."

The plan to assign a lifetime registration number to all children born in United States beginning next January 1 was voted approval at a meeting March 18 of the American Association of Registration Executives. News of the action was made public last Saturday in routine announcement out of Helena, Mont., that that State was adopting it.

The registration number would follow the child through life and would be adaptable as that person's Social Security number, registration identity for military duty or police purposes and for all other identity usages.

Dr. Hedrich said he expects some opposition of labor organizations to the plan.

In event the Maryland State Board of Health does not "go along" with the national plan of birth registrations, Dr Hedrich said he would sponsor a similar plan for State use only.

Dr. George C. Ruhland, chief of the District Department of Health, yesterday voiced approval of the registration system as "a practical way to handle" the keeping of vital statistics. On Monday, Joseph B. Irvine, director of the Department's bureau of vital statistics, disclosed that the District would start the registration plan next January.

The plan provides for an 11-digit number for each child born in the United States beginning January 1.

Man Burned Critically As Wrecked Auto Burns

Frederick, Md., April 6.—Herbert L. Derry, 65, of Buckeystown, was in a critical condition today at Frederick Memorial Hospital with multiple burns suffered yesterday when his wrecked car caught fire with him pinned unconscious inside the machine. Montgomery County Police Sergt. Paul Watkins said Derry's car ran off the Buck Lodge road near Lee's Corner. He was pulled from the blazing car by Ellis Sheckelford, who resides near site of the accident.

Truman Gets New Flag From Legion

An American flag was presented to President Truman yesterday by the American Legion District Department to open its "Fly Your Flag" campaign, designed to encourage flag displays on patriotic occasions.

Holleran

Department Comdr. Owen C. Holleran made the presentation in the President's office shortly before 1 p. m. The President admired the flag and said with a smile, "This is mine and it's going to stay mine," according to Holleran.

The Legion campaign will continue to July 4, with each of the 59 local posts assigned an area for distribution of flags.

4 King George Hunters Fined on Duck Charges

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—Four King George County hunters were fined in Federal District Court today after they pleaded guilty to charges of violating game laws on Christmas Eve.

Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson placed Henry T. Berry on three years probation and fined him $500.

Fines of $150 each were levied on Conor Clair, James Alex Crabtree and Jack Darling. They and Berry had been charged on five counts with hunting and killing more than the legal number of wild ducks from a baited blind, with possessing more than the legal bag limit and with hunting without a license.

Says Church Needs Youth

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—"Youth and the church need each other," the State Girls' Club agent told Episcopalean clergymen today in a plea that teen-agers be allowed to superintend Sunday schools.

Dorothy Emerson, Girls' Club agent, addressed the Town and Country Church Institute sponsored by the Protestant Episcopal dioceses of Maryland, Washington and Easton, Pa.

Judaism Group Supports U. S. Trustee Plan

Strong support for the United States' present effort to place Palestine under trusteeship is coming from the American Council of Judaism, made up of American Jews opposed to Zionist strategy.

A Washington chapter of the council, headed locally by Joseph D. Kaufman, businessman and civic leader, has been active in seeking to show that Zionist insistence on partition—even if it means extensive warfare between Jews and Arabs—does not represent the views of all American Jews.

Basic plank in the principles of the American Council for Judaism is:

"Nationality and religion are separate and distinct. Our nationality is American. Our religion is Judaism. Our homeland is the United States of America. We reject any concept that Jews are at home only in Palestine."

Alfred M. Lilienthal, "GI" representative to the United Nations Conference at San Francisco and attorney for the local Council chapter, said yesterday:

"A truce in Palestine and U. N. trusteeship is the only immediate solution to avoiding a blood bath after May 15, when the British are scheduled to withdraw from Palestine."

The Council, he said, advocated these two steps before the United States announced its decision to agree to partitioning Palestine, which it later reversed.

Daylight Time Passes Senate

Overton cited opposition of other groups.

Overton said the bill was wanted by "aristocrats" and "retired capitalists," so they could have more time for playing golf and visiting cocktail parlors.

"I oppose the bill because I want to give the laboring many and the mothers and children an hour's more rest in the almost unbearable heat that visits our National Capital," said Overton.

House Now Gets Bill

The bill now goes to the House, where it will be referred to the House District Judiciary Subcommittee headed by Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.).

The Gallup Poll

Many Eager To Emigrate From Europe

Princeton, N. J., April 6.—If all restrictions against emigration were withdrawn overnight, millions of people in the leading countries of Europe—France, Holland, England and others—would want to pull up stakes and move out of their war-wracked homes to find a more peaceful life in another country.

Restlessness in those nations whose people generally bear the brunt of military destruction contrasts sharply with the settled feeling of Americans. In this country only 1 person in 25 expresses a desire to settle elsewhere.

Seven of the 12 international Gallup Polls conducted a simultaneous survey to determine just what the average people throughout the world think about living conditions in their countries. Thus, thousands of representative men and women in each country were at the same time giving thought to what they would do if they were able to move out of heir homeland.

In England, more than 4 out of 10 adults want to start life anew somewhere else. Approximately one out of every three in Italy and the Netherlands, one out of four of the French and Norwegian people believe they could find greener fields in another part of the world.

Of the European countries reporting the survey, only in Sweden are relatively few people anxious to leave their native land, about one in eight expressing a desire to do so.

The question asked in all countries was:

If you were free to do so, would you like to go and settle in another country?

The comparative answers:

	Move	Stay	No opinion
England	42%	53%	5%
Holland	33	56	11
Italy	29	64	11
Norway	28	66	7
France	25	72	3
Sweden	13	85	2
United States	4	94	2

One probable reason for this sentiment is brought out in another poll conducted throughout England by the British Institute of Public Opinion. This poll found that nearly two thirds of the people think it is harder to make ends meet in England now than six months ago. The vote is:

Compared with six months ago, are you finding it harder, easier or about the same to make both ends meet?

Harder	65%
Easier	4
About same	30
Don't know	1

Two additional Gallup Polls, in Finland and Australia, in 1946 asked the question about moving to another country. Also, last year the Social Psychology Institute, a French organization, polled Germans in the French zone of Germany on the same issue. The results of these polls follow

	Move	Stay	No opinion
German (1947)	46%	47%	7%
Finland (1946)	28	60	12
Australia (1946)	5	95	..

America still beckons as the land of peace and hope to large numbers of people in foreign countries. Of the one who want to move, over half of the Norwegian, 44 per cent in Finland, 15 per cent of the French, and 1 out of every 10 in Holland say they would like to come to the United States.

The English see greater opportunities in the British Dominions than here, while Switzerland looks very attractive to the French.

Significantly enough the "utopias" mentioned by the 4 per cent of Americans who want to leave here are scattered around the globe. No country received as much as a 1 per cent vote and a total of 29 nations were mentioned.

MORE OIL...

...and still more is on the way!

1. Last year, this country used more oil than the whole world did in 1939—before World War II.

2. There are 3,000,000 more cars on the road than there were before the war. And the average motorist is using 50 more gallons of gasoline per year in his car.

3. 25% more buses—30% more trucks—serve you now than before the war.

4. Farmers have doubled their use of time-saving, work-saving tractors, trucks, and other equipment since pre-war!

5. 1,500,000 more home owners heat their homes with oil than in 1939.

6. Today, production of petroleum products has reached an all-time record high—61% greater than before the war and 12% greater than the peak year of war-time production!

7. But you still need lots more oil. And that means new, expanded facilities for finding, producing, transporting, refining, and delivering more oil. And that's the job America's oil industry is working on right now—around the clock and with sleeves rolled up!

THE JOB AHEAD is a big job, calling for big plans and big performance.

ONE BILLION DOLLARS...that's one thousand million dollars...is what this one company and its affiliates are spending in 1947 and 1948 to modernize and expand production and facilities at the greatest rate in our history.

And that's only part of the story. During the next few years, reports indicate, the oil industry—as a whole—is planning to spend 13 BILLION DOLLARS to do this job.

Two Husbands Vie For 6-Ft. Charmer

Alexandria Court To Seek Solution Of Question Today

Two men, the Alexandria police and the court—in about that order—have a question for 6-foot, dark-eyed Mary Ann Kline:

"Whose 'ittle wifey is 'oo?"

Sailor Francis G. Lunney, a quartermaster first class at the Naval Air Station, had every reason to think the 25-year-old drug store waitress was his after their marriage in Alexandria, Va., Monday.

But that was until Mary Ann and Lunney returned to her home, 1704 R st. nw., at 2 a. m. yesterday. Three—and waiting—was 30-year-old George C. Harrelson of 1606 17th st. nw., who said she was his by virtue of a Miami, Fla., marriage July 26, 1945.

Mary Ann told Alexandria Detective Lieut. Russel A. Hawes she didn't think she was a bigamist when she married Lunney because Harrelson, she said, was married when she married him in Miami and therefore, Harrelson was the bigamist—not she.

The Alexandria Civil and Police Court has its doubts too and wants to hear more about it at 10 a. m. today. Meantime, Mary Ann, who by Lieutenant Hawes' own words "glamorous," is free on $500 bond, charged with bigamy.

Harrelson denied he was married when he married Mary Ann in Miami. Lunney, after a minor argument with Harrelson over the issue, returned to his quarters at the Air Station in confusion.

Plant Growth Found Hurt By Deadwood

Dead wood may give off paralyzing rays or a vapor that slows plant growth.

The mysterious phenomenon was reported yesterday by Do. Robert L. Weintraub and Leonard Price of the Smithsonian Institution's division of radiation and organisms.

Effect of dried wood on seedlings, they said, appeared to be one of suspended animation. Seeds germinating in the presence of wood virtually stopped growing, yet even after thus inhibited for periods up to five weeks would resume normal growth when removed from its influence, they reported.

They said they first observed the heretofore unreported phenomenon when oat seedlings in a tightly closed wooden box stopped growth completely after the sprouts reached a length of about one millimeter. After transfer to metal or glass containers, however, the seedlings resumed normal rate of growth without apparent injury.

Dr. Weintraub and Price next experimented with sorghum, barley, tomato, bean, lettuce and radish seedlings in boxes made of various woods. The same effect, though less pronounced, was noted, they said.

Brazilian Addresses Inter-American Bar Unit

Dr. Oscar da Cunha, senior law professor at the University of Brazil, Rio de Janeiro, yesterday addressed the Inter-American Bar Association luncheon at the University Club.

A representative of the university board of trustees, Dr. da Cunha also is the founder of a cultural relations center in Rio to promote inter-American exchange of students and professors. On his current tour, he will carry the idea to Harvard, the University of Montreal and Columbia University in New York.

Autopsy to Be Held On Man Found Dead

An autopsy will be performed Thursday on a 65-year-old man who was found dead in his room at 1007 E st. nw., yesterday.

The man, Anthony J. Berge, was a former Western Union employe, police said. His body was found by Maggie Standard, a maid at the E st. address.

Bruises on Berge's left eye and his chest were attributed by homicide detectives to a fall.

Four Authors Speak at Post Luncheon Today

Four authors will be guest speakers at the last of The Washington Post's book and author luncheons of the current season today at 1 p .m. in the Statler Hotel.

The authors, all of whom will talk about recent works, will include James A. Farley, former Postmaster General, who wrote "Jim Farley's Story—the Roosevelt Years"; Margaret Widdemer, whose latest novel, "Lani," was released in February; Representative Wright Patman (D., Tex.), author of "Our American Government," and Willie Snow Ethridge, wife of Mark Ethridge, one-time assistant general manager of The Washington Post, who embodied her observations of the current Greek conflict in her new book, "It's Greek to Me."

Arrangements to obtain tickets, available at $3 each, may be made by calling The Washington Post, National 4200, Extension 207.

Beall Proposes U. S. Pay Taxes on Plane Plant

Representative Beall (R., Md.), proposed yesterday that the city of Hagerstown and Washington County, Md., be reimbursed for the loss of tax revenue from the Government-owned Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp.

The Federal Government acquired the property in June, 1943. Since then it has been tax free. Beall said the loss to Hagerstown and the county now totals about $80,000.

He introduced a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to reimburse the city and county annually, starting with the 1947 tax year.

On the Town

THE Pall Mall Room in the Raleigh introduced a young lady last week who will be entertaining the crowds with her singing . . . Nan Garcia is her name, and she's done a bit of traveling to give her a basis for her Spanish numbers . . . It seems that when she first began singing the South-of-the-border tunes, she was inclined to drop a word or two here and there when she found herself unable to pronounce them quickly enough . . . We're happy to report that she now is able to get all the words, and in perfect time with the music.

Nan Garcia
At Pall Mall Room

The Madrillon is celebrating its twenty-eighth anniversary this week. Peter Borras, host and founder of this spot, says his only recipe for success is to give the people what they want . . . That's a policy that is often lost in the mad scramble by some night spot owners for the happy buck . . . Here's hoping they have another 28 years coming up.

Dick "His Lordship" Buckley, who is just about the funniest thing in town, will be staying on at the Cairo at least through tonight . . . With Dick in the review is Marilyn Ross, who has a real capacity for tossing notes around . . . She's done a number of Broadway musicals, including Olsen and Johnson's "Sons o' Fun," and is now thinking of accepting a television spot. If you can make it up to the club tonight, give this gal an extra special listen.

Club Kavakos has a crowd at the door these nights with Tony Pastor furnishing the music, and Bill Kavakos is smiling as he counts off the greenies.

Overholser Gives Recipe for Sanity

Don't Take Self Too Seriously, He Tells Ad Club Men

If you want to keep sane, don't take yourself too seriously.

This advice came yesterday from an authority in the field of mental health, Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Addressing an Advertising Club luncheon at the Hotel Statler, Dr. Overholser came up with another "general rule" for staying well-balanced—"look at the facts and deal with them with a minimum of evasion."

He warned that it is bad business, from a psychological standpoint, to shut one's eyes to situations, whether by getting drunk or developing a neurosis. "Our patients," he explained, "have achieved a complete escape."

Dr. Overholser revealed that the District has a higher ratio of patients confined to mental hospitals than any other place in the country except New York. This, he attributed to the facilities for care here.

Admissions to St. Elizabeths run 1000 annually, and the rate of discharge is about 66 per cent of this figure.

"It's not true," Dr. Overholser emphasized, that "once you get in you don't get out."

Psychiatrist Wouldn't Bar Fairy Stories

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—The nervous disorder that mama's little hopeful churns up between the age of 4 and 6 is a perfectly normal thing in our present culture, a clinical psychiatrist told a five-State meeting here today.

These infantile neuroses spring primarily from the fairy story and myth diet in which the two principal themes are fear of mutilation and fear of loss of affection, said Dr. John M. Murray of the Boston University School of Medicine.

Almost invariably they resolve themselves, he reported. But in cases of maladjustment they may express themselves in later life in such anxieties as an abnormal fear of death or of loneliness.

Then how about keeping such fairy tales from the ears of the impressionable child?

Not at all, Murray said.

"You can't bring up a child in a hothouse. He must accept some of these things as akin to the harsh realities of life and master them under the guidance of his parents."

Dr. Murray granted that Jack in the Beanstalk's giant had a preference for English bone meal in his bread; that the Red Queen in Alice In Wonderland found "off with their heads" a simple means of satisfying a situation, and that Snow White and other young ladies of child literature were threatened with affectionless lives. But present reality is easily that bad, he said.

However, he pointed out that an intelligent parent wouldn't play up the mayhem and slaughter angles but pursue, rather, a middle course.

His view was the child must be indoctrinated into the give and take of life. And in this connection he advised strongly against moving a school-age child from one school to another if he weren't doing particularly well.

This, he said, was simply a means of teaching a child to run away from his problems.

Arlington Rites Honor Adm. Peary Pole Discoverer

The late Rear Adm. Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, was honored at 10 a. m. yesterday in commemorative ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery.

Speaking on the 39th anniversary of the discovery of the North Pole, Rear Adm. J. J. Manning, chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, praised Admiral Peary as a man of "vision, courage and devotion to purpose."

The ceremonies were attended by members of the Navy's Civil Engineer Corps and representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

To Glenn Dale

Ill Women Spurn New Bid to Move

The bedside appeal which Dr. A. Barklie Coulter, District Health Department's tuberculosis bureau head, made to 10 tubercular women patients at Freedmen's Hospital yesterday failed of its purpose.

Dr. Coulter

Dr. Coulter, accompanied by Herman A. Johnson, assistant superintendent of Freedmen's, asked the women, through Miss Nell De Journette, their designated representative, to submit to transfer to Glenn Dale Sanatorium.

But the women said late yesterday that they have appealed their case both to District Commissioners and to Congress, and that until they receive an official reply to this appeal "we shall continue to remain at Freedmen's."

Transfer of the patients to Glenn Dale was ordered as an economy measure because appropriations for care of city patients at Freedmen's already are overdrawn, and Glenn Dale rates are lower.

Hitt-Run Driver Sought In Death of Man, 74

Annapolis, Md., April 6 (AP).—Anne Arundel County police said today they are seeking a driver whose car killed 74-year-old James Donovan on Hammonds Ferry road.

Donovan was struck by a car which failed to stop. He was pronounced dead at St. Agnes Hospital, where he was taken by the Brooklyn Park Fire Department ambulance.

Health, Zoning Violations Cost Landlord $100

James Gilbert, 40, yesterday paid a $100 fine on charges of violating health and zoning regulations and having two unlicensed rooming houses at 26 and 28 Dingman pl. nw.

Municipal Court Judge Thomas D. Quinn, who last week declared the two houses "were the filthiest he had ever seen" after he saw pictures of them, imposed the fine.

He order Gilbert to pay $100 or serve 20 days for the violations at 26 Dingham pl. and gave him an identical sentence, to run concurrently with the first, on 28 Dingman pl. nw.

Gilbert testified that the outhouses of the two homes had been cleaned, windows and doors had been repaired and all the required improvements had been made except the plastering, which had been started.

The home at 26 Dingman pl. is rented from a representative of the owner for $12.50 a month by Gilbert, who lives at 53 F st. nw. He in turn is reported to collect $45 a month rent from the three families which occupy it.

Veteran Dies of Burns

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—August Rush, 68, a pensioned Navy veteran from Eastville, Va., died today of burns suffered in a fire in his room.

Roanoke Man Named

Clem D. Johnston, Roanoke, Va., business executive and member of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed deputy director of civil defense planning.

Director Russell J. Hopley announced the appointment yesterday. Johnston served in the Army in both World Wars. He is a native of Crestwood, Ky.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backaches and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Free Lunch

We are indebted to a California correspondent for two clippings from the Los Angeles Daily News, both bearing United Press stories of the same date. One, filed from Sacramento, reads as follows:

> An Assembly committee approved late last night a $43,500 deficiency appropriation to carry forward California's fight for its tidelands—with the understanding that $25,000 would go for "lunches and entertainment" for Congressmen . . . Budget Chief Fred Links told the Ways and Means Committee that $25,000 of the money would not be audited by the State.

The other story, filed from Washington, says merely that "a Federal grand jury today begins a sweeping investigation into operations of illegal lobbyists, the Justice Department announced."

Velvet Edict

The "spontaneous" decision of some anthracite miners to join the soft-coal strike has a decidedly phony ring. Despite the protestations of innocence by United Mine Workers officials, it would be hard to convince the average citizen that John L. Lewis had nothing to do with this new interruption. The same may be said for the unsuccessful efforts to end the paralysis afflicting the soft-coal mines. Mr. Lewis may pretend all he wishes that the miners are free agents acting on their own volition; but the fact remains that the miners returned to work promptly on Lewis' order after he was cited for contempt of court in 1946. It is obvious that Mr. Lewis relies more on subtle groundwork than on the usual trade-union call to arms. It is obvious, too, that he has conspicuously refrained in this instance from anything faintly resembling a back-to-work order.

When the rhetorical question, "When is a strike not a strike?" is put aside, it is plain that the present shutdown is a naked test of power. Mr. Lewis is aiming his assault not so much at the coal operators as at the Taft-Hartley law. It is possible also to see in the Lewisian strategy an intent to provoke a coal shortage so serious that governmental pressure will be employed to exact a more favorable settlement with the operators than the union alone could maneuver. These overtones make the concern over miners' pensions simply a side issue; they tend also to obscure what may very well have been a considerable amount of intransigence on the part of the coal operators.

If Lewis runs true to his theatrical predilection, he may be expected to make a dramatic last-minute compliance with the present court order directing him to end the strike, probably with some choice Lewisian vituperation. The alternative, of course, is another contempt citation of the sort Lewis found unpalatable. Such a concession to the court, however, will leave two fundamental questions still unsolved. First, what happens after the 80-day truce provided by the Taft-Hartley law expires? Second, has one man or group of men the right in our society to jeopardize the well-being of the Nation? This goes far beyond the justified grievances of the miners and the particular merits or deficiencies of the Taft-Hartley Act to challenge the prestige, and indeed the function, of government itself.

Baby Registration

It can scarcely be doubted that a goodly number of Americans shared at first glance the antipathy expressed by J. C. Capt, director of the Bureau of the Census, to the idea of giving every infant a serial number at birth to identify him throughout his life. Registration is the preamble to regimentation. There is in this somewhat the taint of the total state. Besides, this seeming reduction of the individual to an integer goes against the grain of a people proud of their resistance to uniformity. Presumably this was what led Mr. Capt, when the project of a "Book of Life" was first broached to him some years ago, to reject it out of hand as "hardly in keeping with our manner of life in the United States."

But a second glance puts the matter in a more favorable light. All of us, or nearly all, are registered at birth anyhow. The only difference between the present practice and the plan which the Federal Security Agency has now adopted is that in the one case registration is entirely on a local basis; in the other it is done nationally. And, after all, we've become used to being identified by digits. About 15 million Americans received serial numbers and dog tags when they entered the armed forces during the great war. Social Security has numbered most of the country's wage earners.

The process cannot reasonably be said to entail any humiliation or degradation—or even any diminution of the status of the individual personality. Its justification lies in its common sense, an attribute also traditionally appealing to Americans. To coordinate and systematize the numbering which has long been an accepted part of our lives will be merely to do well what has been done haphazardly, merely to make easy an identification which has hitherto been uncertain. The only real and serious defect to be discerned in the scheme is that the method of enumeration chosen by the FSA will inescapably reveal the age of every man—and woman—to be born in the United States from now on.

Choice of Mr. Hoffman

Not the least of the qualities that commend President Truman's choice of Paul G. Hoffman to administer the Foreign Assistance Act is the wholehearted support he gave to the cause of European reconstruction while the existing policy was in the making. Mr. Hoffman early acquainted himself with the destructive forces at work in Europe. He correctly assessed the perils that unrelieved chaos in Europe would bring to the United States. After carefully weighing the cost of giving aid and the risk of doing nothing, he concluded that the United States ought to draw upon its great resources, under prudent management and safe limitations, to save western Europe from going over the brink of confusion and communism.

Mr. Hoffman's influence was made effective in a number of ways. He served as a member of the President's Committee on Foreign Aid which prepared the Harriman report. Early this year the Committee for Economic Development, of which he is chairman, published a survey directing attention to the urgent need for stepping up production in Europe with American aid. Much careful thinking and planning went into this survey. Later Mr. Hoffman testified before the congressional committees shaping the foreign assistance bill, and many of his views found expression in the legislation.

In addition to this intimate acquaintance with the recovery program, Mr. Hoffman has had a broad experience in dealing with business and public affairs. As president of the Studebaker Corporation, he has been described as a "dynamo of energy and resourcefulness." The history of that company under his direction is ample evidence that he knows how to manage large undertakings. Before and during the war he was one of the first industrialists to turn to the production of weapons on a large scale. His record in that undertaking as well as in peacetime production suggests a capacity for skillful management and smooth human relations that will be urgently needed in directing the foreign assistance program.

While Mr. Hoffman has not previously held public office, his chairmanship of the CED has brought him into close contact with a variety of public affairs. In these undertakings he has stood for enlightened and progressive policies without departing from practical considerations. We think he has earned recognition as a sort of industrial statesman. One other factor strongly in his favor is the high esteem in which he is held by Senator Vandenberg, the legislative father of the Foreign Assistance Act, and many other members of Congress. Happily, this confidence in him is also shared by Secretary of Commerce Harriman with whom the new administrator will necessarily have to work in close cooperation. Undoubtedly, too, the appointment is satisfactory to Secretary of State Marshall, whose task it will be to keep the aid program in line with the United States' over-all foreign policy.

On the whole, we think this important post has been ably filled and hope that the men invited by Mr. Hoffman to take positions on his staff will respond as readily as he has done. In the present state of world affairs, there is no more important work in which Americans can be engaged.

Says Who?

Well, as if the world were not complicated enough, we have now to deal with the observations of Dr. Leo Kanner, an eminent psychiatrist of Johns Hopkins University, to a group of physicians attending a seminar in neuropsychiatry at the Richmond Academy of Medicine. Dr. Kanner, as quoted by the Associated Press, said it's no wonder that so many children are emotionally instable, when you think of all the silly, prying questions they are asked by adult busybodies. As examples, he cited such questions as the following: "And what is your name, my little man?" "And how old are you?" "And do you go to school?" "And are you a good little boy?"

It all goes to show how difficult the pedagogical problem is in an age like this one. Offhand, you might think that the sort of experience described by Dr. Kanner would be just the sort of thing most appropriate to the preparation of the young for citizenship in the coming bureaucratic society in which each adult will spend at least one third of his waking hours filling out Government questionnaires and another third waiting in line. But, no, says Dr. Kanner, the effect is to give the child a sensation of frustration and futility. And it is just plain luck, apparently, if this does not develop into a deep and incurable psychic wound.

After some reflection, we are inclined to agree with Dr. Kanner that adults who ask such questions are taking an unfair advantage of a little brief authority. Children, to be sure, ask much the same questions of one another, but in these cases the child who is questioned is not obliged by social convention to answer respectfully and evasively. Indeed, there is an old folk rhyme, still current, we believe, among the younger sort, which prescribes the etiquette for such occasions. If we remember, it goes somewhat as follows:

Q. What's your name?
A. Puddin' McTaine.
Q. Where you do live?
A. Down the lane.
Q. What's the number?
A. Cucumber.
Q. Who's your brother?
A. Ask me another and so on.

We regret that we did not think in time of advising our readers to respond in some such spirit to the recent inquisitions of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Restraint In Berlin

The expression of sorrow by Soviet Marshal Sokolovsky mitigates the explosive implications of the air disaster in Berlin. Like the Japanese "sympathy" over the Panay incident in 1937, it cannot, of course, atone for the lives lost. The collision of a Russian fighter plane with a British transport, resulting in the death of 14 persons, including two Americans, was as inexcusable as it was needless. There is still room for conjecture over whether the crash was caused by a mistake in judgment on the part of the Russian pilot or was a sort of kamikaze attack in the general Soviet campaign of harassment against the western powers. The restrictions which the Russians have imposed on train travel from the western zones of Germany raises a suspicion, groundless or not, that the crash was not accidental. Nevertheless, in the absence of more definite evidence, Marshal Sokolovsky's apology and his assurance that the Russians will respect the right of free air passage must be accepted at face value.

In any event, the American and British commanders have kept admirably cool heads in a situation that could easily have blossomed into a serious crisis. Their announcement that henceforth all transports from the west would be escorted by fighters filled the bill nicely without resorting to name calling. Although this protection has been relaxed after the apparently conciliatory Russian stand, the presumption is that it will be invoked again at the first sign of interference.

The Russians would like to force the western powers out of Berlin. That is precisely what American policy must be aimed to prevent, both in the interest of governing Germany and to avoid the bad psychological effect of a withdrawal on the rest of Europe. But we must choose the means of resistance that serve us best. Berlin is an island in the Soviet zone, and the Russians presently have a great edge in military power. That puts a premium on the kind of patient, rational effort to safeguard our interests that General Clay has followed—for example, in his wise move to dispel fear among American civilians by announcing that they are free to leave at any time. The aggravation in Berlin is one that calls for unflinching American determination, but determination tempered with restraint.

Token Crisis

New York is faced with a vexatious task in trying to accommodate itself to the proposed 8-cent subway fare. Not only is it necessary to overcome the deep resistance of a populace long accustomed to paying a mere 5 cents to ride from the Battery to the Bronx, but it is also necessary to find a way to continue in use the hundreds of fare slots now geared to receive only nickels. The problem is not one to be discarded lightly. Imagine, for example, how many man hours would be lost in the split-second rush to cram onto trains if the fare boxes somehow were altered to accept 8 cents in change and riders were forced to fish around in their pockets for the exact amount or to tax even further the not inexhaustible patience of the change-makers. Nor, apparently, is the idea of an 8-cent token entirely acceptable. Vending machine interests have voiced the fear that such metal pieces, only slightly smaller than a dime, might be used to foil all manner of coin-operated devices and that it might even be possible—horror of horrors!—for a wily customer to obtain a 20-cent package of cigarettes for two 8-cent tokens. Consequently, they have suggested that the Government mint a new 8-cent coin, larger than a dime but smaller than a nickel.

We don't know what the Treasury thinks of this suggestion, but it does raise an interesting question. For what the operators really are talking about is the purchasing power of money, and in this connection they might be on more solid ground if they instead proposed an 8-cent dime. There is an apt illustration in the adaptation of Vice President Marshall's remark about the 5-cent cigar to the present-day "What the country needs is a good 5-cent nickel." To be sure, in the past the country has had many monetary units not now in use—for example, the half-penny and three-cent pieces, the old half-dime and the various gradations of gold eagles. We suspect, however, that the Treasury is not anxious to invite anew all the hullabaloo that would be raised over what metal and what composition to use—witness the wartime zinc-steel penny. Moreover, we could readily understand a desire on the part of the Treasury to forgo an additional gadget in favor of making what money is now in circulation more effective. Anyhow, it looks as if the Treasury will be spared the necessity of a decision, for at the moment New York politics seem to be pressing for a continuation of the 5-cent fare—and the subway deficit.

Spain And ERP

After reading the April 1 editorial entitled, "Undermining ERP," I believe I am justified in my assumption that The Washington Post is against inclusion of Franco Spain in the benefits of ERP.

Spain is in western Europe whether we like it or not. Her government is recognized by practically all the nations of the world. She trades with the world. Can one nation be morally excluded from aid for reconstruction, while her sister nations are built up?

If we would open our eyes we would realize that Spain fought communism (under the Fascist-tinted Franco, if you want) over a decade ago, and that she has been one of western Europe's most anti-Communist countries since that time. Franco has ruled for 10 years without any serious unrest.

Since you brought in the altruistic motives of governments in your editorial, are the governments of Greece and China so very fine? I think they are accepted as the lesser of two evils.

You mention the questionable military support from Spain in the event of a war with Russia. It seems to me that if such is to be the case, the United States should think twice before being so choosy.

As regards the food for propaganda which such an inclusion would precipitate, it seems to me that Communist disseminators can work just about anything into propaganda. If our own intelligence agencies would put forth a bit of thought they could counteract any such propaganda which might result from such a move. In this cold war things are as broad as they are long.

False Defense In UMT

I have been denied the right to appear before either the House or the Senate Armed Services Committees. (My scheduled appearance April 2 before the Senate committee was canceled immediately after I submitted my advance statement.)

The program of military conscription is an act leading to war. That program is a lie from one end to the other. I wish that I had an opportunity to prove that statement in detail, which I could easily do by quotations from the militarists themselves. Two statements in The Washington Post of April 3 prove it quite conclusively. On page 9 Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is quoted as saying "a war within the next 3 to 5 years, at least, will be much like the last." On page 6 Gen. George C. Kenney strategic air commander, is quoted as saying: "A large scale atomic bomb attack could result in the destruction of a dozen of our major cities and a casualty list of millions in the opening days of a future war."

General Eisenhower fought World War II largely with the techniques of World War I. He now proposes that we fight World War III with the techniques of World War II; i. e. of World War I. Any child in the street knows that General Kenney is telling the truth and that Eisenhower is not.

Military conscription has no relationship whatsoever with the kind of a war depicted by General Kenney. The war would be over before a single reservist could be placed in action.

That is not all of the story. Neither General Eisenhower nor General Kenney touch upon the obvious method of Russian retaliation — sabotage. We must presume that the Russian military leaders are acting intelligently.

She may have the atom bomb or, more likely, radioactive dust or other materials. Certainly she has germs. Anyone can manufacture them. Certainly she has gases. The United Nations World, in its February issue, publishes a convincing story on the new gas, "Tabun," which drives people to mass suicide before it kills them.

We are already mad if we do not accept the fact that Russian saboteurs have already planted their retaliatory weapons in every major city of the United States, with Washington the primary target, and that they are ready to release them at a moment's notice. It is also reasonable to presume that Nazi saboteurs, operating from Argentina perhaps, may have planted such weapons in both Russia and the United States in order to win the war, finally, against both. Any Sunday may become another Pearl Harbor Sunday, multiplied a thousandfold.

HERBERT HOLDRIDGE.
Washington.

Lewis' Answer

When Lewis told the Coal Inquiry Board he had nothing to do with the miners' strike, it amounted to the same thing as a Russian representative saying he was not conversant with Stalin's methods.

Who, if not Lewis, is responsible for the miners' strike? Who, if not the United States Government is responsible for Lewis' conduct?

If the globe can be called a teapot, then he is the tempest therein. This tempest is far-reaching. It is an enemy of peace. It should be stopped once and for all before it causes irreparable damage.

Tax-Exempt Churches

Lola Boswell in her letter of March 31 on tax-exempt property was far from right in one statement she made, namely, "It is not democratic for the man who does not go to church to pay tax to maintain a religious faith to which he does not subscribe and from which he derived no benefit."

No benefit? The mere fact that the church exists, whether he attends its services or not, gives him many benefits. Because of the influence of the church his tax rate is lower; danger to his life and his property is lessened; the standard of living in the entire community is raised. Without it we would have to maintain a larger police force, more fire departments, etc.

Her statement is analogous to saying, "I have no children in school; why should I be taxed to support an educational system?" or "I'll never travel on Route 99; why should I pay taxes to support it?" JULIA P. PATTIE.

Easter Parade

I'm not opposed to a fashion parade such as was held in all of our major cities on Easter, but why must it be associated in any way with the religious festival of Easter? Why not designate the first Sunday in April (except when Easter falls on that Sunday) as the day for a spring parade or fashion parade or a parade of any other name that would be more appropriate than Easter parade? I do not believe that a fashion show, with prizes to the winners, is the way Christ would have us remember Easter Day.

Showdown With Weakness

One aspect of our current policy gives me the gravest concern. It has been obvious that our military preparedness policy has been based upon the assumption that there would almost certainly be no war with Soviet Russia for from 5 to 10 years because the Russians would not be prepared to fight a war sooner than that. Consequently it was apparently assumed that the Soviet government when confronted by firmness would always back down in a crisis. Knowing the Russians I have always felt that this was a most dangerous assumption to make.

Even though our military have now at least partially abandoned this dangerous assumption it appears that it still beclouds our thinking sufficiently to constitute a real threat to national security. The additional expenditures for defense which have so far been recommended are obviously on a scale the limitations of which could only be defended on the assumption that we believe we can always choose whether we must fight or not for at least two or three years more.

The analogy of the present situation to that which preceded Pearl Harbor is truly frightening. Prior to Pearl Harbor we had finally taken up a position in which we were standing firmly in the path of continued Japanese aggression. The arguments demonstrate overwhelmingly that this was the right and the logical position for us to have taken. It should have been obvious at that time, however, if the Japanese did not change their basic foreign policy that there would be war. Yet our military, naval and air preparation for an almost certain eventuality was truly lamentable.

At the moment we have allowed ourselves to take up a position in Berlin from which it would be most difficult for us to retreat. We can hardly do so before the Italian elections on April 18 without suffering a stunning blow to our prestige. Perhaps the Russians will back down, but since they hold so many tactical trumps in the present situation in Berlin it would certainly be madness to assume that they will do so.

Perhaps we can supply our people as well as the British and French by air lift. How can we possibly feed the German population of the three zones in Berlin, however? Perhaps we believe that the Russians will be forced to do so. In a contest to see who can watch the inhabitants of our zone in Berlin starve the longest, all my experience would warn me not to bet against the Russians.

All this leads to this conclusion —whenever we come to a showdown with the Russians it is absolutely essential that in every case we should have provided for the contingency that they would not back down. This is the situation now in Berlin, where we may have to give in or resort to force. If we are not prepared for war, and God knows that such a decision even if we were prepared to fight could only be made when we had exhausted all other less dangerous alternatives, logic demands that we should avoid "showdowns" until we are in a position to be firm without inviting disaster.

One can only hope that all essential alternative actions to meet possible contingencies are being provided for. For example, if the Russians continue to be adamant, have we decided when and under what circumstances we are going to evacuate Berlin? If we are not prepared to evacuate we are liable to have no alternative to confronting the appalling alternative of war.

If current press accounts can be trusted our national defense policy is not presently one which faces up to this terrible contingency. We can only hope that Divine Providence will in the present crisis prevent the kind of failure of coordination of our foreign policy with our military policy which so recently produced catastrophe.

Mars' Hand In Politics

By Malvina Lindsay

Search For Superman

POLITICAL enthusiasm now being shown for two generals who were war heroes reveals much about American emotions in the present crisis. Strangely with war clouds thickening, many voters are turning to military men for leadership. Heretofore, when war rumblings were heard the tendency has been to turn the other way—as in 1916 when the cry, "He kept us out of war" helped elect Woodrow Wilson.

Past Presidents who were first famous generals—Washington, Jackson, "Zack" Taylor ("Old Rough and Ready"), William Henry Harrison ("Tippecanoe") and Grant —were chosen when war was seemingly behind, when the road ahead looked fairly peaceful. They rode into office on past glory more than on future promise. But now what is uppermost in the minds of many of those who call for Eisenhower or MacArthur? The vision of the Russian bear.

Allowing for the political groups who would hang on to the coattails of a public man with whom they think they can win, also for those who are carried away by hero worship, and for those who honestly see in either general the high presidential qualities needed, there is yet a great mass of citizens who regard either MacArthur or Eisenhower as the answer to their search for a superman, a Tarzan, a Steve Canyon, a Buzz Sawyer who will "make the Russians behave," or at least get the better of them.

GENERAL "IKE," it is true, has plenty of political "it" in addition to his military strong-man appeal. Both he and General MacArthur have proved able administrators. But little is known of either general's views on the critical questions on which war or peace may hinge. Nothing is known generally on how either stands on domestic matters, such as prices, wages, monopoly, labor, business, civil rights. Yet many voters are willing to take one or the other of these generals on a sort of blind date for the Presidency. Why?

For one thing, they will tell you, because they "like Ike" (their faces light up on this), and think he would make a "grand" President, and—well, they'd like to have him in the White House "in case things got worse."

Or, they think MacArthur would make a good President "at this time," because he could "handle the Russians." Or, they'd "feel a lot safer" with a military man running things. . . . Or maybe MacArthur could "scare the Russians." . . . Or maybe "Ike" could "bring 'em to terms," . . . And so on.

SUCH attitudes reveal the extent of childish fear on the part of many Americans, as well as their infantile lack of responsibility as citizens. It is the old story of the ivy reaching out for a strong oak. Roosevelt, the "great white father," is gone. Now they will take a Goliath, a great warrior who will go ahead and hold off the enemy.

This turning to the generals as a hope for the future also may mark a growing acceptance of an armed camp status for the United States. Now shortly after the hysterical rush to demobilize the armed forces and the economy, the bugles are sounding again. Citizens are beginning to realize that the arming this time is for the long stretch, that the warriors are coming into more permanent importance in a country that has long been cold to them. Part of the great appeal of General Eisenhower is that he is a "brass hat" easy for civilians to take. Since the times seem to demand generals, many citizens would prefer one who is democratic in faith and in spirit.

Right now it seems unlikely that the next man in the White House will be a military hero. But the campaign is revealing how much reliance many Americans are putting on the rattle of the saber to insure them safety and protection. It shows how little aware they are of the great complex economic and social problems involved in making and keeping the peace.

German Art Benefit

I wish to invite support for the excellent suggestion made by a non-American member of the United Nations Secretariat that the German collection of pictures be shown at the Metropolitan Museum in New York City for the benefit of the United Nations Appeal for Children. Since German children would share in receiving help along with all other needy children regardless of race or nationality, the German owners of the pictures would, I believe, be thankful to have them serve such a humanitarian purpose.

In addition it would seem a fine thing to permit as many people as possible in this country to have the privilege of viewing the collection—which is being carefully preserved and will be just as carefully returned to the German people at undoubtedly great expense to the American Government—especially when in so doing they will also be benefiting ill and hungry children the world over.

Transit Radios

I wish to add my voice to those who have been protesting against the installation of radios in public conveyances. It is proposed to add to the discomfort of riding in crowded buses and streetcars, into which a breath of fresh air rarely penetrates, the intolerable nuisance of having to listen to advertising and so-called music whether we like it or not. If this plan is carried out I will certainly avoid the use of public conveyances whenever there is any possibility of doing so.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Treaty With Western Europe

THE NEXT and biggest step of all is just ahead. The nations of the newly formed Western European Union—Britain France and the three Benelux countries—want a formal treaty of alliance with the United States. The American policy makers of the executive branch, after careful consideration of the problem on the highest level, have already made up their minds that this revolutionary departure from the old traditions of American foreign relations is now urgently necessary.

If Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and the other congressional leaders approve the project, therefore, a treaty of alliance between the two branches of the great Atlantic community will be placed before the Congress at this session. If so great a venture is considered too difficult at this time, the President will seek bipartisan support for a declaration of American military support for the Western European Union. But what is really wanted is a formal Senate-ratified alliance, with the framework of the United Nations, on the rough pattern of the Rio pact.

This will not mean, however, that the United States will merely join Western Union as the sixth participating nation. The Western Union nations have special political and economic interests which do not concern the United States. Indeed, it is hoped that in time, Western Union may form the kernel of a United States of Europe quite independent from this country. For this reason, among others, the proposed pact, if the Senate leaders approve, will be a written understanding between the United States on one hand and the western European nations on the other.

SUCH a pact will amount in practice to a firm commitment by the United States to go to war if Western Union is attacked by Russia. Inevitably, it will involve close collaboration, both military and political, between this country and Western Union, and probably revive military lend-lease as well. Consultations are already quietly under way among the five Western Union nations looking to the establishment of a permanent secretariat, responsible for joint planning and joint staff work. This body is likely to be set up soon, probably in Paris or The Hague. American political and military officers will undoubtedly be attached to this body in a special capacity.

Largely depending on the advice of Senator Vandenberg, the idea of a formal alliance may be postponed. In that case, the device of a declaration of support for the Western European Union will be resorted to, and something similar to the relation between the United States and Canada exists. Yet President Franklin Roosevelt made what amounted to a clear commitment to defend Canada against aggression when he asserted that the United States could not "stand idly by" if Canada were attacked. During the war a system of joint military consultation was developed, and although no treaty has been signed this joint staff system still prevails.

In the same way, an official announcement could be made in effect committing the United States to go to the aid of Western Union if attacked. A joint staff system would then be established, on the pattern of the American-Canadian system, or the existing Anglo-American combined Chiefs of Staff.

YET A more formal pact, ratified by the United States Senate, now seems the more likely outcome. The reasons are simple. A unilateral declaration by President Truman, on the pattern of Roosevelt's statement on Canada, would have the virtue of not requiring Senate ratification. But it would have little meaning unless it had obvious and overwhelming bipartisan support. This is so simply because it is now probable to the point of certainty that Truman will not be President of the United States a year from now. If a unilateral declaration is made, some technique for demonstrating bipartisan support must be evolved. One possibility is a resolution sponsored by Vandenberg in the Senate.

But it is obvious that in any event unequivocal support in the Senate will be required. It is equally obvious that a formal pact, ratified by the Senate, will have a far more important political and psychological effect, both in Europe and on the Kremlin, than a simple statement of intention. It would strengthen the Western Union immeasurably, and lay a foundation for the organization of the whole non-Soviet world.

It is illogical to hold back, moreover, for the simple reason that the United States is already inescapably committed to the defense of the western European countries against armed Russian attack. Thus a written treaty will merely dramatize and place on a formal footing an already existing situation. The wiser congressional leaders and especially Senator Vandenberg may be expected to recognize this fact. That is why, although there is little doubt that such astigmatic statesmen as Senators Wherry and Brooks will hold out to the end, the dramatic step of publicly recognizing the paramount American interest in the freedom of western Europe may soon be taken, with all its accruing benefits.

Mexican Radio Service Tops Some in U. S., Congress Told

Mexico is giving better radio service to some parts of the United States than domestic stations are, James H. Dewitt, jr., president of Nashville's WSM, told Congress yesterday.

Dewitt was a witness before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee in opposition to a bill introduced by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) requiring that so-called "clear channel" stations share their frequencies with other stations.

Under existing international agreement, if the United States opened up the "clear channels" for multiple use, Dewitt pointed out, Mexico, Cuba and Canada could also use the same frequencies.

These could never again be retrieved for exclusive use here, Dewitt said.

"Channels are a natural resource which we can never recapture once we give them away," argued DeWitt. "Giving away channels is like mining a lot of uranium and giving it to Russia."

James D. Shouse, president of the Crosley Broadcasting Co, in Cincinnati, Ohio, told the committee the clear channel stations are not an economic threat to the local radio station. Crosley's WLW station is now and would have to remain a 50 kilowatt station under the Johnson bill, but has once been and would like to be again a 500,000 watt station.

A minor committee flare-up occurred during the Shouse testimony. Acting Chairman Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) gave Shouse permission to read a 31-page statement into the record.

Johnson, ranking minority member, insisted the reading of the statement violated committee rules and left the room.

"If the rules continue to be violated, I'm not going to stay," he said as he left.

Capehart said he had no intention of violating the rules and late in the afternoon Johnson returned.

Buying Power Nears '42 Low

Consumer purchasing power today is less than at any time since 1942, according to new statistics compiled by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Climbing prices in the first three months of 1948 not only wiped out an actual gain in per capita income after taxes, but sent the purchasing power of that income reeling backward.

The figures are a part of the council's new monthly booklet called "Economic Indicators." The study will be the groundwork for a report to President Truman today.

Sources close to the council expect the report to urge speedy enactment of the standby price, rationing, wage, material and credit controls which Mr. Truman asked of Congress last November.

The report, it was understood, will say the controls are needed not only to meet the problems of high prices and scarce goods now, but to be ready for the additional strains the defense spending will throw on the Nation's economy.

The study will be discussed Friday by the President's Cabinet.

The monthly volume of economic facts is not for general circulation. Copies of the first issue, out yesterday, went to the desks of about 100 top administration officials.

The report showed that per-capita dollar income in the first three months of 1948 indicated an annual rate of $1274, or $58 more than last year's. But the catch is that while income went up, prices went up even faster. Hence real purchasing power suffered a net loss.

Here's how per-capita income after taxes has looked since 1942 on the basis of what a dollar would buy in the first half of 1947:

1943	$1211
1944	$1308
1945	$1306
1946	$1251
1947	$1187
1948	*$1177

*Indicated rate.

The report also says there are signs that the rate of spending and savings is slowing down.

Calling Washington

Loyalty In A Circle

ADMINISTERING the huge European Recovery Program will take a staff of about 800 in this country and approximately the same number abroad. Even before the No. 1 and No. 2 men get organized, the drive has begun to recruit this force.

Childs

Immediately the question of clearance for loyalty comes up. Increasingly, with the spread of fear and suspicion, this becomes an obstacle in the way of quick, effective government.

As spelled out in the ERP bill, that obstacle looks particularly tough. It is a beautiful example of the lack of confidence which seems to plague Congress.

Under the loyalty provision of the bill, there is a period of grace of three months when members of the staff may go to work. This is a modification of the language put in by the House, which specified that no one could be employed at all without first undergoing a loyalty check and certification.

If that language had stayed in, the start of the program might have been delayed for weeks or months. Both in the State Department and the FBI, there was a great sense of relief when the three-month grace period was substituted.

There is still, however, a big hurdle in the loyalty provision. All employes must be investigated during the three-month grace period. They cannot be retained after that time except on the following terms:

"... UNLESS such individual has been investigated as to loyalty and security by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a report thereon has been made to the Secretary of State and the Administrator, and until the Secretary of State or the Administrator has certified in writing and filed copies thereof with the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the House Committee on Foreign Affairs that after full consideration of such report he believes such individual is loyal to the United States, its Constitution and form of Government and is not now and has never been a member of any organization advocating contrary views."

The catchword in the above is "believes." Legal advisers in the State Department are of the opinion that this means the Secretary or the Administrator must personally vouch for the loyalty of each individual employe.

That appeared to be the view of members of Congress who wrote the provision into law. They wanted a personal guarantee from the top man.

Ordinarily, of course, certification of loyalty after a thorough FBI inquiry would be delegated to an administrative assistant. In the State Department this responsibility falls on John E. Peurifoy, Assistant Secretary for Administration. But Peurifoy's legal adviser has informed him that in this instance, because of the language in the ERP Act, Secretary Marshall coud not have his assistant act for him.

EVEN IF the Secretary and the Administrator should divide the task, it would put a great burden on two men who already have far too much to do. To look over several hundred FBI reports and personally vouch for that number of employes would consume the invaluable time of officers charged with top responsibility for American foreign policy.

At the same time a heavy new burden is placed on the overworked FBI. Under President Truman's loyalty order the FBI has thus far checked 1,404,162 Government employes, with nearly 400,000 still to go. The FBI must clear all employes of and applicants for work with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Budget Bureau cut the FBI from the 50 million dollars requested by J. Edgar Hoover to about 43 millions. This means that the number of agents will be reduced by 413 on July 1. FBI employes are now working on a six-day week while other Government workers are on a regular five-day week.

Buck passing between Congress and certain Government agencies also adds to Hoover's burden. Take the factual example of agency XYZ. A committee of Congress believes that agency XYZ is harboring certain disloyal employes. Agency XYZ, reluctant to act, tells the committee that it has asked the FBI to get more information. This means putting six agents on the case, and the work load of FBI goes up.

Government cannot be efficient under this increasingly oppressive burden. It will finally end with loyalty investigators investigating other loyalty investigators, and the net result will be a stalemate of suspicion and distrust.

The Playhouse Sets the Date!

By Richard L. Coe

BIG NEWS THIS MORNING is the posh opening of downtown's newest theater—the Playhouse on 15th st. between New York ave. and H st. nw.

The Playhouse will open Tuesday night, April 27, with the entire proceeds going to the National Symphony.

The picture will be "The Search," which, on its opening in New York last week, prompted the Times' Bosley Crowther to remark: "While it's still a little early to pick the best film of 1948, it seems sublimely wishful to anticipate that any film this year will have more to recommend it than has 'The Search.'"

That April 27 opening will be the flossiest night of the year's theater season, for the ticket price is going to be positively stratospheric. Exactly what your ducat will cost will be announced within a few days.

The heavy freight to rub elbows with the Capital's glamour gods and goddesses will, of course, be for the benefit of the National Symphony's prolonged drive for next season's funds. At the moment it seems unlikely there'll be symphony this summer at the Water Gate, but by donating the theater to a community cause, the Playhouse folk are getting off on the right foot so far as Washington is concerned.

The Playhouse, to be sure, hardly needs any introduction to the curious who've been wondering when, if ever, that 15th st. facade would be unveiled. The building began life as a bank, then it dished up meals and floor shows under such names at the Del Rio, Delmonico and the Duet. (Saving various managements the trouble of buying new silver and linens!)

The Little's Sister

Last fall the building began its conversion, and the same things that have kept you from building that house or adding that extension have held up its opening.

Nor does the Playhouse's hostess need an introduction. She is Louise Noonan Miller, creator of the Capital's first art house, the Little. With her new (well, he's comparatively new) partner, Ilya Lopert, the New York import magnate, Mrs. Miller will divide her energies between the Little and the Playhouse. While the Playhouse doubtless will be getting the cream, you can count on Mrs. Miller's affections seeing to it that the Little holds its own. Next week the Little will be playing "To Live in Peace," a prize-winner elsewhere

We'll give you more on the 450-seat Playhouse and its opening as time goes by, but you can count on a star-studded opening, with the Capital's most noted residents on hand to give a shove for the Symphony's fund and the new theater's prestige.

SPEAKING OF NOTABLES, you'll see a packet of them entering the Capitol's White House Correspondents' preview of "State of the Union" tonight . . . The governmental covey from the Hill to Foggy Bottom is on the invitation list and Producer-Director Frank Capra will be in the house to watch his latest film's effect on the political-minded . . . The Capitol's schedule, by the way, cuts into the final day of "Three Daring Daughters." . . . Last showing of this one will be at 4:15 and the theater will be closed until the 8:30 preview.

THOMAS MITCHELL spoke softly in the Shoreham's Palladian Room about his plans to follow the closing of "An Inspector Calls." . . . "I'm for hire," he remarked, but he didn't clarify his production plans next season in association with Lewis Deak and Lee Shubert . . . It's often forgotten that Actor Mitchell wrote two of his stage vehicles, "Little Accident" and "Cloudy With Showers." . . . The first was a big hit . . . Funny thing about Mitchell's appearance at the eavesdropping Palladian cocktail hour is that he was only going to stay 10 minutes . . . He stayed a full hour to hear Elizabeth Arden, and she didn't talk about her horses, either.

AMATEUR LIFE: Casting tonight, Thursday and Friday at 8 o'clock for the American Theater Wing's "Petticoat Fever" and "The Male Animal," which are being produced by May Redmond Smith, director of the Washington Hospital Committee; 2020 Massachusetts ave. is the place . . . Tonight at 6:30 in the YWCA Barker Hall sees the annual Frolic and Dinner of the One-Act Play contest sponsored by the D. C. Recreation Dept. . . . Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15, Sidwell-Friends School is doing Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton," at 3901 Wisconsin ave. Director Virginia D. Roser's cast includes Al Burland, Nancy Fisher, Morton Miller, Konrad Kaplowitz, Mary Kass, Charlotte Emerson, Neal McCord, John Hayes, Margie Walker and Louise Provinse . . . Saturday night the National Cathedral School for Girls is giving Milne's "The Ivory Door" at Whitby Auditorium, with Mary Louise Lee, daughter of the Josh Lees, and Pola Fotitch, daughter of the former Yugoslav Ambassador and Mme. Constantine Fotitch.

YOU KNOW HIM WELL: His horse here is Champion. He was here last with his rodeo, but Saturday and Sunday he'll be at Uline's with something different—his "Western Variety Show." With him he'll have personalities from his films and radio program—among them Rufe Davis, the Pinafores and the Cass County Boys. His name? Gene Autry

Hillbilly Hoedowns Will Rock Constitution Hall Saturdays

Constitution Hall is going hillbilly—one night a week.

The DAR concert hall yesterday signed contracts with Connie B. Gay, of Arlington's radio station WARL and Radio Ranch, whereby the hillbilly impresario will take over Constitution Hall for 52 Saturday nights beginning April 17.

Gay will call his weekly revues "Gay Time," and hopes to rival the success of Nashville's "Grand Ole Opry." Gay hopes, he said, "to have the hall Saturday nights for the next 10 years."

Fred E. Hand, manager of the concert hall, in announcing the lease, said that he expects the DAR to back him in his move, though what the organization might have to say about it he didn't know. (The annual DAR convention will be held at Constitution Hall the same week "Gay Time" begins its Saturday night series.)

Manager Hand said he thought the hillbilly shows would do "a landoffice business, if one is to judge by the success of the 'Grand Ole Opry' night of some months ago." The Nashville group sold out the hall for two performances in one evening to the tune of $22,000 for the night—$10,000 more than Pianist Paderewski drew to the hall.

Clyde Moody, high in the hillbilly world, is to be musical director for "Gay Time." In addition to established hillbilly personalities, he expects to use from 25 to 50 local AFM artists and acts each Saturday.

Entire programs, from 8 to 11, will be broadcast over WWDC-FM, said Gay, who hopes to develop the program over a coast-to-coast FM chain.

Artists already signed for the April 17 opening include T. Tex Tyler and Grandpa Jones, with Hawkshaw Hawkins, Wesley Tuttle and Merle Travis contracted for future weeks.

For several years before the war, Constitution Hall echoed to the music of folk singers and hillbilly bands at the annual folk festivals sponsored by The Washington Post.

The 'Volpone' Review as it appeared in the N.Y. Herald Tribune.

Volpone's little joke has reached the screen by a devious route in an English-titled French version at the Ambassador. This "Volpone," with the late Harry Baur in the title role and Louis Jouvet playing Mosca, was adapted by A. Barsacq from the Jules Romains-Stefan Zweig adaption of Ben Jonson's play. Under the direction of Maurice Tourneur, it is a lusty, detailed caricature of passionate greed. With all its leers and sneers at humanity heavily underlined, this "Volpone" is a fine cinema translation of a theatrical classic.

Just as the names of the various characters are taken from animals, their characteristics have an inflated, comic-strip quality; and both performances and action have been nicely stylized to match the outline. Baur is a heavy, ugly, long-nosed, nimble Fox, and Jouvet gives an unsmiling, sinister though light-footed portrait of the Fly. Much of the movement is, of course, confined to Volpone's bedroom, where the would-be heirs come to offer homage to the supposedly dying merchant. With the strongly suggestive mannerisms and grimaces of the actors and a camera which never stands still, the piece is always lively in spite of its limited scope.

In support of the leading players are Charles Dullin as the aged, whining usurer Corbaccio; Fernand Ledoux as the jealous but avaricious husband Corvine, and several others who hold up the usually high standard of lesser characterizations in French films. When the camera has a chance to move away from Volpone's house, Tourneur uses it to re-create in pictures the architectural and social flavor of old, powerful Venice. The mockery here is the mockery of a round of Dick Tracy villains, caught without a hero to attack and grinding their meannesses against each other. This pitiless unclothing of human nature may be seen in rich, colorful moving pictures at the Ambassador.

Tuck Signs 25 Measures Of Assembly

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—Governor Tuck signed into law today 22 Senate bills and 3 House measures passed by the recent General Assembly. Among them was Senate bill 44, the recodification bill which carries in it the amendments setting up the governmental reorganization program.

Including in the list also was the bill by Senator Charles R. Fenwick of Arlington, to permit the State Department of Public Welfare to send morally delinquent girls to institutions outside the State for rehabilitation.

Motor Carrier Bill Signed

Another bill signed reimposed a 2 per cent gross receipts tax on motor vehicle carriers, but Tuck served notice he would enter into reciprocity agreements with all other States during the remainder of his term.

At the same time the Governor expressed a wish that the General Assembly had seen fit to pass instead House bill 368 which died in the Senate finance committee. This bill would have increased license tag taxes on common and contract carriers and, said Tuck, "would have raised more revenue for highways than Senate bill 205 will raise if reciprocity should be granted other States.

In a statement accompanying signing the bill, the Governor said in part:

"I am signing Senate Bill No. 205 with the intention of entering into full reciprocal arrangements with all other States during my term.

Darder Action Cited

"This bill reimposes the gross receipts tax on common and contract carriers of property by motor vehicle. At the same time it decreases the license tag taxes to the scale set out in section 35-A of the motor vehicle code. The gross receipts tax was repealed, and the tag license taxes were increased, at the session of 1946, on my recommendation.

In Prince Georges

Assessment Increased on Apartments

Tax assessments on Kaywood Gardens and Prospect Gardens, large apartment developments in Prince Georges County, were ordered increased yesterday.

Prince Georges County Commissioners upheld County Assessor Louis W. Kutsch in fixing an assessment of $3,310,935 for Kaywood Gardens and $374,880 for Prospect Gardens.

Kaywood Gardens previously had been assessed at $3,075,725 and Prospect Gardens at $342,700.

T. Howard Duckett, attorney for both properties, told the commissioners he would appeal the increase to the State Tax Commission. Later, however, he told reporters he would not know for several days whether or not he would appeal.

Taxicab Inspector Harry G. Mercer reported he issued 57 licenses for taxicabs and 91 operators in March, collecting $1803.50.

Montgomery Plans School Bond Issue

Montgomery County commissioners have reached tentative agreement to issue bonds of one and a half million dollars after July 1 for school construction, County Supervisor I. G. McNayr announced yesterday.

Another one and a half million, balance of an emergency three-million-dollar request from the Montgomery County Board of Education, will be issued at a later date to save interest costs, under the tentative plan.

McNayr said the school construction program, which is being rushed in the face of rapidly increasing school enrollments, could be carried on until July 1 on approximately $500,000 borrowed from local banks.

He explained the half million could be borrowed at 2 per cent annual interest and be repaid from the initial one and a half million bond issue.

The program, he said, would add 70 new classrooms by this fall.

Mrs. Helen C. Walker, president of the county board of education, recently asked the commissioners to approve immediately a three-million-dollar bond issue to prevent the school building program from bogging down.

Truck Driver Held In Virginia Road Death

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6 (AP). John Steele, 24-year-old Wilmington, Del., truck driver, was arrested by police here yesterday on a warrant charging him with operating a motor vehicle in a careless and reckless manner resulting in an accident and the death of Frank M. Vess, 26, of Hampton.

Steele was placed in custody when he was dismissed from a hospital.

Police said a truck driven by Steele struck a motor scooter operated by Vess on the Route 1 by-pass near here Friday night.

Gets 18 Years in Slaying

Martinsville, W. Va., April 6 (AP). A 22-year-old Martinsburg man, Leonard Collie, was sentenced in Henry County Circuit Court yesterday to serve 18 years in the State penitentiary on a charge of second-degree murder.

Collie pleaded guilty in connection with the death of Nathan Stegall, Collinsville insurance agent, who died in Martinsville General Hospital of a bullet wound on July 12, 1947. Collie was arrested two days after the death.

Letter to TAFT

IN RE: The Draft: UMT, and Military Extravagance. With the names of some typical Grass Roots Americans who have signed it.

April 6, 1948

Hon. Robert A. Taft
Senate Office Building
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator Taft:

We who sign this letter want to congratulate you on your cool and courageous political leadership during recent weeks and months. We agree with you that there is no ground for hysteria in the present international situation.

The demand for the draft is based on the theory that war with Russia is imminent. Against the correctness of this sudden discovery we quote General Lucius D. Clay. In reply to a series of questions, General Clay declared that "the Russians had never threatened the use of force, or suggested the possibility of the use of force in their dealings with him."

As far as UMT is concerned, we support wholeheartedly, the position which you and other Congressional leaders have taken in both Houses in opposition to this menace to our liberties.

When President Truman undertook to defend with both military and economic means all peoples that may be threatened with Communism, either from within or from without, he little knew what he was saying, nor had he consulted the American people as to the circumstances under which we would be willing to expend our resources and our lives.

This global and unlimited offer has exposed us to blackmail one the part of anti-Communist governments and to recurring "criss" which Russia can create at will.

In the light of common sense it seems to us reasonable to ask the Republican leadership in Congress to "stop, look and listen" before launching a new war economy while the impoverishment of our peacetime economy is still painfully felt by us all.

In our own country, two million children are without schooling. Our shortage of homes is critical. Our slums are an appalling commentary on the callousness of the policy-makers in the richest nation in the world. Our hospitals are desperately under-staffed and utterly inadequate to meet the needs of 140,000,00 people. Soil conservation and flood control are among our crying needs.

We appeal, therefore, to you, Senator Taft, and to your colleagues in the Republican Steering Committee, to reject both the draft and UMT, and to refuse to increase our appropriations for the armed serves above the present huge total of $11,000,000,000. There are grounds for thinking that the increased demands are due in part to the jealousy that exists among the armed services and to the process of addition to which they have resorted to solve their interdepartmental problems. Congress should use control of the purse strings to curb, before it is too late, the rapidly growing military control of our whole economy.

Branch Bank Of Anacostia Opens Today

By S. Oliver Goodman

The new branch of Anacostia National Bank will open this morning at 4019 South Capitol st., it was announced yesterday by John M. Harris, who will be its manager.

Originally scheduled to open in January, construction was delayed by weather conditions and material shortages. Work had been in progress since last August.

In addition to Harris, the branch will be staffed by Robert T. Koontz, jr., assistant manager; Mrs. Ella Andrews, Mrs. Diana Lott and Hilbert A. Corley, tellers. Harris has been associated with Anacostia National for 17 years. He is a graduate of National University Law School, attended American Institute of Banking and is a member of the District of Columbia Bar.

The new office will be known as the Congress Heights Branch. It will serve a Southeast area whose population has expanded rapidly during and after the war. Anacostia National also operates a facility that serves the Bellevue area around the Naval Research Laboratory. Latest statement shows assets in excess of $11,100,000 and deposits of more than $10,500,000.

MERGENTHALER: Booked orders of Mergenthaler Linotype Co. for new machines will require about two and a half years of full production at current capacity to fill, the company reports. Although the firm is trying to step up production, new orders continue to outnumber deliveries. Dollar volume of sales for the first half of fiscal year ended March 31 was 25 per cent ahead of like period of preceding year. Mergenthaler stock, widely held in this area, is traded on Washington Stock Exchange.

ODD LOTS: Hemphill, Noyes & Co. and associates yesterday offered 40,000 shares of Colonial Stores, Inc., cumulative 5 per cent preferred stock at $49.50 a share. Also, company offered common stockholders rights to subscribe at $21.50 a share to an additional 49,431 common shares, on basis of one new share for each 12½ shares held of record April 2 . . . American Railway Car Institute reported 9302 new freight cars in March, more than triple same month last year . . . G. C. Murphy Co. reported sales totaled $26,942,902 in first three months, a jump of 21.8 per cent over like 1947 period . . . Gasoline, made from coal will cost more than petroleum gasoline but supply will be sufficient to last more than 1000 years, predicts Dr. R. W. Krebs of Esso Laboratories. . . . Bache & Co. research department has issued a survey of select stocks that would benefit by any military spending.

RAIL EARNINGS: Class 1 railroads had an estimater net income in February of $17,500,000 compared with $17,200,000 in the same month in 1947, the Association of American Railroads reported. The association said that for 12 months ended with February, the railroad rate of return based on property investment averaged 3.37 per cent. This compares with a rate of 2.69 per cent for 12 months ended Feb. 28, 1947.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Miss Cecile Sullivan of Washington led all agents of Bankers Life and Casualty Co. last month with 132 applications. Miss Sullivan, a former secretary at the Polish Embassy, joined Bankers Life less than five months ago . . . Ray H. Smith, Diamond Match Co. regional sales manager on Washington, has been named to a similar post in New York City. He will be succeeded here by Horace Chilton of Richmond, Va.

PLANS GIANT SHIP: The United States Lines plans to build a 65-million-dollar passenger liner, the largest and fastest ever constructed in this country. It would be 48,000 gross tons and carry 2000 passengers to Europe every two weeks. The United States Lines is seeking a subsidy from Congress for its construction. The proposed ship could carry 12,000 troops in addition to its crew.

TAX REFORMS: Two additional tax revisions are urged by Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, in the magazine Exchange. He advocates that the maximum effective tax on long-term capital gains should be reduced to 10 per cent (from the present maximum of 25 per cent) and individuals should be permitted to offset their losses against ordinary income to the extent of $5000 each year. He also urges that a credit should be granted to individuals against dividend payments, the extent of this credit to be related to other changes in the tax structure.

EARNINGS: Tidewater Associated Oil Co. and subsidiaries reported net income of $30,175,955 for 1947, equal to $4.57 a common share, compared with $19,757,707, or $2.93 a share, in previous year. Other income reports follow:

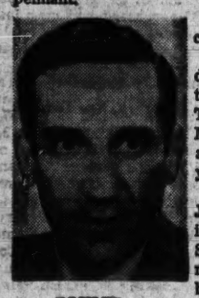
Babe Didrikson Told She Can't Play in U. S. Open

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., April 6.—Come to think of it, you can build up a case against every club in the American League and get downright skeptical about the ability of any one of 'em to win the pennant.



POVICH

This is a sourpuss report on the American League race.

The Yankees, as defending champions, deserve to be scrutinized first. You'd have to say they don't rate as a solid ball club. The Yankees' pitching problem is real. Mention Frank Shea and Allie Reynolds, and Relief Man Joe Page, and after that you deal in question marks.

Within recent days, Bill Bevens went to Johns Hopkins with a sore arm and is hinting about retiring. Yesterday the veteran Spud Chandler got his release. Bucky Harris supposedly bolstered his pitching staff by wangling Ed Lopat from the White Sox and Red Embre from Cleveland in winter deals. But did he?

Embree will need all the magic of the Yankee symbolism to help him win. He never was a big winner with the Indians. Lopat won 18 games for the second-division White Sox, a good record, but closer inspection shows he won half of 'em from two teams—Washington and the Athletics.

THE YANKS GOT a big lift from Vic Raschi, the rookie from the Coast, in the last half of last season, but toward the finish he was losing much of his luster, and Harris may yet rue his action in handing a release to Buck Newsom, who won seven of his 12 starts.

Harris doesn't have a catcher, moreover, who has ever qualified as a big league backstop. His No. 1 man, Yogi Berra, is in there chiefly for his hitting. The Dodgers stole everything but his chest protector in the last World Series and the rumor is that Berra had that hastily tattooed on himself after the opening game. And Charley Keller and his celebrated lame back may not play 50 games for the Yanks.

And what's so hot about Boston? The club's hitting—yes, and they have Joe McCarthy as manager, which is a help. But that Boston pitching may not be as good, even, as the Yankees'. Tex Hughson and Mickey Harris were under arm surgery during the winter. Dave Ferriss no longer awes the hitters. They like to see him in there. They're gambling on Stan Spence as a first baseman. They're gambling that Johnny Pesky can play third base.

Those are the two top clubs—the Yanks and Red Sox—and with their pitching problems they are no shoein. You couldn't call either of them a good ball club.

DETROIT IS MORE or less supposed to finish third, but an echo answers "with what?." Certainly there's nothing good about the Tigers' infield. Mention George Kell at third base, and that wraps it up. The Tigers are experimenting with Paul Campbell, a no-hit first baseman; Eddie Mayo, lame-back second baseman, and Eddie Lake, a shortstop who hasn't made good with anybody yet.

To give the Tigers their due, you must say they could have the league's best pitching with Newhouser and Houtteman and Trout and Hutchinson and Trucks. And then you scan that Detroit outfield and wonder how horrible a season Dick Wakefield can have. Hoot Evers and Vic Wertz are a couple of good-looking rookie outfielders, but they haven't hit .300 in any big league yet.

Cleveland has the best pitcher in baseball and is weak on pitching. Bob Feller is wonderful, and Bob Lemon is impressive, too, and where Lou Boudreau is going to get his next winning pitcher from, he'd like to know. Don Black was a bust after pitching his no-hitter last season, and the Indians were driven to the purchase of Russ Christopher, who wasn't good enough for the A's, apparently.

THE A's HAVE fair pitching, and an infield that doesn't hit much. Eddie Joost, the regular shortstop, batted .206 last year, just for example. Barney McCoskey, whose feat of being runner-up to Ted Williams in the batting race last year is the most generally forgotten fact in baseball, is a good hitter and has a candy arm. Sam Chapman, another regular outfielder, has been in a three-year hitting slump.

A pennant victory by the Nats would be a staggering upset. They are gambling on a rookie second baseman, a rookie third baseman, a rookie left fielder, a converted right fielder, an erratic shortstop and can't present a .300 hitter in any position. The pitching could be good and the speed, too, but that's hardly pennant stuff.

The Browns and White Sox won't win any pennant, either. In fact, when you get right down to it, there's a chance that the National League pennant winner might get into the World Series next October and play solitaire.

Meeks Swats Homer, Nats Beat Newark Bears, 12-9

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., April 6.—The Nats played a lot of baseball today, some of it good, and achieved a 12-9 victory over the Newark Bears of the International League, after being left at the post.

As early as the second inning, the Nats were being stared in the face by a 5-0 deficit on the scoreboard with the Bears banging Chic Pieretti hard and three Washington errors helping to cut a sorry figure.

And then the Nats started banging the ball themselves. They were in front by the fourth inning, and a bit later Rookie Sam Meeks made the prize swat of the day to clinch the ball game. It was a two-run homer to deep right center in the seventh, and somewhat flabbergasting, too.

Long Clout for Little Guy

The blow that Meeks delivered in his first and only time at bat in the game was a screaming smash that cleared the head of Ralph Brown, the longest blow of the day—an incredible wallop by a 156-pounder.

Young Meeks' long smash moved him up considerably in the infield plans of the Nats who brought him over from Chattanooga for a second look only yesterday. He continues to jeopardize Johnny Sullivan's job as the regular shortstop.

Pieretti, after his one sour inning when he gave up three hits and was clipped for five runs, steadied nicely and turned in a five-inning job that totaled only three hits. Rookie Forest Thompson gave up the Bears' last four runs and their last five hits in three innings.

Yost's Error Costs Two

The Bears' first run in the second inning was forced over the plate by Pieretti after two singles and a walk loaded the bases. Eddie Yost made a double error on a ground ball by Garrison, and two more scored. A single to right by Brown that Sherry Robertson booted for the Nats' third error of the inning, accounted for the Bears' fourth and fifth runs.

The Nats bounced back with four runs of their own. Pitcher John Maldovan walked three men in the inning, and singles were delivered by Pieretti, Early and Johnny Sullivan.

In the fourth, the Nats came up with four runs cheaply, on only two hits. Maldovan walked three men. Pieretti beat out a bunt, and Mickey Vernon moved the last two runs home on a double against the right field screen.

The Nats' junior varsity took over in the sixth, and singles by Lyons, Drake and Wooten moved home a run that improved their lead to 9-6. In the seventh, Rookie Len Okrie doubled to left and Thompson scored him with a double to the same spot. Then it was that Meeks whacked Pitcher Dick Mitchell's first offering for his inside-the-park homer.

It was the Nats' fifth straight win in the Grapefruit League, four against minor league opposition . . . Three ex-Red Sox outfielders were in the ball game today—Culberson and McBride for the Nats, and Ford Garrison of Newark . . . Gil Coan is still limping on his lame ankle and may not play before the Nats break camp on Friday . . . Sid Hudson will pitch against Chattanooga tomorrow at Tinker Field . . . Eddie Yost didn't take his bat off his shoulder today, drawing three walks in succession . . . The Nats showed extra base power today for the first time in a week, whacking three doubles and a triple.

Father-Son Leave Tech Together

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

A 17-YEAR-OLD student and his 61-year-old dad wind up their high school days together this June at McKinley Tech.

The father is Leonard Brown, who started at Tech as a student in 1905 and will retire in two months after 39 years as faculty athletic advisor.

His son is Harmon Brown, crack hurdler on the track team, who graduates, and next September continues his education at Lafayette College.

The elder Brown has been an important figure in interhigh athletics since 1912 when he led the fight to make the "new" game of basketball the fourth major sport alongside baseball, football and track.

Since then he has been one of the crusaders in elevating physical education in the public schools. When he became athletic advisor and instructor in the blacksmith shop at Tech in 1909, none of he five public highs had gyms, nor stadiums, nor equipment . . . not even physical education instructors.

HE RECALLS when his football teams marched a mile to and from school to the practice field and spent the first half hour each day clearing it of broken bottles and rocks.

"Brownie" helped build Tech into a first-rate athletic power and also was instrumental in setting up the office of physical education in the public highs, which hired only college-trained instructors.

"Brownie's" biggest accomplishment was persuading a few of the more timid principals to permit night football.

Of all his achievements, "Brownie" is proudest of developing Harmon into one of the top-flight hurdlers of the city.

"He's a smart kid, too," says the veteran teacher. "He earned a scholarship to college the hard way. He's a good enough trackman to earn an athletic scholarship. But my boy chose to be an A average student, so he got a scholastic scholarship. He'll take up medicine at Lafayette."

Bucs Ship Grace To Sacramento

Pittsburgh, April 6 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the sale of Joe Grace, veteran outfielder, to Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League. . . . . The Bucs explained the cut was necessary when the acquisition of Grady Wilson on waivers from the Phils Monday put the squad one over the limit of 40. A left handed hitter, Grace was acquired on waivers from the Washington Senators last winter.

Riddle Comes Through

Mary Riddle, former Charlotte Hall player, turned on his old mates yesterday. Now playing for Washington-Lee, he came through with a pinch-hit single in the ninth inning which enabled his new Arlington teammates to gain a 5-5 tie with Charlotte Hall at Mechanicsville, Md.

Mims Scores Twice in AAU Ring Tourney

Boston, April 6.—Holly Mims, 160-pounder from Washington, D. C., advanced two rounds to vault into the semifinals of the National A.A.U. boxing tournament here tonight.

After drawing a bye Monday night, Mims this afternoon outpointed Pat Walsh of Portland, Oreg. Then tonight he smashed out a one-round technical knockout victory over Dick Starr of Norfolk, Va.

Claude Lawrence, 135-pounder from Washington passed his second-round test this afternoon, but three other Capital City boys fell by the wayside.

Those who were eliminated were Gil Stewart, 147-pounder, who dropped a decision to Tony DiPolini of Buffalo; Middleweight Eddie Marshall, who was outpointed by Joe Jarmon of Dayton, and Heavyweight Eddie Grant, who lost a close decision.

Lawrence, St. Mary's Boys Club of Alexandria lad, won a decision over Charlie McGarry of Rahway, N. Y., today. He drew a bye in the first round Monday.

'G' Club Holds Banquet Tonight

Bob Considine, noted columnist, and Jack Lavelle, grid scout for Notre Dame and the New York Giants, will be principal speakers at tonight's Georgetown University alumni "G" club dinner at the Mayflower Hotel at 8:30.

Robert C. Gormley, New York attorney, and quarterback of Georgetown's 1925-26 teams, will be toastmaster of the first such dinner since 1940. Highlight of the evening will be presentation of an award to Georgetown's outstanding senior athlete.

Badger Faculty Probes Cultural Value of Boxin

Madison, Wis., April 6 (AP).—The culture value, among other things, of a program which has made the University of Wisconsin king pin in itnercollegiate boxing was under scrutiny today.

The university faculty asked for a broad survey. Athletic department officials said they's be glad to comply. "We at Wisconsin want to be the first to know if the sport is deterimental or not," declared Athletic Director Harry Stuhldreher.

2-Year-Olds Run at Bowie

Bowie, Md., April 6.—Two-year-olds will have their innings at Bowie on the Wednesday program Ten of them are scheduled to line up for the $7500 added Bowie Kindergarten, annual juvenile spring feature here.

The 4-furlong struggle brings together Louis Prima's fleet bay filly, Pennymaker, undefeated in campaigning at New Orleans last winter, and H. Guy Bedwell's smart chestnut colt, Torchator, coholder of the half-mile record at Santa Anita. This will be the twenty-first running of the "Baby Battle."

Pennymaker, the property of the noted band leader, was purchased at private sale. She won four Louisiana races, including two stakes, her best effort coming in the $5000 added Dinner Stakes. She is a daughter of Ariel and Profitable, and has proven ability to carry weight, having won with 122 pounds over a heavy track.

Torchator is a son of Lassator and May Torch and turned in his best job at Santa Anita last February 27 when he dashed a half-mile in :46 4/5 to equal the track mark. He carried 122 pounds for that outing.

This pair is expected to dominate the running, however, Wingy, Peppers O and Iron Way, of the others are considered to have the best money chances.

Her Presence Not Desired; Rule Is Changed to 'Men Only'

By Gayle Talbot

New York, April 6 (AP).—Politely but firmly, the United States Golf Association advised Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias today that her presence is not desired in the National Open Championship at the Riviera Country Club, Los Angeles, June 10-12.

The Babe said some time ago that she would like to be the first of her sex to compete in the classic. The golfing fathers, taking alarm, have amended their rules to read "for men only."

"As the championship has always been intended to be for men, the eligibility rules have been rephrased to confirm that condition," says a frosty communication from the association's office.

"Applicants must be men who are either professional golfers or amateurs with handicaps not exceeding three strokes. Thus, the USGA has declined an informal entry submitted in behalf of Mrs. George Zaharias.

It is doubtful, of course, that the Babe, now a professional, would have survived the qualifying round on June 1, even if her entry had been accepted. But the golf bosses took no chances.

The qualifying round will be played in 29 sections this year, three more than in the past. The Pacific Northwest will have have two sections, at Seattle and Portland. So will Texas, at Lubbock and Fort Worth. Salt Lake City and Honolulu have been added while the Middle Atlantic section has been dropped.

As usual, the qualifying rounds will be at 36 holes stroke play. Except at Los Angeles and Honolulu, all will be held June 1. Honolulu's date is May 25, and at Los Angeles play will be spread over two days, May 27 and 28, with two courses in use.

More qualifying places will be open than before, due to a reduction in exemptions. Only the 20 low scorers and ties for twentieth in last year's Open will qualify automatically, instead of the low 30 and ties. Others eligible for exemption are former Open champions, the 1947 winners of the United States Amateur, the PGA, the British Open and Amatur, and the Riviera Professional.

USGA Gets Tough

After the sectional examinations, the field at Riviera will number 171. The field for the final 36 holes will be reduced to the lowest 50 scorers and ties, where formerly the low 60 and ties played through. The winner will pocket $2000 of the $10,000 prize money.

Every entrant in the qualifying round this year will have to say definitely whether he intends to play in the Open if he is successful. If he does not promise absolutely to show up at Los Angeles, then his qualifying place will be forfeited.

Getting additionally tough, the USGA also stipulates that every player eligible for the Open must register at Riviera by noon two days before the start of play, or send an excuse in advance. Any player who fails to do so will find he has made a long trip for nothing.

It's 'Majors Or Nothing,' Says Houk

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 6 (AP).—Ralph Houk, 28-year-old catcher, today declined to go to Kansas City, where he had been optioned by the New York Yankees.

Houk, who was with the Yanks all last year, said, "I want a better deal from this ball club. I can catch in the major leagues. There are several clubs which could use me and I want permission to make a deal for myself."

The former Army major said if he was not given permission he would return to his Lawrence, Kans., home and work for his father in the contracting business.

Houk hit .272 in 41 games last season.

So He Quits Ring

Troy, N. Y., April 6 (AP).—Fred Ladd, amateur boxer, says he will take the advice of physicians and retire from the ring.

His decision canceled his bout tonight with Troy's Marty Dwyer. Ladd, whose home is in Salem, said doctors had told him he must retire. He claims he has never been knocked out in 232 amateur fights. He is 72 years old.

Beard Has It Right

Bartlesville, Okla., April 6 (AP). Ralph Beard, Kentucky University's star basketball guard, is following the old maxim—"If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

Beard has contacted Phillips Petroleum Co. officials, announcing he would like to come to Bartlesville after completing his education. Beard scored 23 points against the Phillips Oilers although the Oklahomans won the Olympic trials, 53-49, last week.

A's Lose Again

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 6 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics played the New York Yankees in an exhibition game today while wearing shoes and stocking belonging to their foes.

Thieves took approximately $2000 in equipment from the A's locker room last night.

Only 772 Tickets At $3 Put on Sale

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Charity got $8548, Rocky Graziano got a stiff workout, Sonny Horne got beat again and some Washington fight fans feel they got the works at Uline Arena Monday night.

Of an estimated 2000 would-be customers who wanted to purchase $3 general admission tickets, only 772 were able to buy tickets. The others went away, protesting to newspapers and even to the police department that something must have gone wrong at the box office.

They couldn't understand why there were only 772 general admission seats at an arena rigged to accommodate 8200 persons. Some said there were more than 772 seats at $3 each, but that the Liberty Athletic Club promoters quickly upped the price from three to six when the long lines at the box office indicated there might be a sellout.

Those who believe that were wrong, however. A check of the general admission tickets printed matched against the internal revenue taxes yesterday revealed that only 772 tickets at $3 were offered for sale.

They were placed on sale promptly at 6 p. m., and 46 minutes later they had all been sold. Then the promoters had barkers stationed in the arena lobby shouting "only $6 and $10 tickets" left. Over 1000 persons who came with only $3 in their pockets were turned away.

Before going, they were offered some of the less desirable $10 ringside tickets at $5. Hundreds refused to take advantage of this last-minute bargain.

Police Inspector Clarence Tally, a member of the Boxing Commission, questioned the ethics of this bit of generosity. Promoter Goldie Ahearn told him the move had the approval of internal revenue collectors at the Arena, but Tally felt that the Boxing Commission should have been informed of the procedure.

"It seems strange to me," Tally said yesterday at the Boxing Commission office. "The Ninth Precinct received hundreds of phone calls about the ticket situation at Uline Monday night. People just couldn't understand why there weren't more general admission tickets.

"As late as 7 o'clock on the night of the fight there were radio announcements that general admission tickets were being sold then. That was 15 minutes after the sale of the 772 tickets had ended."

Inspector Talley Says Its Strange

To which Ahearn replied:

"We can't control the radio stations."

The reason, Ahearn said, there were so few general admission tickets was that Graziano wanted to donate a large sum to charity. He obviously couldn't do it unless the Arena was sealed to do $70,000. The gross receipts were $34,737.92.

Promoter Ahearn and his associate, Al Weill, made friends when they failed to broadcast or televise the fight. Newspaper offices were flooded with phone calls from indignant persons who demanded to know why there was no broadcast or television.

Ahearn's answer was that no local station requested broadcast rights.

Dorado, $113 to $2, Hangs On to Win Bowie Feature

Pitching Fair, Too

Cards Heavy In Outfield, Catching Bad

(This is the tenth in a series on the 1948 prospects of the major league teams.)

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA., April 6 (AP).—For the third year in a row, Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals is handing out the same dope. It all adds up to "Watch Brooklyn."

THE CARDS have started slowly this year, losing more exhibitions than they have won. Howie Pollet and George Munger, two pitchers who underwent arm operations during the winter, have been nursed along. Third Baseman Whitey Kurowski, overweight and plagued by arm trouble, has been left to his own conditioning plan.

Five different first basemen have been used by Dyer, who wants to return Stan Musial to the outfield. It looks as though Musial will open in right field, with Dick Sisler and Nippy Jones dividing the first-baseing.

MARTY MARION'S knee collapse threw a scare into the camp, but he was able to play half a game yesterday with no apparent ill effects. Mr. Shortstop remains a doubtful factor, calculated to add more wrinkles to Dyer's brow.

Lack of capable reserves is a glaring weakness in the St. Louis club, that and a mediocre pitching staff. One catcher can't throw, another can't catch and a third can't hit right-handed pitching.

There is nothing wrong with an outfield that has Enos Slaughter in left, looking better than ever; Erv Dusak or Capt. Terry Moore in center and Musial in right. Chuck Diering and Ron Northey are the reserves.

Joe Garagiola, Del Rice and Del Wilber return from the 1947 catching staff, and John Bucha is up from Omaha, where he hit .361.

POLLET'S spring form indicates he can be counted upon for a regular winning turn. He may again be the pitcher he was in 1946. Munger appears ready for a big year. Murry Dickson showed he is set with his recent no-hit job against the Yankees. Harry Brecheen had one string of 14 exhibition scoreless innings.

Al Brazle has looked good, giving Dyer three capable left-handed starters. Ken Johnson, a southpaw who hurled a one-hitter against the Cubs last September, is a possibility, as is Gerald Staley. Then there is Jim Hearn, husky winner of 11 for the Red Birds last summer. Ted Wilks, who hasn't lost a game since 1945, will be the relief standby.

Staves Off Late Rally By Star Call

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bowie, Md., April 6.—A daughter of Cloth O'Gold, Dorado, made it "pay day at the mines" for a scattered few bettors in a crowd of 9000 here today.

The 5-year-old mare, making her first start of the year, knocked the favorite players for a row of furlong poles by winning the Dower House, feature of the Tuesday program.

The monetary display on Dorado was $113 to win, $34 to place and $14 to show.

Jockey R. J. Martin, who seldom rides a 50-1 shot, was aboard Dorado and deserves an "assist," for he kept the mare going when she was saying with her actions that she had had enough.

Had Five Dull Races

In second position in the field of 10 was the Audley Farm's Star Call, a game 4-year-old filly. Third money went to Mrs. J. G. Smyth's Manor Miss, medium of some strong play in the late stages of the betting.

Dorado ran five dull races last year after winning at Laurel, but there was no question of her ability today. Martin steadied her along in the first flight as Star Call drew far out to set the pace, followed by Little Willie.

Nearing the half pole, Little Willie weakened and Dorado moved closest to the pace. Coronet Star rallied to get to contention and then faded.

Martin roused Dorado nearing the stretch and the mare wore down Star Call to take command. It looked as if Dorado was going to win easily at this stage but she found her first outing a trying one and began to wilt.

Apprentice George Pappas then went to work on Star Call and this filly "came again" to be narrowing the winner's margin at the end. Manor Miss rallied but her move came too late.

'Bletz' Comes Back

The Army Day Purse, the afternoon's secondary feature brought a successful comeback for Jockey Martin Bletzacker who was almost killed at Havre de Grace last year. "Bletz" was aboard A. W. Messersimt's Tagel and put up a fine ride t oget to the finish line ahead of E. B. Townsend's Maryknoll with O. E. Snow's Quick News in the field of twelve.

Tagel went the six furlongs in 1:13 2/5 and paid an $11.40 mutuel.

GW Scores Seven in Third, Beats Michigan, 15-11

Wolverines Try Hard in 8th and 9th

The peppery Colonials of George Washington University yesterday did what Georgetown and the Quantico Marines couldn't do.

They beat Michigan's baseball forces, 15-11, in a slugging session at the Ellipse.

Winners of their other two starts in this area, 9-2 and 9-8, the Wolverines were a contender yesterday for only three innings—or until the Colonials came up with a 7-run onslaught in the third.

That sealed the game although Michigan's four runs in each of the last two frames had Colonial rooters slightly uneasy.

Pete King was credited with the G-Streeters' second straight triumph this season, although he was moved to the outfield after 4 2-3 innings.

That was during a two-run Michigan comeback in the fifth.

Going into the eighth frame G. W. was coasting with a 15-3 margin, but Relief Pitcher Pete Cordelli ran into all sorts of trouble then.

He gave up four hits, including Dom Tomasi's double as the Wolverines also cashed in on an error, wild pitch, passed ball and two walks. Two were left and there were two outs when Curley Kuldell, former Western High ace, took over.

Kuldell struck out Morrill to end the uprising and, despite another 4-run spree of Michigan's in the ninth, managed to keep the Colonial victory safe.

Zurawel Paces C. U. Over Gallaudet, 16-2

Hank Zurawell pushed Catholic University's baseballers off to a good start yesterday. Leading off for the Cardinals, he hit the first pitch for a home run, and Catholic U. went on from there to swamp Gallaudet, 16-2, in a Mason-Dixon game at Catholic U.

The Cards rapped out 18 hits and scored in every inning but the fifth.

Mount Vernon's Girls Pile Up Score of 61 to 1

Hear ye, all who say that girls softball is slow, or that the girl softballers can't hit.

Yesterday afternoon at Fort Belvoir Field, the Mount Vernon High girls pounded out a 61-1 victory over Manassas (Va.) High in the very efficient time of an hour and 20 minutes. In their six innings at bat, the Mounties rapped out 62 hits. Their biggest inning was the second when they connected for 18 hits and 20 runs.

Mount Vernon's leading hitter was Alice Riley who had eight singles in 11 times up. Keeping score for the first time, and getting a big headache out of it was 16-year-old June Griffin, manager of the Mounties.

Hoyas Belt 10 Hits, Beat Villanova, 5-2

Georgetown University batters banged 10 hits off two Villanova pitchers to defeat the Wildcats, 5-2, yesterday at the Medical School field.

It was the fourth victory in six games for the Hoyas who will meet Fordham in games here on Friday and Saturday.

First Baseman Joe DiLio paced the Georgetown attack with three hits. His triple in the first inning started a four-run splurge which won the game. Singles by Dick Falvey, Ray Corley and Al Naples, a walk by Elmer Raba and Frank Alagia's fly to deep center accounted for the scoring.

Georgetown added a run in the fourth inning when DiLio singled home Catcher Johnny Moskal who had singled and advanced on Pitcher Tom Carroll's walk.

G. W. High, Central End Up Tied, 5-5

George Washington of Alexandria and Central's Vikings battled to a 5-5 tie in eight innings yesterday at Central Stadium.

Bob Sasko's three singles and a home run by Jack Murphy highlighted the Viking attack. Bobby Hooker connected for two hits to lead the Presidents.

The lead changed hands four times in the scheduled seven-inning game which was called because of darkness. It was the opening game for both teams.

Hoyas' Larruping Larrow Doubles as Golfer, Boxer

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

As a golfer, Georgetown's Ray Larrow is in a class by himself.

That's because he's probably the only linksman who spends his winters knocking opponents kicking in the boxing ring.

Larrow, a strapping 6 foot 1 inch, 200-pounder is Georgetown's heavyweight boxing pride. In two years of ring competition he's won seven bouts and the only blot on his record is an adverse split decision to Michigan State's Art Hughlett in 1946.

The past winter Ray captained the Hoya boxers and didn't lose a bout. He's fast for a heavyweight and carries no excess weight.

The same power that Ray packs in the ring is evident on the links. His average shot off the tee carries 260-270 yards. Paradoxically, Ray says his only real weakness in golf is his long iron game.

He claims that his ability to get tremendous length on his wood shots caused him to neglect his long irons. But he's good on the shorter irons and has an accurate putting touch.

At present he's alternating at the No. 1 spot on the Hoya golf team with Capt. Bill King. Ray shoots steadily in his two years of college competition.

His biggest golfing thrill was reaching the green with a driver and a four-wood on a 515-yard hole in a match against North Carolina.

"Then I spoiled it all by missing my putt," Ray said sheepishly.

Ray, 23, credits his success in both boxing and golf to the Holyoke, Mass. boys club he belonged to as a kid.

"When you learn your sports early, it's lots easier than trying to pick them up in later life," said Ray.

Only a junior, Larrow has another year of boxing and golf ahead of him—bad news to Georgetown's rivals in at least two sports.

D. C. Skiers Still Trying, Plan Trip April 15-30

Ski Club of Washington members just won't give up. Now they are planning a trip to New Hampshire April 15-20 where they hope to find some unmelted trails.

The club's final meeting of the season will be held tonight at 8:15 at the Palisades Field House. Officers will be elected and movies of past trips will be shown.

Only Sprain for Bevens

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 6 (AP). The New York Yankees were heartened today by the news that Pitcher Bill Bevins was suffering from nothing more than a strained right shoulder.

A report received by the club from Dr. George Bennett of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore disclosed that Bevins has only a slight sprain.

Dodd Leads Poll Of Countries for U. N. Food Chief

AGRICULTURE: Undersecretary Norris E. Dodd is a good bet to be named director general of the U. N. food and agriculture organization. He's well in the lead in a poll being taken of FAO member countries. Dodd also has the solid support of several farm groups to succeed Clinton Anderson as Agriculture Secretary.

If Dodd does take the FAO post, it will put able Charles Brannan, the Assistant Secretary, in line for the secretaryship. Like Anderson, Brannan is from the politically important West. His home is in Denver.

Another possibility for the Agriculture post is Jesse Gilmer, chief of the Production and Marketing Administration. It isn't generally known, but Gilmer has in his resignation, which is slated to become effective no later than July 1. He has an offer at more than twice his Federal salary, plus a share of the business, from a Texas firm.

INTERIOR: This department is full of rumors that Secretary Krug will be given a new job in some phase of the defense program, perhaps in the industrial mobilization setup. Krug's experience as head of the War Production Board could be put to good use by the Administration.

An Interior spokesman, however, emphasized that Krug would not resign from the Cabinet and that he would divide his time between the department and any defense job he might be given. He recalled that Harold L. Ickes, when Interior Secretary Ickes, handled several war jobs on the side, and suggested Krug could do the same thing.

PER DIEMS: The per diem employes in the Coast Guard are now planning to ask for a wage boost up to 20 per cent . . . A pay raise for per diems at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has been delayed again. Under new Treasury regulations, the BEP director must "recommend" pay adjustments to the Treasury wage board. Director Alvin Hall went into wages in a letter to the board, but failed to make recommendations. His letter was returned with instructions that he include specific suggestions on wages . . . The Senate Civil Service Committee today will resume hearings on the bill to change the makeup of the Navy wage boards.

STORY: In February's Reader's Digest was an amusing story about an Agriculture booklet that never existed. It told how someone had started a story that the department had a booklet on the "Love Life of a Bullfrog." There was no such publication. But as The Digest story related, each time the department denied its existence, hundreds of requests poured in for it from haphazard readers.

Well, I imagine the author of The Digest piece thought to himself:

"I'll bury that old bullfrog ghost for good with this piece."

Now his faith in his fellow man must be shaken. More than 200 have written the department—several of them teachers of biology—to request the booklet which The Digest took pains to say never existed.

ERA: This is why Paul G. Hoffman wasn't nominated Monday to be the boss of the European Recovery Administration: He called the White House early Monday to ask that his nomination be delayed for a day. He said he hadn't been given a thorough physical for 15 years, and that he wanted to have one before he took over the back-breaking job. The docs must have pronounced him okay, for he was nominated yesterday.

WAR ASSETS will cut off about 10,000 additional employes before June 30. It has 29,000 employes now and its July 1 ceiling is 19,000. The agency had a peak personnel of about 60,000.

Administrator Jess Larson told the Senate Expenditures Committee yesterday that he will retain only 10 of the original 23 field disposal regional offices by June 30. He's behind the Administration bill to transfer WAA to the Federal Works Agency.

PEOPLE: Vernon L. Wilkinson is resigning as assistant general counsel of Federal Communications to enter law practice here . . . FCC is losing another able employe in Edwin Peterson, chief of the telegraph section. After 14 years in FCC, he'll go to New York to be manager of the tariff bureau of RCA Communications, Inc. . . . Thomas C. Havell will retire April 30 as assistant director of Interior's Bureau of Land Management. An expert on the 775 million acres of public lands, Havell is in his forty-ninth year of Federal service . . . Bruce Stubblefield, Civil Service's veterans' advisor, is giving lectures to American Legion officials on veterans' preference.

NAVY has given letters of commendation to six of its Bureau of Ships employes who have had 40 or more years of service. The letters were signed by Secretary Sullivan. Those honored were: George H. Cross, Israel Stolberg, Tracey Watson, Herbert S. Holder, Thomas Moore and John H. Schombert.

Cash awards for worth while suggestions went to Mrs. Pinkey Young and Theodore Rothman.

PAY: There was no important development yesterday on the Federal employe pay-raise campaign. A Capitol Hill insider made this prediction: that neither the House nor the Senate would be in any rush to act on the pay bills, and that no action would be taken unless pay raises became a matter of highest GOP congressional policy. In other words, you can look for dragging of feet on the pay issue for the next several weeks.

3 District Heads Split In Opinions On Friede

Mason, Gen. Young For His Retention; J. R. Young 'Not in Full Agreement'

District Commissioners Guy Mason and Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young went on record yesterday in favor of the retention of Herbert A. Friede, District electrical department official.

Friede has been under attack for allegedly assisting the Gamewell Co., fire alarm equipment manufacturers, to obtain contracts with the District.

The two commissioners, in a letter to Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), chairman of the House District Committee, said they had found "no hint or suggestion that Mr. Friede received any money, gifts or other material considerations from the Gamewell Co."

Commissioners Split

The letter disclosed that the Board of Commissioners is split on the Friede case. It said that John Russell Young, president of the Board of Commissioners was not "in full agreement" with the other commissioners.

oYung, who is believed to advocate some form of disciplinary action against Friede, is said to be considering sending a separate letter to Dirksen explaining his position. Young was not available yesterday for comment on the Friede case.

The Gamewell Co., which supplies almost all of the District's fire alarm equipment, and five of its officials, were fined $33,250 in Boston Federal District Court March 22 on monopoly and restraint of trade charges.

Dirksen referred the letter to Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) subcommittee chairman, who declined to coment.

Friede is former director of the District fire alarm system and now is superintendent of communications in the District electrical department.

No Definite Charges

Mason and Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young said documents in the case gave them the "feeling or suspicion" that Friede's relations with the company were "more intimate than they should have been."

As a result, they said, Friede has been "separated" from handling any contracts, specifications and purchases in which the Gamewell Co. might be interested.

But, they concluded, there are no "definite charges" against Friede which could be "made to stick."

They said transfer of the fire alarm system to the Fire Department early in 1947, and Friede's subsequent reduction in pay, were ordered "purely" to improve "the organizational setup of the District government."

"The information regarding Mr. Friede's alleged relations with the Gamewell Co. did not reach us until after our decision was made, and did not in any way affect it," they declared.

Friede said he hadn't seen the Commissioners' letter and had no comment to make.

15 Virginians Indicted on Tax Charges

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—A Federal grand jury today indicted 15 Virginians on charges of evading payment of income taxes. It was one of the Government's biggest recent offensives against alleged tax evaders.

Those indicted included physicians, dentists, businessmen and merchants from some 10 cities and towns. Bench warrents were issued for them late today by Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson.

The list included:

Dr. Guy Ross Harrison of Windsor Farms, a dentist and oral surgeon, and member of the State Board of Health.

Dr. James Alexander Chiles of Richmond, one of the State's leading Negro dentists.

Dr. Warren W. Koontb of Lynchburg, known as one of the State's leading specialists in urology.

Dr. George G. Snarr of Winchester, physician.

Dr. Julian C. Major of Alexandria, dentist.

Clyde Booher of Norton, operator of the Bristol-Norton bus lines.

Benton S. Blackard of Martinsville, owner of the Virginia Cab Co. and part owner of the Star Taxi Co.

Sadore Pliskin of Abingdon, retail dry goods and notions merchant.

David Crockett of Alexandria, and his wife, Lauretta Crockett, operators of a tourist camp.

Frank T. Constant of Norfolk, a restaurant operator.

Harry Lee Davis of Norfolk.

Henry Robinson of Luray, a dry goods merchant.

David Drucker of Pulaski, Regall clothing merchant.

Army Day Parade Seen by Truman, 150,000; 'Flag of Liberation' Is Returned to Congress

Hour's Spectacle Is Preceded by Reactivation of Third Infantry

Some 150,000 to 175,000 Washingtonians joined President Truman yesterday in reviewing the Army Day parade on Constitution ave. as a warm sun intermittently broke through threatening clouds.

The Commander in Chief chatted and grinned with the high officials who sat with him in the reviewing stand between 15th and 17th sts. nw.

The hour-long spectacle, which included some 2000 cadets and veterans' groups in colorful uniforms as well as precisely marching units from all the services, was preceded by a reactivation ceremony for the Third Infantry Regiment and the return of the "Flag of Liberation" at the Capitol.

Gen. Gay Presents Colors

The Third Infantry, oldest regiment of the Regular Army, received its colors, topped by its numerous battle streamers, in a ceremony held shortly after noon in the Capitol Plaza. They were presented to its commander, Col. J. B. Matlack, commanding officer at Fort Myer, Va., by Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commanding general of the Washington Military District.

Colonel Matlack in turn presented the national and regimental colors to the color guard of the new regiment. Bearing the national flag was First Sergt. John W. Meagher, 37, who was born at Fort Myer, while his father, now a retired first sergeant, served there. Sergt. Meagher's mother is buried in Arlington Cemetery.

The reactivated unit, with 1200 officers and men, will guard Washington and participate in its military ceremonies. From yesterday on, its members will draw combat infantrymen's pay.

Former Commander Attends

Among the military men attending the ceremony was Col. H. J. Vander Heide, who commanded the Third from its training days at Fort Benning early in 1945 until it was deactivated in Germany in November, 1946. He saw Colonel Matlack, its new commander, for the first time yesterday since they were in Berlin.

Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin and Senate President Pro Tem Arthur Vandenberg, with General Gay between them, marched down the front steps of the Capitol and the Army Band played the National Asthem as six veterans of World War II came forward in the Flag of Liberation ceremony.

The flag, which was flying over the Capitol when the United States declared war, had been raised in victory over the three Axis capitals. In returning it to Congress, the Army chose six men to bear it from those who were on duty in Washington at the time of Pearl Harbor and from soldiers who saw it raised in the defeated capitals.

They were First Sergt. George H. Waple, Fairfax, Va.; Master Sergt. Robert H. Carroll, Norfolk, Va.; Staff Sergt. Henry S. Pickerel, Hurt, Va., all of whom were in Washington; Pvt. First Class Joe A. Resti, Westbury, N. Y., who was in the flag-raising ceremony in Rome on July 4, 1944; Corpl. Roy Allen, Norwood, N. C., who helped raise it in Berlin on July 20, 1945; and Corpl. Jesse Taylor, Goldsboro, N. C., who was in the ceremony in Tokyo on September 8, 1945.

Under the leadership of General Gay and with the Army Band setting the pace, the parade started shortly after 2:15 from the Capitol Plaza.

Crowds between 15th and 18th sts., estimated by police at 25,000, had their loudest cheers for the bands of the four service branches, which blared out their respective service songs at the presidential stand, after the traditional ruffles honoring the Commander in Chief.

Negro Group Draws Eyes

Perhaps as a symbol of the reduced peacetime Army, there were few weapons in the parade, the biggest being a 155-mm. gun from the Aberdeen Proving Ground. Washington's National Guard had several pieces of AA equipment, including 90-mms. and pompoms.

A Negro detachment of the Ninety-fourth General Service Engineers from Fort Belvoir, Va., drew interest as they rolled slowly by in 2½-ton trucks and other motorized equipment drawing grades, generating units, cranes and other construction equipment.

The crowds joined reviewing officials in applause as disabled veterans rode by in a fleet of white Veterans' cabs, followed by another group in other taxis. The last group of the parade, they leaned forward to catch a glimpse of the President as their cabs rolled by in formation.

Placard Challenges Watchers

The local Guard's 163d MP Battalion equipment carried a placard announcing its members were civilians 166 hours a week, training from 8 to 10 on Tuesday nights.

"What are you doing to safeguard our liberty?" the spectators were asked.

The marching groups were divided into four divisions—Regular service troops; National Guard, Reserves, ROTC and high school cadets, and veterans' units.

After the dress uniforms of the Regular services passed by—including the Marine Band, with scarlet tunics, white caps and blue red-striped trousers — spectators were regaled with a variety of fancy uniforms worn by cadets and veterans' groups.

Most noticeable among these were the wine-colored uniforms of some of the Washington high-school cadets and a Legion unit in dark blue with yellow trimmings and yellow plumes on hussar-type hats.

Although Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett said the parade attracted the largest Army Day crowd he had ever seen, his men reported no accidents or untoward incidents along the line of march. Three Red Cross first-aid stations along the avenue did no business. Even the urchins perched in trees kept out of trouble.

At the tag end of the parade, two D. C. Sanitation Department vehicles moved down the line of march, all set to clean up the debris. Federal and District employes released from their jobs for the spectacle returned to work.

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—A trusty who escaped from the State Penitentiary's maintenance shop last Tuesday has been recaptured in Lunenburg County and returned to State Road Camp 24, L. S. Reames, assistant prison superintendent, said today.

James E. Lindsey, 24, of Richmond, serving a two-year term on a housebreaking conviction, escaped from the prison maintenance shop by crawling over a back fence and dropping some 12 feet from an outside retaining wall. His term would have expired on December 15 and he would have been eligible for parole April 15, Reames said.

Party 'Pledge' Status in Virginia Questioned

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—What is to happen to the Democratic Party "pledge," signed by Democratic congressional candidates in Virginia primaries, should the party in the State split this election year—a possibility under the anti-Truman elections laws?

Martin A. Hutchinson of Richmond asked State Democratic Chairman Horace H. Edwards, also of Richmond, in a letter yesterday for a ruling on whether candidates in this year's congressional Democratic primaries will be required to take the "party pledge."

Hutchinson is a leader of the liberal or anti-organization wing of the Democratic Party and a possible candidate for the United States Senate this year. In the 1946 primary, he opposed Senator Harry F. Byrd.

A provision of the anti-Truman elections law permits the State Democratic convention to reject the national Democratic nominees for President and Vice President, and to put up a slate of its own choice under the name of the Democratic Party of Virginia.

Tobacco Grower Protests Delay In Referendum

College Park, Md., April 6 (AP).—Dr. Thomas B. Symons, diretcor of the Maryland Agricultural Extension Setrvice, and southern Free State Tobacco Growers were at odds today over delay in a referendum on establishment of a Federal grading system.

The farmers were to start voting yesterday to decide if they wanted Government grading of their leaf. But the Agriculture Department called off the voting at the request of Dr. Symons.

The Prince Georges County grower said he sent a protest to Dr. H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland president. The grower, who declined use of his name, said the postponement was a "betrayal of the wishes of some 1500 farmers and a sell-out of the Farm Bureau."

About 1500 farmers in five Maryland counties had voted in favor of the referendum.

The extension service director said he asked the delay "after it became clear that sharp differences of opinion had developed between the Garm Bureau and extension service leaders."

Dr. Symons said the differences weer on support prices. Many farmers, reported Dr. Symons, expected a support price of 51 cents a pound. But last week the Agriculture Department came out against more than 41.9 cents.

U. S. Hospital Aid Bill Referred to Full Committee

District Group Approves Measures On Sex Offenses, Child Day Care

A House District subcommittee agreed yesterday to forward to the full District Committee bills that would:

1. Authorize the Federal Government to make cash grants for improving and expanding private hospital facilities here up to a total of 12 to 13 million dollars. The District would repay 30 per cent of what is spent.

2. Sharply increase penalties for sex offenses in Washington, and set up procedures for having sexual psychopaths treated at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

3. Regulate the practice of optometry in the District, and restrict advertising practices in the business of optometrists.

4. Extend for one year, through June 30, 1949, the District program of child day care centers.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) formally approved all the bills but the one for hospital grants.

The hospital bill was forwarded to the full District Committee without recommendation. This means it will be left to the main committee to decide what is to be done with it.

House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) made a strong appeal to the subcommittee for favorable action on the hospital bill.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West voiced anew the Commissioners' objection to the hospital program, on the ground that the city does not have the money for it.

On the day care center program, the committee voted down the idea of making the service permanent, as proposed by Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.) and decided instead on the one-year extension.

In Montgomery

County Bars $22 Million Apartments

Rezonings which would have paved the way for almost 22 million dollars worth of Montgomery County apartment construction were flatly denied yesterday by the county commissioners.

The decisions were in line with an established policy to discourage erection of large apartment projects, in favor of single family homes. The rejected petition included:

A proposed 13 million dollar project of 970 units at River and Goldsboro rds., Bethesda, backed by Gustav Ring, owner of Colonial and Arlington Villages in Arlington County.

A scheduled eight million dollar development at Georgia ave. and Forest Glen rd., Silver Spring, with 500 apartment units.

An $800,000 project at Jones Mill and Jones Bridge rds., Chevy Chase, which called for a 154-unit, garden-type development.

The three projects were bitterly opposed by adjoining homeowners who argued that their approval would destroy the single-family character of their neighborhoods and lower surrounding land values. All three had been recommended for denial by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The commissioners also denied a petition by Frank L. Hewitt, jr., and Lawrence V. Lutes for reclassification for apartment house use of approximately two acres at Hawley rd. and Ellsworth dr., Silver Spring.

The petitions which received unfavorable action were among 16 disposed of yesterday by the commissioners.

Red Cross Goal Topped; D. C. Second in U. S.

The area Red Cross drive went over the top yesterday with 106.05 per cent of its one million dollar goal for 1948.

Receipts totaling $1,145,302 were announced at a "victory" luncheon in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building. Each campaign division reported successful completion of its goal.

Washington now stands in second place among the 14 big cities of the country, topping all but Milwaukee. The later recorded 113 per cent of quota.

Hails D. C. Get-up-and-go

"It is exhilarating to think that there is enough get-up-and-go in Old Father Washington to again take his place way up there near the top," said District Chapter Chairman John Clifford Folger. He paid tribute to Joseph C. Grew, who, as general campaign chairman, presided at the final report session.

Grew, former Ambassador to Japan, lauded the work of volunteer solicitors and in a statement later said:

"This response by more than 285,000 citizens in this area is a reassuring manifestation in a world community plagued by uncertainty and beset by human misery. We have set a fine example for other American communities, as we should in the Naton's Capital."

Residential Does Best

A breakdown by divisions: Government, $495,247 or 100.25 per cent of quota; general business, $329,804, 104.67 per cent or quota; residential, $117,806, or 140.25 per cent or quota; City, $57,068, 105.68 per cent or quota; Alexandria, $20,371, 102.37 per cent or quota; Arlington County, $28,466, 117.88 per cent of quota; Fairfax County, $16,895, or 112.64 per cent; Montgomery County, $42,938, or 113 per cent of quota; Prince Georges County, $19,624, 103.83 per cent of quota; Booths, $17,200, 101.48 per cent of quota.

Md. Forester Warns Against Current Fire Risk

Annapolis, Md., April 6 (AP).—State Forester H. C. Buckingham today warned Marylanders to stand by for a fire-danger period lasting five weeks.

Forest fires are most likely to occur in the Baltimore-Washington-Annapolis triangle, Buckingham said.

"Fifty per cent of fires in Maryland" start in that area, he said.

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of State Forests and Parks, said that the spring period between now and the middle of May is the worst of the year for forest fires.

Any given area in the State would be in fire-danger class 3 "75 per cent of the time," Kaylor said.

The forestry officials explained that fire-danger ratings run from class 1, remote danger, to class 5, most danger.

Nehru May Visit U. S. to Discuss Communist Threat

By the United Press

Jawaharlal Nehru, Prime Minister of India and disciple of the late Mahatma Gandhi, may come to the United States later this year, possibly to discuss the growth of Communism in his country.

A State Department spokesman said the proposed visit has been under consideration for some time. He did not elaborate, but Indian leaders and U. S. officials are known to be concerned over increasing Communist strength in India.

Henry F. Grady, U. S. Ambassador to India, has been urging Nehru to visit the United States.

Hanging Warrants For 3 Men Signed By Governor Lane

Annapolis, Md., April 6 (AP).—Governor Lane signed warrants today ordering three men convicted of capital crimes to be hanged April 30. They are:

Roy Lee Lathco, 38, former Spring Grove State Hospital employe, convicted of rape.

Ollie Smith, jr., 21, of Bobtown, convicted of rape.

Henry T. Jackson of Worcester County, convicted of murder.

The Governor refused appeals by each of the men for commutation of death sentences.

Lathco was ordered to the death house for raping an 11-year-old girl in Baltimore County. Smith was convicted of raping a 22-year-old Elwood, Md., girl. Jackson will hang for the murder of Otha Mason almost four years ago.

1793 D. C. Lottery In Budget Record

District of Columbia Commissioners authorized a lottery to raise $350,000 for improvements in the Federal City—only it didn't happen yesterday, but back in 1793.

What happened yesterday on the lottery was that Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.) ordered a report on its use in Washington made a part of the record of the current city budget hearings.

Horan, chairman of the House subcommittee in charge of the District budget, said he is opposed violently to lotteries as revenue raisers, but that he proposal has been advanced seriously by some individuals.

A Library of Congress report said that the 1793 lottery was conducted with the approval of the President. Tickets were $7 a piece. Of the 50,000 tickets, about a third represented prizes and the others were blanks. First prize was "one superb hotel, with baths, outhouses, etc., to cost $50,000."

The report told of other lottery plans here, one of them resulting in a Supreme Court case, and pointed out that in 1842 Congress voted to suppress the sale of all lottery tickets in the District, a prohibition still in force.

Resignation Accepted

Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall yesterday announced acceptance of the resignation of Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, as parttime scientific consultant to the Department of the Army.

In accepting the resignation, Royall credited Marvin, who is president of George Washington University, with making "valuable contributions to the Army's research and development program."

Dr. Marvin will be succeeded by Dr. Donald H. Loughridge, former physics professor at the University of Washington, who will serve in a fulltime capacity.

Christ Child Society

Miss Mary V. Merrick yesterday was reelected president of the Christ Child Society, a Community Chest member agency, at a meeting held in Miss Merrick's home, 2 E. Melrose st., Chevy Chase.

Other officers elected for the current year are Mrs. Aubrey L. Clarke, first vice president; Mrs. William R. Knoblock, second vice president; Mrs. Frederick Altemus, third vice president; Miss Mary Harlow, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Semmes, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Maxwell Stokes, second assistant treasurer; Mrs. Maurice May, recording secretary; Mrs. Donald Buckingham, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Charles P. Neill, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Levin Handy, Mrs. Matthias Mahorner, Mrs. Francis X. Callahan and Mrs. Albert R. Beatty, members of the executive committee.

Newly elected members of the board are Mrs. Frank Paroni, Mrs. William Rippard, Mrs. Maxwell Stokes, Mrs. Paul Sullivan, Mrs. Maurice May and Mrs. William Abel.

Woman Asks $15,000

Mary A. O'Connor, 3401 R st. nw., yesterday asked District Court for $15,000 damages for injuries she suffered last August when, she said, a bottle of Coca-Cola exploded, cutting her right arm.

The accident occurred while she was placing the bottle in her refrigerator, the suit charged. The Washington Coca-Cola Bottling Works, Inc., was named defendant.

$5000 Cancer QQuota

A $5000 quota for Montgomery County in the Amerlean Cancer Society Fund Drive was announced yesterday by Mrs. B. Peyton Whalen, local chairman.

Fifty per cent of all funds raised will be used in the county with the remainder going toward a Nationwide public education campaign on the "danger signals of cancer."

Embassy Has Fire

Washington diplomatic circles were momentarily startled yesterday when fire broke out in the Philippine Embassy, 1617 Massachusetts ave. nw. 'Twas only the engine of the elevator, however, and nary a protocol was broken in extinguishing the blaze, and in short order, too.

40 Brownie Scouts

About 40 girls, from 7 to 9 years old, will become Brownie scouts today in ceremonies scheduled for 3:30 p. m. at St. Agnes Catholic Church Hall, N. Randolph st. and Lee Highway, Arlington.

Following investiture services, the youngsters will hear an address by Miss Anne Stoots, 24, of Limburg, Holland, who will discuss girl scouting in her native land. Also scheduled to speak is Frank Palmer, safety officer for Arlington County.

To Keep 'Balance'

Board to Ask Pay Raises For Teachers

District school teachers will receive the same pay raise granted Government workers if the Board of Education has its way.

Six members of the nine-member board yesterday agreed with School Superintendent Hobar M. Corning that they should ask Congress to include teachers in pay-raise legislation.

The Corning recommendation will be brought today before the full board for approval. Support of the proposal came yesterday at a joint meeting of the board's committees on legislation and personnel.

Corning said that unless teachers are included in pay raises, the salary balance between teachers and other school employes will be upset. Custodians and clerks who have Civil Service ratings automatically receive the Government raise, he said.

If the bill now before Congress granting a $480-a-year raise is passed without teachers, custodians will receive from $200 to $300 more than some teachers who have bachelor degrees, and first-aid nurse assistants, engineers and other custodians will receive from $100 to $375 more than some teachers with master degrees.

Corning said that the low ranking of salaries paid to District teachers compared with salaries in other cities also points to the need of a cost-of-living raise.

Adelbert W. Heinmiller, assistant to the superintendent, said that a $500 increase for teachers would add approximately $2,300,000 a year to the cost of running the schools.

At today's meeting the board also will consider inequities in the present pay bill and sick leave proposals.

All's Well in Rockville

Democrats and Republicans working side by side in the Rockville Court House do so in peace and harmony and "everybody does the best he can."

This was the statement yesterday of F. Barnard Welsh, legal counsel to the Montgomery County Commissioners and a county Republican leader before 29 Poolesville School eighth graders who visited the regular session of the commissioners. . . .

The pupils, members of a social study class, were led by their teacher, Miss Kathryn Royster. Welsh's remark was made during his brief lecture on the county government setup.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Pigeon Takes 'Problem' to NLRB

The Washington Post

NO FEATHERBEDDING—This mother pigeon selected the corner of a desk in Room 305 of the National Labor Relations Board building, 815 Connecticut ave. nw., to build her nest. NLRB staff members, who have been observing her for two weeks, issued a bulletin yesterday saying that she was nesting on two eggs

Fairfax Board Studies School Bond Issue

A bond issue to raise nearly four-million-dollar Fairfax County needs to build and improve schools was proposed yesterday at a meeting of the Fairfax County school board.

Board Member Frederick W. Robinson said such a bond issue "is the only means the county has to build schools now."

The school board, he added, is "at the end of its rope" financially. Several other members concurred in Robinson's statements.

School Superintendent W. T. Woodson said the proposed borrowing would include $3,125,750 for six new schools and 11 additions, all now included in the board's 1948-48 budget and $803,500 for three new buildings and four additions which are not included in the budget. State Literary Fund loans anticipated for the construction will not be available, he said.

The board voted to adopt daylight saving time in county schools if the District of Columbia goes on it and set September 7 as opening date of the next school year.

Physical Training Group Elects

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—Dr. Thomas C. Ferguson, supervisor of physical education for the Maryland Department of Education, is the new president of the Eastern District, American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

He was elected at the annual four-day convention which opened here yesterday, with about 1000 delegates from 17 States attending.

Dr. E. L. Verner, director of recreation in the Baltimore public schools, was named vice president in charge of physical education.

Edward C. Finzel, director of public school athletics at Frostburg, Md., said at a panel discussion that sports skills should be taught to elementary and junior high school students "as part of the physical education system, but not under a coaching system."

"Shall we teach no sports skills at all in these grades just to avoid the charge that athletics are being taught mainly so high schools can have winning teams?" he asked.

'White Slavery' Charges Denied By 3 in Baltimore

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—Three Muncie, Ind., residents pleaded innocent in Federal Court today on charges they transported a woman into Maryland for purposes of prostitution.

The defendants are Glen Johnson, 28; his brother, Aaron Johnson, 24, and Mrs. Margaret E. Johnson, Aaron's 22-year-old wife. They are charged with unlawfully transporting Wilma Jean Coghill, identified as Glen Johnson's former wife, to Hagerstown last July.

The defendants are among 10 persons named in federal grand jury indictments on charges growing out of an FBI raid last summer on what federal agents called a "white-slave ring" centered in Hagerstown.

Both Mrs. Johnson and Miss Coghill told Judge W. Calvin Chesnut today they engaged in prostitution after they arrived in Hagerstown with the Johnson brothers.

Boy, 16, Drowned In Maryland Lake

Salisbury, Md., April 6 (AP).—Sixteen-year-old Irvin McAnn, who lived near this city was drowned in Schumaker Lake today when a boat he and a friend were in overturned, State police reported.

Irvin's companion, William S. Campbell, 18, of Jonesville, N. C., clung to the boat and reached shore safely. Campbell was employed by Irvin's father, Walter McAnn. He told police the boat overturned when McAnn stood up in it.

Police recovered young McAnn's body as soon as Campbell notified them directly after the accident, but they were unable to revive him with artificial respiration.

Death Halts Citizenship For Woman

Mrs. Herthe Marcus was to have become a United States citizen yesterday.

For five years, she has been going through all the forms and requirements toward that end.

A few months ago, Mrs. Marcus became gravely ill, and the doubt arose that she might not be able to stand, yesterday, and vow to protect with her frail might the Constitution of the United States.

Then special arrangements were made. A United States Court judge, T. Alan Goldsborough, and a naturalization clerk, Mrs. Helen Nelson, were to go to the Marcus home at 2525 Ontario rd. nw., yesterday afternon, to accept Mrs. Marcus' oath.

Death Comes First

Yesterday morning at 9:30, a half hour before regular naturalization ceremonies, Mrs. Marcus died of cancer.

Fifty-seven persons, of varied languages and nationalities, took the citizenship oath yesterday before Judge Goldsborough. Among them was Mrs. Adélaide Roberts (nee) Murphey, 63, born in Oakland, Calif., who lost her citizenship when she married Frederick Bookhurst Roberts in London in 1916. She now lives at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Marcus' husband, Dr. Henri Marcus, also had been scheduled to swear his allegiance to this country yesterday but he did not take the oath because of his wife's death. Formerly a consultant engineer in Paris, Dr. Marcus brought his wife here in 1942 to escape Nazi persecution.

They had lived in Washington since 1943, where Dr. Marcus has been employed as a research engineer for the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks.

The ceremonies which had been planned yesterday to permit Mrs. Marcus to become a naturalized United States citizen were of an extraordinary nature. Only previous time a judge and clerk have left the court to administer naturalization proceedings was once a few years ago, when they went to Walter Reed to hear the oaths of several amputees.

Others Sworn In

Those who were sworn in at yesterday's naturalization ceremonies were:

Mrs. Dora Aronson of 413 Kennedy st. nw., Russian; Mrs. Evelyn Miller Douthat of 4450 Verplanck pl. nw., British; Mrs. Hom Ong Ng of 817 Upshur st. nw., Chinese; Mrs. Aspasia Sakellariades of 314 E. Capitol st., Greek; Mrs. Julia Just, widow, of 1633 Newton st. nw., Austrian.

Mrs. Sofia Ferrari of 4130 Legation st. nw., Italian; Mrs. Alexina Massie Simmers, widow, of 325 13th st. se., British; Mrs. Vittoria Giovanna Petrini, widow, of 4006 Garrison st. nw., Italian; Mrs. Anna Kainer, widow, of 1746 E st. nw., Russian; Mrs. Jean Anderson of 1630 Irving st. nw., British; Mrs. Sofia Barbara Smith of 125 E st. nw., Czechoslovakian.

Mrs. Saleem Shama of 1409 Morse st. ne., French; Elaine Wiles, divorced, of 4022 13th st. nw., British; Mrs. Lotte Weiss of 931 Longfellow st. nw., German; Michelangelo Zurzolo of 1601 28th st. se., Italian; Ugo Chiavaccini of 3339 Massachusetts ave. nw., Italian.

Pedro Ferro of 729 Quebec pl. nw., Cuban; Nicholas Fotis Karousatos of 2233 18th st. nw., Greek; Frederick Garfield Long of 3517 Quebec st. nw., Canadian; Hemant Benode of 806 20th st. nw., Palestinian; Miss Carolina Rios of 2733 35th st. nw., Chilean; Frank Washington Wielgus of 2148 Q st. nw., Austrian.

Mrs. Odette Eveline Helene Ahrens of 3246 42d st. nw., Swiss, who brought her 6-year-old son and 4-year-old daughter with her, both born in this country. She married her husband, connected with the War Department, overseas; Mrs. Gladys Hope Richardson Cook of 2301 Connecticut ave. nw., Canadian; Mrs. Mary Riolo of 21 Cargo pl. sw., Filipino; Antonino Tornasolo of 733 F st. nw., Italian; Mrs. Lillies Cerina Carnnelli of 4413 Georgia ave. nw., Italian; Kenneth MacDonald Hadow of 2908 Cathedral ave. nw., British.

Miss Audrey Anne Forsyth Hadow of 2905 Cathedral ave. nw., British; John Dietrich Cordes of U. S. Soldiers Home, German, who appeared in a wheelchair and said he lost a leg on Corregidor in an accident in 1915; Manuel Ventura Scadalan of 1216 D st. se., Filipino; John Bendik of 3301 13th st. nw., Austrian; Mrs. Polyxeni Meliconas of 1503 30th st. nw., Greek; Godofredo Oliverio Calawor of 2438 2d st. ne., Filipino.

Daniel Orville Spence Herron of 402 Columbia rd. nw., British; Roberto Cuyugan Punzalan of 1930 18th st. nw., Filipino; Mrs. Monique Pauline Weisiitz Lewis of 1731 New Hampshire ave. nw., French; Mrs. Jacqueline Nina Pemberton Henry of 5451 42nd st. nw., British; Mrs. Amelia Maria Catalina Cusumano of 307 13th st. se., Italian; Mrs. Dolores Lawson of 2022 F st. nw., Spanish; Mrs. Vera Francona Nichols, staying at Roger Smith Hotel, Czechoslovakian.

Daniel Sullivan Stickney of 5401 Hampden la., Bethesda, who lost his citizenship when he joined British Navy in 1916, born in New York; Mrs. Teodora Fruttiesa of 1458 Columbia rd. nw., Italian; Miss Alice Hubertina McLeod of 1322 Monroe st. nw., British; Evaristo Ocullo of 1203 30th st. nw., Filipino; Mrs. Pharalida Maria Leathers of 1916 Calvert st. nw., Belgian.

Mrs. Maria Elizabeth White, widow, of 1343 Oates st. ne., Irish; Mrs. Beatie Rachoutis of 2702 Wisconsin ave. nw., Russian; Stefanos Rosakis of 618 I st. nw., Turkish; Vittorio Vidi of 213 E st. nw., Italian.

William Hershberger

Luray, Va., April 6.—William Hershberger, 65, president of the Page Theater Corp., and vice president of the Page Valley National Bank, died at his home here today after a long illness.

Besides his wife, Jessie, Mr. Hershberger is survived by two brothers, Edward Hershberger, president of the First National Bank of Luray and Frank Hershberger, and a sister, Miss Mollie Hershberger of Washington, D. C.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

H. C. B. Clagett Dies; Scion of Old Family

Mr. Clagett

Hal C. B. Clagett, 72, District mercantile broker and well-known Prince Georges County tobacco farmer, died at Emergency Hospital yesterday after a brief illness.

Member of an old Maryland family, Mr. Claggett was born and lived all his life at Weston, the 200-year-old family estate near Upper Marlboro. For more than 20 years he was on the board of the Cheltenham School for Boys. He was a member of the Washington Wholesale Brokers Association and the Washington Board of Trade, and served on the vestry of Trinity Episcopal Church at Upper Marlboro.

Mr. Clagett is survived by two sons, Fendall M. and Hal C. B. Claggett, jr., both of Weston; two daughters, Miss Silvine Marbury Clagett, who is now with the State Department in Berlin, and Mrs. John R. Bonniwell of New York, and one granddaughter.

Arrangements for the funeral, which will be held at Trinity Church, have not been completed.

George S. Kemp

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—Funeral services for George Stevenson Kemp, 70, stockbroker and former city alderman, who died at his home here last night, will be conducted at 4 p. m. Wednesday at the residence.

Officiating at the rites will be the Rev. Dr. Clem E. Bininger, pastor of Grace-Covenant Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dr. Donald W. Richardson of Union Theological Seminary. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Mr. Kemp retired about a decade ago, but retained his membership in the New York Stock Exchange until late in 1947.

He was a native of Chesterfield County, son of the late John P. and Ann Watt Kemp. He was an elder of Grace-Covenant Church for many years.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Annette Word Kemp; three daughters, Mrs. Cowan Ramage of Baltimore, Mrs. Hunter Frischkorn and Mrs. Charles Frischkorn, both of Richmond; two sons, George S. Kemp, jr., and Bruce S. Kemp, both of Richmond, and a brother, William C. Kemp, also of Richmond.

John S. Sigafoose

Frederick, Md., April 6—John Scholl Sigafoose, 96, a retired lock tender of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, and the first policeman in Brunswick after that town's incorporation, died last night at Emergency Hospital. Surviving are eight children: J. S. Sigafoose, Washington, D. C.; H. G and J. M. Sigafoose, Brunswick; Mrs Lottie Davis and Mrs Olca Moreland, Chicago; Mrs. Maude Welty, Martinsburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Clifford Stull, this city, and Mrs C. R. Everetts, Petersville. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Brunswick Methodist church.

Angelo Rossi

San Francisco, April 6 (AP).—The body of Angelo Rossi, 70, mayor of San Francisco from 1931 to 1944, will lie in state from 1 to 4 p.m. tomorrow in the rotunda of the City Hall so that thousands of citizens can pay him tribute.

The florist died yesterday of a heart attack while recovering at a hospital from pneumonia.

Mr. Rossi

The solemn mass of requiem will be sung Thursday at St. Mary's Cathedral.

Rev. Dr. Gilbert Burt

Emmorton, Md., April 6 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Bates Gilbert Burt, 70, acting rector of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church here, died after a heart attack in the rectory yesterday.

Dr. Burt was born in Wheeling, W. Va., the son of the late Mason Williams Burt and Mrs. Abbie Gilbert Burt, and studied at the Virginia Theological Seminary.

He was ordained in 1904 by the Rt. Rev. G. M. Williams, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Michigan, and came to Harford County from Michigan after his retirement last year.

Survivors include a son, Rev. John H. Burt, Episcopal student chaplain at the University of Michigan, and a daughter, Mrs. William Novell of Riderwood, Md.

Funeral services will be held here Thursday. The body will be taken to Ann Arbor, Mich., for burial.

William J. Cain

Frederick, Md., April 6—Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Marvin Chapel church for William J. Cain, 65, for many years a merchant at Plane Number 4, 10 miles east of here. A native of Frederick County, Mr. Cain retired two years ago. Surviving are his sister, Mrs. Harry Beall, and a brother, Joseph E. Cain.

Amon O. Harper

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6 (AP). Funeral services were held today for Amon O. Harper, 52, retired State police corporal.

Harper, a native of Upshur County, died Sunday at Newton D. Baker Hospital, where he had been a patient three weeks.

Harper joined the State police in 1921 and retired in 1944. He was made a corporal in 1924. His last station before his retirement was at Berkeley Springs. He was a veteran of the first World War.

Latta Rites Are Attended By President

President Truman took time from his Army Day schedule yesterday to attend funeral services for Maurice Latta, 78, White House executive clerk since the McKinley administration, who died Saturday at Naval Hospital.

Services were held at Washington Heights Presbyterian Church at 2 p. m., just half an hour before the Chief Executive reviewed the Army Day parade.

A member of the White House taff for nearly 50 years, Mr. Latta began his duties there as a stenographer, and on several occasions, retirement regulations were waived so he could remain on the job. He left his post January 29 to undergo an operation, and had been reported on the way to recovery only a short time prior to his death.

GOP Convention Candidates Ruled Off Ballots

Three candidates for delegates to the Maryland Republican State Convention from Prince Georges County were ruled off the May 3 party primary ballot yesterday because of late filing.

The board of election supervisors, meeting at Upper Marlboro, held that the three candidates could not be placed on the ballot because of Section 115 of the acts of 1947 which provide that certificates must be filed on or before April 3 in a year when there is a presidential election.

The candidates, Edwin A. Glenn, Suitland, who also is a candidate for Republican nomination for Representative from the Maryland Fifth District; William R. Rice, Forest Heights, and James S. Brady, jr., Bowie, filed their certificates of candidacy April 2.

Members of the election board, Samuel A. Wyvil, John S. Underwood and Alexander L. Buscher, said that they had no other course in view of the law.

Council Parleys On City Manager

Staunton, Va., April 6 (AP).—City Council members today conferred with City Manager I. G. Vass, of Waynesboro, in their search for some one to fill the city manager vacancy here, beginning May 1.

After the conference, Vass declined to make a statement. City Manager W. Guy Ancell said, "The council is still considering the subject of filling the vacancy and Mr. Vass has not finally removed himself from consideration."

Ancell becomes city manager of Portsmouth May 1.

Deposited $8200, Never Got House

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—Evidence that a former GI paid an $8200 deposit on a home he never got was offered today at the trial of Frank Novak, jr., on trial on embezzlement charges.

Novak, head of a real estate firm, is accused of embezzling $135,840 of the company's funds. He testified at a bankruptcy proceeding most of the losses were in card games and race betting. He has pleaded innocent to the embezzlement charge.

Judge Herman M. Moser received in evidence a statement by Steven Mesko, a war veteran, that under a contract for a house purchase he made payments totaling $8200. He never received a deed and has been unable to get a refund, the statement said.

Girl Scout Camp Periods Set

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6. Berkeley County Girl Scouts will camp this summer with the Winchester (Va.) Scouts at Camp White Rock in West Virginia, near Capon Bridge, it was announced today. Heretofore the local Scouts have joined with Hagerstown Scouts for their outlines.

First camp period will be from July 2 to 16, and the second from July 17 to 31.

Town 100 Years Old

Keedysville, Md., April 6 (AP).—This is the town's 100th birthday, but celebrations will be put off until the annual homecoming week this summer, said Mayor Charles K. Taylor.

It was on April 6, 1848 that the town changed its name from Centerville to Keedysville and established its first postoffice.

How to Clean Sandwich Toaster

I have a sandwich toaster in which the plates are getting brown from usage. How can they be cleaned? R. W.

Clean the grids with a mild household cleanser. Then rinse plates in pan of clean water if they are removable, or wipe with cloth wrung out in clear water if they are not. Dry thoroughly before using toaster again.

Is there any way I can make soured cream at home? It is not sold by any dairies in our town, and I would like to try several Hungarian recipes that call for sour cream. F. G. N.

Leave cream, covered, in room temperature until it clabbers or solidifies. Use at once or place in the refrigerator, where it will remain in the same condition for three or four days and can be used as needed.

Candles were permitted to burn low and wax ran on a white luncheon cloth, embroidered with fast-color blue thread. I scraped off excess wax and washed the cloth with the rest of the laundry with hot soapy water. When ironing the cloth, I found several oily spots where the candles had dripped. Can you tell me how to remove these stains? J. W. H.

Place the stain between clean white blotters, cleansing tissues, or paper towels, and press with a warm iron, changing the blotters as they become soiled. Then sponge with carbon tetrachloride or other grease solvent. If the candle was colored and a spot of color remains, sponge with a mixture of 1 cup denatured alcohol to 2 cups water.

How can one clean and preserve a leather baby carriage so that it will not crack or mildew while in storage? Would it be advisable to store it in my cedar closet? F. G.

Wash leather with saddle soap or suds made of mild laundry soap. Rinse with damp, clean cloth, and dry with soft cloth. Let dry thoroughly, then apply one of the conditioning dressings sold for use on leather. This returns oils to the leather and softens it. Let soak in, then wipe off surplus on surface. Apply a thin coat of floor wax to keep moisture out and prevent mildew. Store in a relatively dry place where it will not be subject to extremes of heat or cold. (For instance, take care not to place it near hot-water pipes.) If the cedar closet is such a place, store it there. However, unless there is wool, hair or feathers in the upholstery, putting it in this closet as a moth preventive is not necessary.

How can I remove three small tobacco rings from a light wood radio top? I have used camphorated oil with no success. J. McC.

Try rubbing with powdered pumice or rottenstone and linseed oil or sewing machine oil. Dip cloth in oil, then in the powdered stone (obtainable in paint and drug stores.) Rub with the grain of the wood.

This pretty apron can be made easily without a pattern. All pieces are cut straight which makes the sewing especially easy. It is fashioned from pastel cotton with bands of polka dot material

How can I remove mildew stains from slip covers? The material has a floral design and I'm afraid to use a chlorine bleach. M. G.

If mildew stains are fresh, they can sometimes be removed by washing in plenty of soapsuds. Sodium perborate is a safer bleach to use than chlorine. However, there's a chance that it, too, may affect the color. Try it out first on a sample of the cloth or on a seam or hem of the covers. The bleach may be applied either by sponging with a salution made of 1 tablespoon perborate to 1 pint lukewarm water, or by sprinkling the powder directly on the dampened stain. Let stand a minute or two, then rinse well.

I have a brown rayon faille handbag which has become soiled. Some of the spots on it are milk. Can you tell me how I can clean this bag? C. V. P.

Sponge the bag with carbon tetrachloride or some other grease solvent. This may take out the milk stains. If not—and if you find, by testing, that clear water can be safely used to sponge the bag—treat the spots with powdered pepsin. The latter softens hardened milk stains so that they will come out easily with water. Here's the way to apply it: Dampen spot with water, sprinkle on pepsin and let it remain half an hour. Brush it off, and sponge the spot well again. If bag is thin enough for it to be helpful, hold pad of absorbent cloth under spot as you sponge.

Get Up on Your Toes for Pretty Legs

By Ida Jean Kain

THERE'S no use blinking, we weren't all born with pretty legs, and the tendency to thin or fat legs seems to run in families. Oftentimes they don't even match the figure. While many overweights have flabby fat legs, some have dangerously spindly underpinnings. And some skinny girls have broomsticks, while others inherited lovely legs.

Now we bump up against that old chestnut, heredity versus environment . . . and I claim that if the environment affords lots of leg exercise, particularly dancing, legs will be lovely in spite of the limbs handed down from the family tree.

Famous Leg Measurements

Leg contours depend upon musculature, but size varies according to structure, the same as other measurements. The girl with a small frame may have a well-turned calf at 11 and a fraction inches and a trim ankle at 7 and a fraction. For proof, Betty Grable has a 12-inch calf and a 7½-inch ankle. The girl with a large frame will naturally have larger legs, measuring close to 14 inches at the calf and 8½ inches at the ankle. Leg statistics would not be complete without those of Dietrich's famous pair . . . they measure 13¼ at the calf and 8¾ at the ankle.

Many dancers admittedly started out with less than perfect legs—in fact, some took up dancing to overcome leg deformities. Exercise is the miracle worker. A secret they pass along is to take all practice workouts in wool tights or long stockings. The warmth of the wool plus the exercise induces perspiration, which in turn seems to make for supple, shapely muscles.

About ankles . . . if the thickness of the ankle is caused by bony structure, obviously exercise cannot change that. But if it's fat that mars this measurement, exercise can fine it down. Barbara used a special stunt of pushing her feet and ankles back and forth through the water . . . the resistance afforded by the water quickly slimmed off the quarter inch.

Dance steps also help . . . up on the toes, down on the heels, that's the way to take leg beautifiers. Contracting exercises done on the toes develop leg muscles; pushing down with the heels pulls the muscle out. For too-fat legs, concentrate on stretches. To develop calf muscles, join a dance class and get on your toes.

Mrs. Truman to Honor Theta Sigma Phi

Members of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional and honorary fraternity for women in journalism, and their "Matrix Table" dinner guests will be honored Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Truman will receive the group at the White House. Representative women in all journalistic fields including newspapers, magazines, fiction, public relations and radio have been invited to the reception which is an event of the 39th anniversary celebration of the founding of Theta Sigma Phi.

Among the 115 guests will be those who are to be given honorary and associate membership in the fraternity at an initiation ceremony preceding the dinner Friday evening at the Willard hotel. These women include: Anne O'Hare McCormick, who will receive honorary membership, and the following, who will become associate members: Hazel Kenyon Markel, Jackie Martin, Malvina Stephenson, Mary Taylor, and Anna P. Youngman.

Another guest to be welcomed by Mrs. Truman is Leslie Ford, well-known Saturday Evening Post contributor, who will be the principal speaker at the anniversary dinner. Others who will be present include Marjorie Binford Woods, national vice president of Theta Sigma Phi, Bernice Strawn, president of National Capital Alumnae Chapter, and Mrs. Donald C. Thompson, chairman of the "Matrix Milestones" committee.

She's a Woman with a Mission

New Role Surprises Mrs. Ethridge

By Peggy Preston

WILLIE SNOW ETHRIDGE, who writes books that are chock full of chuckles, has suddenly become a woman with a message.

And no one is more surprised than this whimsical little lady from the Deep South, whose latest book "It's Greek To Me" is hitting the best selling lists all over the country.

Heretofore, her writings have amounted to delightful essays on her home, family and neighbors. But with this new book, her fourth to date, she ventures far afield to Greece and the Balkans and concerns herself with political situations she observed on a six months visit there. Her message is to American women, who, like herself before the trip, have refused to look behind the Iron Curtain.

"I was desperate when I wrote that book," said Mrs. Ethridge in an interview yesterday shortly after her arrival here to be a guest at The Washington Post luncheon today at the Statler Hotel.

"I wanted to jolt Americans into a realization of what was happenin gover there before it was too late."

Hopeful Now

She worked night and day to get the book ready for the publisher and then signed up for a series of lectures before women's groups. Today, nine months after her return from Europe, she is still carrying her message via the lecture platform. But she has hope now, where last summer she was filled with despair.

An awakened America and the passage of the Marshall Plan have come into being in those intervening months. These will help turn the tide, in the opinion of Willy Ethridge.

"We must not be afraid to be strong," she insists. "And we must not forget that the little people of Europe prefer democracy to communism. The shopkeepers in Greece, the farmers in the fields of the Balkans like us—I know they do because I talked with them, hundreds of them. They're on our side."

And this from a woman who worked like a fiend during the war as Kentucky State Chairman of Russian War Relief!

"I tell you I was mighty hard headed about the Russians," grinned Mrs. Ethridge. "No one could convince me they were wrong. In fact, I was in Greece a whole month before the truth began to sink in."

Home in Kentucky

Mrs. Ethridge, a small, slender woman with a smiling, eager face, really prefers to write on light, pleasing subjects. She has done so with great success in such books as "As I Live and Breathe," "I'll Sing One Song," "This Little Pig Stayed Home," and "Mingled Yarn."

Prospect, Ky., which she describes as a wide space in the road, is the favorite setting for her books. She lives there, in a lovely old Southern house with her husband, Mark Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville Times and Courier-Journal, and their four children.

Long ago she figured out a smart way to have a career in writing and make her family think she was the ideal mother at the same time. First, she waited until the children were old enough to go to school before taking to her typewriter. Then she made a rule never to write until the house was empty. She begins in the morning after they have all left and "hides" script and all writing utensils before 2:30 when the first of her brood returns home. No one in her family suspects she is writing a book until it is finished.

"It works this way," she explained. "When the last light bulb blows out, no one complains, 'That's because Mother has the writing bug again.' They think it is just a usual occurrence and forget it. Never let your family know what you're up to, that's my motto."

Mrs. Ethridge will share honors at today's luncheon with three other writers. Included will be Margaret Widdemer ("Lani" and other books); Representative Wright Patman ("Our American Government") and James A. Farley ("Jim's Farley's Story—The Roosevelt Years"). Mr. Farley will also appear at 8:30 p. m. on a television program over Station WNBW-TV.

AAUW Gets Membership Ultimatum

The Washington Branch, American Association of University Women, faces possible ejection or suspension from the national organization because of its insistence on the right to select members. Faced with the ultimatum to admit "eligible" Negro women or get out of the national organization, the local group in a closed meeting held Monday night, voted to retain its present membership ruling. The national board of AAUW, which goes into session here Friday following an executive meeting tomorrow, was notified of the Washington Branch's decision.

Dr. Alpha Kratz Hottel, dean of women at the University of Pennsylvania and currently president of the national AAUW, had asked Mrs. G. R. Wilhelm, head of the Washington AAUW, for a statement on the Washington Branch's stand, "so we can consider the status of the branch."

In compliance with that request, Mrs. Wilhelm said that a statement was prepared and voted on Monday night which explains the group's stand. The statement contends that the issue is not "a race question but one of autonomy—the relation of the branch to national."

"We feel compelled to emphasize the principle of local membership autonomy as a means of protection from pressure groups seeking to infiltrate into voluntary organizations for ulterior purposes," read the local group's statement to the national board.

"We believe that such protection is also a means of averting racial and group frictions and antagonism within the AAUW," continued the prepared statement, which also pointed out taht by-laws of the Washington group provide that its board of directors must pass on the acceptability of applicants.

Mrs. Terrell Rejected

The racial issue arose about 1½ years ago when-84 year-old Mrs. Clarence Swift backed a membership application for Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, well known local leader among Negro groups.

Mrs. Wilhelm said that the local board of directors voted not to admit Mrs. Terrell, and that later a general referendum in the Washington branch confirmed the board's decision.

"Then the minority group, led by Mrs. Swift and some of the younger members, carried the issue to the national," explained Mrs. Wilhelm. "It's not a matter of admitting Mrs. Terrell or any group any more. It's simply a matter of a branch being able to retain its local autonomy."

Mrs. William O. Burtner, public relations chairman for the Washington branch, said she didn't know if national would suspend or eject the branch for its action. "I think, however," she said, "such an issue would await the next convention," adding, "or it should."

Mrs. Wilhelm wouldn't chance a guess on what decision the national board will make during its two-day closed meeting here. She pointed out that the branch in its adopted resolution asked the board to reconsider its ultimatum and also proposed that the board invite the Washington branch president and members to meet with the board and discuss an interim agreement on which to operate until the next convention.

Asks Democratic Vote

She said yesterday that she personally did not feel that the National Board should undertake an ejection measure, that it should be left to convention delegates to decide in a democratic vote when the conclave meets next year.

"We will abide by the decision of the convention," explained Mrs. Wilhelm. "But the question of local branches autonomy must be decided. Then we can admit Mrs. Terrell or any one else we choose."

The National Board has ruled that branches should admit any woman who holds an approved degree from an AAUW-approved institution. The Washington branch has maintained that eligibility is one thing and admission another.

"Conformity to the National Board's interpretation of the by-laws," the Washington branch argued," would force every branch to admit without question, every eligible applicant to full membership, even if the applicant be a patently undesirable person, a disruptive influence or a member of an obviously subversive group."

The local branch also expressed its conviction that the "end sought by the national board cannot be achieved by the compulsion of central authority but can only be won through the mediation of time and the process of persuasian and educatoin."

President Truman greets Prince Charles of Belgium on his arrival at the White House yesterday. The Prince was guest of honor at the first state dinner of the year given by the President last evening

President's State Dinner Honors Prince Charles

THE FIRST STATE dinner of the year was given at the White House last evening by President Truman in honor of Prince Charles, Regent of Belgium. It was also the first time white ties and tailcoats have been worn at a White House stag affair since before the war. Last to be honored at a state dinner was President Aleman of Mexico, when he visited here in April, 1947.

After being received with military honors in front of the White House yesterday, the Prince and the Belgian Prime Minister, Paul Henri-Spaak, were guests of Mrs. Truman at a small tea. The Prince spent the night at the White House and today he will move to Blair House for the remainder of his 10-day visit to the Capital.

The Prime Minister and Paul De Groote, Minister of Economic Co-Ordination and National Re-Equipment, were guests at the dinner last night, as were others in attendance of the Prince, including Col. J. van Nerom, Aide-de-Camp, Andre de Staercke, private secretary to the Regent; Roger Ockrent, secretary of the Cabinet, and Maj. Count Yvan Du Monceau de Bergendal, Aide-de-Camp.

The Chief Justice, Fred M. Vinson, the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Silvercruys, and the Speaker of the House, Joseph W. Martin, were ranking dinner guests. Others included the Secretary of Defense, James V. Forrestal, the Attorney General, Thomas C. Clark, The Postmaster General, Jesse Monroe Donaldson; the Secretary of the Interior, J. A. Krug; the Secretary of Agriculture, Clinton P. Anderson; Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Senator Tom Connally.

Also Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett; Acting Secretary of the Treasury, A. Lee M. Wiggins; Acting Secretary of Commerce, William C. Relax and Pass Up the Drinks

To Feel Right, Look Right, Says Miss Arden as She Does a Spot of Modelling

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

WE'VE KNOWN Elizabeth Arden more than a decade. In this span, she has neither added a wrinkle or an ounce though, she says, she has stretched herself an inch taller. Tiny, with fluffy light hair, pert features, incredibly fragile wrists and ankles, she is a dynamo of energy, often physically sustained, we suspect, by her belief that life is a continual challenge to be met and overcome.

Miss Arden was in Washington over the weekend to attend the Women's National Press Club jamboree, do a spot of business, and we trapped her Monday morning in her Mayflower bedroom. After she had adjusted our face to her liking with the latest Arden make-up, tried out her newest foundation cream (to be launched come autumn), we relaxed, looked around. On one of the twin beds, eight pairs of gloves, several black suede handbags, and four hats were laid out; on the other, her lingerie. The dressing table was lined with bottles, powder boxes, eye shadow, rouge, half a dozen lipsticks, a gold dressing set. The clothes closet was jammed.

Miss A. Models Her Wardrobe

MISS ARDEN herself, who had run through her morning exercises, downed several cups of hot water dashed with lemon, polished off more business than you or I do in a year, perched in front of the mirror wrapped in a quilted, pale blue velvet dressing gown. We asked her, phrasing it more delicately, what was cooking. As she talked, Miss Arden staged a fashion show for our sole delectation — pulling a blue satin evening gown from the closet, pointing out meticulous handwork in a finely pleated afternoon dress, slipping on a tightly cinched, electric blue-lined great coat, snuggling into a voluminously belled sealskin number, lined in red, tied at throat with a taffeta bow, all her own design, with an "Oh! it's a shame it is too hot to wear this!" We were almost too distracted to gather that when dressmakers began going into the cosmetics business, Miss A. reversed the process, plunging into dressmaking herself.

ELIZABETH ARDEN

She launched her new venture because she believes in fashion coordination, that clothes and cosmetics have to go together, because she wanted clothes made to go with her colors and—perhaps because she couldn't stand the bad taste of her favorite clients.

Her sister, who heads the Paris branch, picked out Paquin's most skilled designer, shipped him to New York. He is a Spaniard named Castillo, a natural artist who can design an outstanding collection in an evening's work. A phenomenal success, he has put noses out of joint among New York's luxury designers.

Maine Chance Has Western Counterpart

TO MAINE CHANCE, a "farm" where ladies are slimmed and made lovely, Miss Arden has added a wonderful "beauty resort" in Phoenix. Attention Ida Jean Kain, one client lost 50 pounds in eight weeks! Her latest enthusiasm is for tip-to-toe make-up—everything harmonizing from hose to legfilm. New, smaller niceties include perfumed nail polish.

To feel right you've got to look right, Miss Arden believes. Women, she thinks, should relax more, pay more attention to food, less to drink. The most unhealthy women, she has found, are chain smokers.

You will live long and be beautiful if you keep circulation up by exercise, take vitamins to supplement dietary deficiencies, drink a lot of water, avoid fruit juices with meals, keep away from rich foods. She practices what she preaches except that at parties she eats desserts!

By this time Miss Arden had tried on and discarded one suit for another of heavy Ottoman silk. A button had to be adjusted. "I've lost even more by waist stretching exercises!" she cried triumphantly. "I'll never stop until my waist is 24 inches!" Two hats were tried, a tiny openwork calot chosen, beige, white, yellow gloves were placed against the suit's black, yellow finally selected. A gold and diamond bracelet rejected as being too heavy, a small handbag substituted for a larger one. Ready, she stood poised in the doorway, delivering a parting admonition "Remember, never be a tortoise!"

Vassar Members To Collect Clothes

"Old look" clothes will be collected by the Vassar Club of Washington at the meeting at 5:10 p.m. this evening at Holton Arms School for distribution among Europe's needy.

Miss Mimi Griffin, who has just returned from 11 months in Japan, will present "Report from Tokyo." Also on the evening's agenda is election of new officers.

Congressional Club Given Silver Bowl

The Seventy-sixth Club yesterday afternoon presented the Congressional Club with a silver bowl in which the latter's mortgage will be burned at the annual breakfast on April 14 at the Statler Hotel. Mrs. Harry Truman will preside at the mortgage-burning.

Mrs. Clifford Davis, president of Congressional Club, accepted the gift from Mrs. Karl LeCompte, president of the Seventy-sixth Club.

The program also includes a talk on her experience in the Orient by Genevieve Reynolds, The Washington Post club editor, and a discussion of flower arrangement by Mrs. Davis.

Plan Carefully

Never serve a platter luncheon or dinner when there is the slightest chance of one article of food running into another one. You have lost the daintiness of the latter immediately.

Women's Action Committee Opens Convention Today

Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace opens its three day convention today at the Shoreham Hotel with its general theme, "Will We Pay the Price of Peace?"

The agenda includes speeches by George V. Allen, newly-appointed Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, Anne O'Hare McCormick of the New York Times editorial staff, Novelist Fannie Hurst and Dean Rusk, director of the State Department's Office of United Nations Affairs.

Today's sessions will be devoted to registration and committee business in the morning anf a forum on "Measures We Are Supporting" in the afternoon. On Thursday morning, delegates will visit their Congressmen on Capitol Hill to discuss current issues. That afternoon there will be a program on "Reaching All Women" and then another business session. The convention banquet will take place Thursday evening with Mr. Rusk and Mrs. McCormick special speakers.

"How Can We Strengthen Our Work?" will be Friday morning's topic of discussion. Mr. Allen and Mrs. Hurst will address the luncheon meeting to follow, and the convention will close with a business session Friday afternoon.

More than 500 women representing every section of the United States are in Washington for the conclave.

. . . married yesterday

Miss Elizabeth Anne Frasher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel S. Frasher of Le Roy, Ohio, Saturday became the bride of Albert Gillham Moore, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Moore of Kansas City, Mo. The Rev. Edward H. Morgan officiated at the ceremony, which took place in Le Roy Methodist Church, Le Roy, Ohio, at 4 o'clock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in candlelight satin, fashioned with tight bodice, bouffant skirt and long train. She wore a veil of embroidered net over illusion, and she carried a large flower muff of white stock with a purple throated white orchid.

Miss Marion Frasher, sister of the bride, wore a lilac taffeta gown and carried a flower muff of purple stock. The bridesmaids, Miss Pauline Brannan of Hollywood, Calif.; Miss Dorothy Henderson of Washington and Mrs. Fred Burton of Cleveland, Ohio, were costumed like the maid of honor in yellow taffeta and lilac-flowered muffs.

Charles Watson, jr., of Washington, was best man, and the ushers were William R. Frasher, brother of the bride; Donald C. Nielson of Washington, Paul Bartlett of Kansas City, Mo., and Richard Collett of Kansas City.

Miss Elaine Reeves and Miss Martha Reeves, daughters of Representative and Mrs. Albert L. Reeves, jr., were flower girls.

A reception was held at Westfield Country Club, Le Roy, Ohio.

Mrs. Moore attended Ward Belmont Junior College for Girls and the College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio. Mr. Moore attended Hotchkiss Preparatory School and Princeton University.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda.

MISS BETTY E. BAINBRIDGE
. . . betrothal revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood R. Bainbridge of Kilmarock, Md., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty E. Bainbridge, to William Mark Hummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Hummer of Washington.

Mrs. Canetti Tells B'nai B'rith Conference of Greek Conditions

"Astronomical prices prevail throughout Athens. Without relief people wouldn't be alive today." So declared Mrs. Rae Canetti, former president of B'nai B'rith Women's Chapter in Greece, in an address yesterday before some 50 delegates attending the eighth annual meeting of B'nai B'rith Women's Supreme Council now in session at the Statler Hotel.

She said that the Greeks know about and appreciate American help, but added that it would be well for Americans to help distribute supplies.

Mrs. Canetti painted a graphic, heart-breaking picture of the hungry, emaciated survivors of the Nazi war and occupation. She dwelt at length on the sufferings of the Jewish people during the war." Returning to Athens in 1946, I found people starving and in rags," she said. "Some had lost 25 or 30 of their relatives in Hitler's gas chambers. But with good medical care in rehabilitation centers many are beginning to show signs of hope and vitality."

Back in 1926 Mrs. Canetti organized B'nai B'rith Women in Athens, and set up the first school program for Jewish children in schools there. Next she built a summer camp which later evolved into a permanent home. Then the organization established a vocational school, a full-time medical service with a committee to instruct mothers. "All this was wrecked during the occupation," she explained. "However, the B'nai B'rith Building was rebuilt and used as a rehabilitation center.

During the morning session convention-goers heard Vernon L. Clark, national director, U. S. Treasury's Savings Bond Division, issue an appeal for aid in the forthcoming Security Loan Campaign.

Committee reports were featured throughout the afternoon. Adoption of resolutions and election of officers will highlight events at the closing session today.

NEW!
tiny diamonds of LUX! give you
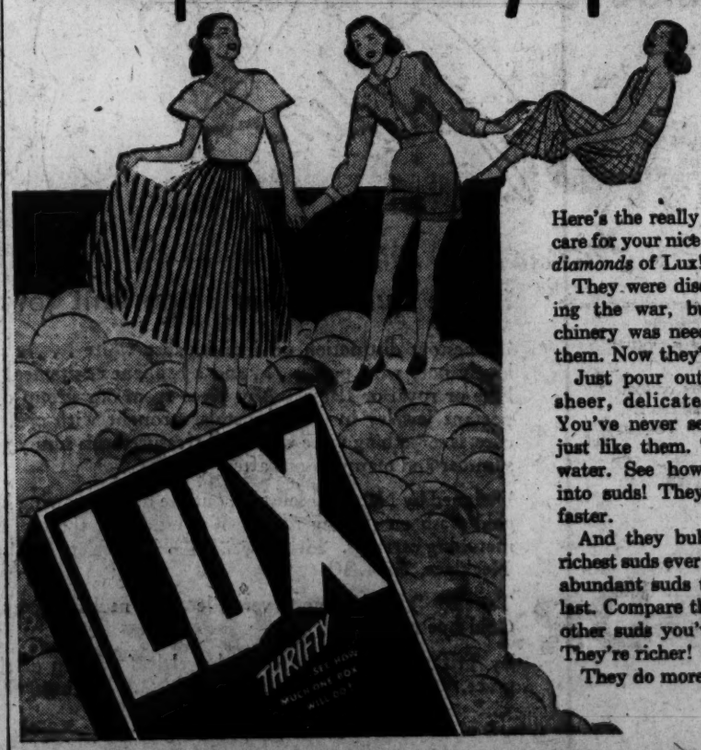
faster, richer suds

...keep colors lovely up to 3 times as long



Here's the really new way to care for your nice things! New diamonds of Lux!

They were discovered during the war, but new machinery was needed to make them. Now they're here!

Just pour out these tiny, sheer, delicate diamonds! You've never seen anything just like them. Turn on the water. See how they burst into suds! They're so much faster.

And they bubble into the richest suds ever! Make thick, abundant suds that last and last. Compare them with any other suds you've ever used. They're richer!

They do more for you, too. Remove soil which other kinds of suds can't—leave fabrics cleaner, fresher.

Use these wonderful new diamonds of Lux for all your nice washables... your rayons and cottons, sports and play-time clothes, pretty sweaters, blouses. See how they sparkle!

With Lux care, colors stay lovely up to 3 times as long, tests show. Your clothes have that "new look" for ages—you can have more without spending any more! So it's smart to avoid harsh washing methods.

Get your new Lux diamonds today. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Deep Love Develops Between Fine Man, 24, And Woman 10 Years His Senior; Marriage Is Broached, But Woman Feels Hesitant

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been seeing a fine young man for the past 10 months and during that time have fallen deeply in love with him. He also is very much in love with me and very devoted in every way.

However, there is one obstacle to peace of mind (for me at least). David is 24 and I am 10 years older; so do you think there is a chance for happy marriage for us? David does not have any doubts. It is I who wonder if we would be unwise to marry.

David is mature for his years and seems to have a promising future. We are completely happy when we are together and seem to enjoy the same things. In fact, we seem to have endless interests in common and consequently the age difference may not seem as great to us as it would to others.

Idea of Parting Seems Unbearable

WE SEEM to mix well with each other's friends and it would be another year or more before we could marry; and our hearts tell us to go ahead and plan a life together. But do you think our love will conquer all?

The idea of parting seems unbearable, but if we ought to part for the sake of both, surely it were better to part soon rather than later. Hence our need of immediate counsel. I have read that many such marriages work out well; but we would appreciate your advice and opinions regarding our very perplexing problem. L. N.

Interest Seems Healthily Rooted

DEAR L. N.: Yesterday's column assessed negative factors of personality contributing to unhappy results in a marriage made (ostensibly for love) by a man to a woman 10 years his senior, to compensate himself—as he said in effect—for his inability in youth to gain any attention from girls his age.

But whereas an identical age-disparity exists in your case, the premise of interest seems different. You and David mix well with each other's friends, you say.

This seems a significant statement in view of its positive implications, to-wit: that you and David (each in his own right) are healthy personalities, poised and comfortable, accustomed to affection and approval, well versed in social accommodation; and that neither, therefore, would be snatching at a straw in marrying the other (as lonely neurotics do), but rather joining forces in recognition of notably strong compatibility.

Woman Uses Her Head; Does Man?

YOUR rational self-reliant inclination to accept and digest the pain of parting now, if that seems best, which in turn is an expression of common sense willingness to use your head in probing the validity of this love, gives evidence of four-square character and superior intelligence.

Ergo, we may infer that you would be a sturdy responsible helpmeet for David; but to establish security in marriage, in terms of constructive enduring mutual fidelity, he must be a person of comparable caliber, of course.

What is love? In rational substance, it is a steady expression of responsible care for the person beloved; hence human love is only as strong, as dependable, as wholesome and sustaining, as the character from which it emanates. Hence it is collective character, not love in the sense of libidinal ardor, which holds marriage together rewardingly.

Thus, in canvassing the question of whether you and David could have a happy life together, it seems to me the decisive answer must come from him, after unhurried soul-searching. If he knows what he is doing and is endowed with as much foresight as you display, the opinions of others are irrelevant.

White Russian Women's Group To Entertain

The White Russian Women's Organization of Washington will give a benefit party on Saturday, May 8, from 5:30 to 7 at the United Nations Club. Proceeds will go to the White Russian Orphanage, Foyer d'Enfant at Villemoisson sur Orga, near Paris, for food packages for the Tolstoy Foundation and to other White Russian charities, including the tuberculosis sanatorium in Austria.

Mlle. Illarion Mishowt, wife of the former Naval Attache of the Russian Embassy during the Czar's regime, is chairman of the committee and Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard is chairman of the entertainment committee. Mme. Alexis Tatlistcheff, the former Princess Grusha Trubitskoy, is treasurer and Mrs. John Shields, who was Princess Tatianan Abkhazy, is secretary.

Russian entertainment will be given and the gipsy artist, Michel Mishon of Club Balailaika will sing. With cocktails will be served, among other delicacies, the well-known Russian meat pastries called pirosehki, donated by members of the organization.

Woodridge Book Club To Have Anniversary

Woodridge Book Club will celebrate its twenty-first anniversary with a luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday, April 13, at Hamilton Hotel. Representative Gordon Canfield of New Jersey will be guest speaker.

Mrs. W. F. Sterling will sing several solos with accompaniment by Mrs. Roy K. Easter. Mrs. W. B. Calvert, chairman of arrangements, is assisted by Mrs. J. K. Lyle, Mrs. Freeman Weiss, Mrs. Charles Taylor and Mrs. James Merritt.

Army Daughters Place Wreath

Mrs. Abram Claude, national president of the Society of Daughters of the United States Army, placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington Cemetery yesterday afternoon in an observance of Army Day.

Mrs. Claude was escorted by Mrs. Townsend Whelen and Mrs. Frank A. Allen, jr., national vice presidents, and Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, president of the Washington Chapter. The honor guard for the society included Mrs. Charles Roberts, honorary president; Mrs. Claude Dudley, Mrs. Virgil Shaw, Mrs. L. J. Livingston, Mrs. E. C. Wallington, Mrs. B. F. Wade, Mrs. Carl Spaatz, Mrs. R. T. Scott, Mrs. Richard Wagner, Miss Anne Hawkins and Mrs. Leslie Ashburner.

Miss Sterling Weds

Miss Edith M. Sterling and H. Wayne Glickfield were married March 25 at Hotel 2400, Rabbi Harry Silverstone officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sterling, and her husband is the son of Mrs. Max Glicksfield and the late Mr. Glickfield of Scranton, Pa.

The bridegroom is now attending Georgetown Medical School.

In Bridal Procession

Cleveland Park Congregational Church Saturday, April 3, was the scene of the marriage of Miss Rosalie Kaplan, daughter of Mrs. Grace Kaplan of Washington, to Thorkild Jensen, son of Otto V. Jensen of Copenhagen, Denmark. The Rev. Alfred Wesley Hurst officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, D. J. Rothstein. Her gown was of white faille and lace with a matching cap holding her finger-tip veil and she carried a nosegay of spring blooms. Mrs. Edward P. Swan, wearing blue taffeta and lace and carrying a nosegay, was matron of honor.

. . . married yesterday

Miss Elizabeth Anne Frasher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel S. Frasher of Le Roy, Ohio, Saturday became the bride of Albert Gillham Moore, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Moore of Kansas City, Mo. The Rev. Edward H. Morgan officiated at the ceremony, which took place in Le Roy Methodist Church, Le Roy, Ohio, at 4 o'clock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in candlelight satin, fashioned with tight bodice, bouffant skirt and long train. She wore a veil of embroidered net over illusion, and she carried a large flower muff of white stock with a purple throated white orchid.

Miss Marion Frasher, sister of the bride, wore a lilac taffeta gown and carried a flower muff of purple stock. The bridesmaids, Miss Pauline Brannan of Hollywood, Calif.; Miss Dorothy Henderson of Washington and Mrs. Fred Burton of Cleveland, Ohio, were costumed like the maid of honor in yellow taffeta and lilac-flowered muffs.

Charles Watson, jr., of Washington, was best man, and the ushers were William R. Frasher, brother of the bride; Donald C. Nielson of Washington, Paul Bartlett of Kansas City, Mo., and Richard Collett of Kansas City.

Miss Elaine Reeves and Miss Martha Reeves, daughters of Representative and Mrs. Albert L. Reeves, jr., were flower girls.

A reception was held at Westfield Country Club, Le Roy, Ohio.

Mrs. Moore attended Ward Belmont Junior College for Girls and the College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio. Mr. Moore attended Hotchkiss Preparatory School and Princeton University.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in Bermuda.

Mrs. Canetti Tells B'nai B'rith Conference of Greek Conditions

"Astronomical prices prevail throughout Athens. Without relief people wouldn't be alive today." So declared Mrs. Rae Canetti, former president of B'nai B'rith Women's Chapter in Greece, in an address yesterday before some 50 delegates attending the eighth annual meeting of B'nai B'rith Women's Supreme Council now in session at the Statler Hotel.

She said that the Greeks know about and appreciate American help, but added that it would be well for Americans to help distribute supplies.

Mrs. Canetti painted a graphic, heart-breaking picture of the hungry, emaciated survivors of the Nazi war and occupation. She dwelt at length on the sufferings of the Jewish people during the war." Returning to Athens in 1946, I found people starving and in rags," she said. "Some had lost 25 or 30 of their relatives in Hitler's gas chambers. But with good medical care in rehabilitation centers many are beginning to show signs of hope and vitality."

Back in 1926 Mrs. Canetti organized B'nai B'rith Women in Athens, and set up the first school program for Jewish children in schools there. Next she built a summer camp which later evolved into a permanent home. Then the organization established a vocational school, a full-time medical service with a committee to instruct mothers. "All this was wrecked during the occupation," she explained. "However, the B'nai B'rith Building was rebuilt and used as a rehabilitation center.

During the morning session convention-goers heard Vernon L. Clark, national director, U. S. Treasury's Savings Bond Division, issue an appeal for aid in the forthcoming Security Loan Campaign.

Committee reports were featured throughout the afternoon. Adoption of resolutions and election of officers will highlight events at the closing session today.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Deep Love Develops Between Fine Man, 24, And Woman 10 Years His Senior; Marriage Is Broached, But Woman Feels Hesitant

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been seeing a fine young man for the past 10 months and during that time have fallen deeply in love with him. He also is very much in love with me and very devoted in every way.

However, there is one obstacle to peace of mind (for me at least). David is 24 and I am 10 years older; so do you think there is a chance for happy marriage for us? David does not have any doubts. It is I who wonder if we would be unwise to marry.

David is mature for his years and seems to have a promising future. We are completely happy when we are together and seem to enjoy the same things. In fact, we seem to have endless interests in common and consequently the age difference may not seem as great to us as it would to others.

Idea of Parting Seems Unbearable

WE SEEM to mix well with each other's friends and it would be another year or more before we could marry; and our hearts tell us to go ahead and plan a life together. But do you think our love will conquer all?

The idea of parting seems unbearable, but if we ought to part for the sake of both, surely it were better to part soon rather than later. Hence our need of immediate counsel. I have read that many such marriages work out well; but we would appreciate your advice and opinions regarding our very perplexing problem. L. N.

Interest Seems Healthily Rooted

DEAR L. N.: Yesterday's column assessed negative factors of personality contributing to unhappy results in a marriage made (ostensibly for love) by a man to a woman 10 years his senior, to compensate himself—as he said in effect—for his inability in youth to gain any attention from girls his age.

But whereas an identical age-disparity exists in your case, the premise of interest seems different. You and David mix well with each other's friends, you say.

This seems a significant statement in view of its positive implications, to-wit: that you and David (each in his own right) are healthy personalities, poised and comfortable, accustomed to affection and approval, well versed in social accommodation; and that neither, therefore, would be snatching at a straw in marrying the other (as lonely neurotics do), but rather joining forces in recognition of notably strong compatibility.

Woman Uses Her Head; Does Man?

YOUR rational self-reliant inclination to accept and digest the pain of parting now, if that seems best, which in turn is an expression of common sense willingness to use your head in probing the validity of this love, gives evidence of four-square character and superior intelligence.

Ergo, we may infer that you would be a sturdy responsible helpmeet for David; but to establish security in marriage, in terms of constructive enduring mutual fidelity, he must be a person of comparable caliber, of course.

What is love? In rational substance, it is a steady expression of responsible care for the person beloved; hence human love is only as strong, as dependable, as wholesome and sustaining, as the character from which it emanates. Hence it is collective character, not love in the sense of libidinal ardor, which holds marriage together rewardingly.

Thus, in canvassing the question of whether you and David could have a happy life together, it seems to me the decisive answer must come from him, after unhurried soul-searching. If he knows what he is doing and is endowed with as much foresight as you display, the opinions of others are irrelevant.

M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

White Russian Women's Group To Entertain

The White Russian Women's Organization of Washington will give a benefit party on Saturday, May 8, from 5:30 to 7 at the United Nations Club. Proceeds will go to the White Russian Orphanage, Foyer d'Enfant at Villemoisson sur Orga, near Paris, for food packages for the Tolstoy Foundation and to other White Russian charities, including the tuberculosis sanatorium in Austria.

Mlle. Illarion Mishowt, wife of the former Naval Attache of the Russian Embassy during the Czar's regime, is chairman of the committee and Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard is chairman of the entertainment committee. Mme. Alexis Tatlistcheff, the former Princess Grusha Trubitskoy, is treasurer and Mrs. John Shields, who was Princess Tatianan Abkhazy, is secretary.

Russian entertainment will be given and the gipsy artist, Michel Mishon of Club Balalaika will sing. With cocktails will be served, among other delicacies, the well-known Russian meat pastries called piroschki, donated by members of the organization.

Woodridge Book Club To Have Anniversary

Woodridge Book Club will celebrate its twenty-first anniversary with a luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday, April 13, at Hamilton Hotel. Representative Gordon Canfield of New Jersey will be guest speaker.

Mrs. W. F. Sterling will sing several solos with accompaniment by Mrs. Roy K. Easter. Mrs. W. B. Calvert, chairman of arrangements, is assisted by Mrs. J. K. Lyle, Mrs. Freeman Weiss, Mrs. Charles Taylor and Mrs. James Merritt.

Army Daughters Place Wreath

Mrs. Abram Claude, national president of the Society of Daughters of the United States Army, placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington Cemetery yesterday afternoon in an observance of Army Day.

Mrs. Claude was escorted by Mrs. Townsend Whelen and Mrs. Frank A. Allen, jr., national vice presidents, and Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, president of the Washington Chapter. The honor guard for the society included Mrs. Charles Roberts, honorary president; Mrs. Claude Dudley, Mrs. Virgil Shaw, Mrs. L. J. Livingston, Mrs. E. C. Wallington, Mrs. B. F. Wade, Mrs. Carl Spaatz, Mrs. R. T. Scott, Mrs. Richard Wagner, Miss Anne Hawkins and Mrs. Leslie Ashburner.

Virginia Board Holds Hearing On Pollution

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—The State Water Control Board heard evidence in closed session today from the American Viscose Corp. of Front Royal in the first case of its kind ever conducted by the State agency.

The hearing was to allow the company to show cause why it should not be ordered to neutralize and clarify its wastes, all of the time, under the 1946 Stream Control Act. The ssion was to elicit facts to determine whether such an order should be issued.

Sportsmen in the Winchester are have complained that wastes from the viscose rayon operation have desroyed fish life and fish food.

Conservation Club Asks Tuck to Act

Abingdon, Va., April 6 (AP).—The Washington County Wildlife Conservation Club has asked Governor Tuck to end pollution of the North Fork of the Holston River.

The club last night adopted a resolution assailing the Game and Inland Fisheries Commission and the Water Control Board for failure to end the pollution.

The resolution charged the Mathieson Alkali Works of Saltville with polluting the North Fork "to such an extent that countless thousands of fish were destroyed and the water of the river rendered undrinkable for livestock which daily depends upon the stream's flow in Smyth, Washington and Scott Counties."

Admitted Robber Keeps Freedom On 5 Conditions

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6.—John Cooper, 41, who pleaded guilty to a robbery charge in Stafford County Circuit Court, is still a free man, but with a lot of ifs.

Cooper, a parolee from the State Penitentiary, told Judge Leon M. Bazile he had been "drinking under the persuasion of friends," when he held up Harold Ledger, Fredericksburg taxi driver, at gun point. Later, Cooper returned the $2 he took from Ledger and apologized for his act.

Here are the conditions Judge Bazile imposed in staying sentence: 1. Cooper must get a job and work six days a week; 2. He must never possess or drink alcoholic beverages; 3. Upon loss of employment he must notify the probation officer within 24 hours; 4. He must never carry firearms; 5. He must "live and remain" at least 40 miles from Fredericksburg and Stafford County.

Second Army Units Feature Parade In Baltimore

Baltimore, April 6 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow watched units of his Second Army pass in review today after emphasizing "that our words at the council table will have only the weight of our armed forces."

The parade climaxed a full program of activities at which Baltimore observed Army Day.

The downtown parade under lowering skies included 1200 marchers, four bands, 25 guns and 110 vehicles. Joining the regular Army forces was Maryland's Twenty-ninth National Guard division.

The parade included units from Edgewood Arsenal, Aberdeen proving ground, the Baltimore signal depot, various reserve and veteran's organizations. At the head as grand marshal was Brig. Gen. William Purnell of the Maryland National Guard which had nine units in the line of march.

Manassas Gets First In School Play Contest

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6.—Osbourn High School of Manassas was given first place rating in the District 2, Group 2, one-act play contests of the Virginia High School League staged here. Osbourn will compete in the State finals at the University of Virginia April 10.

The Manassas group presented "The First Dress Suit," in which roles were taken by Barbara Jones, Myra Carratini, Stewart Reid and Oliver Dashiell.

Other schools in the contest were Fredericksburg, Culpeper, Falls Church, Ashland and Glen Allen.

Virginia Prep Schools Elects Col. Benchoff

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (AP).—The Virginia Association of Preparatory Schools has elected as its president, Col. N. J. Benchoff, headmaster of Massanutten Military Academy. He succeeds Dr. George Barton of Virginia Episcopal School.

Other officers elected at the association's annual meeting held yesterday at the University of Virginia, were:

J. H. Ratcliffe, of Christ Church School, vice president; Dean I. F. Lewis, of the University of Virginia, executive secretary, and C. H. Kauffmann, secretary-treasurer.

Opera to Be Given By Virginia U. Girls

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6.—"Dido and Aeneas," an opera written in 1689 by Henry Purcell for a London girls' school, will be given next Sunday at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia under the direction of Dr. Herman Reichenbach.

The cast includes Barbara Blackburn, Norfolk; Ruth Lawless, Huntington, W. Va.; and Florence Archibald, Arlington. Scenery is being painted by students under direction of Virginia Spickard, Dundalk, Md.

Richmond Site Bought As Methodist Home

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—The Methodist church has bought property here which will be used for establishment of a Virginia Methodist Home for the Aged.

The property, of seven acres, is at Hermitage rd. and Westwood ave. and includes a large brick home built by the late Jonathan Bryan.

May 9—Mothers' Day—has been set as the time when the 276,000 members of the Methodist church in Virginia will be asked to contribute to the home in founders' day gifts. The goal is $150,000.

Virginia Lawyers Waives Hearing in Jury Fixing

Richmond, Va., April 6 (AP).—Robert Lee Hicks, local attorney, waived formal hearing before United States Commissioner Melvin Flegenheimer today on a charge of attempting to influence a juror in the Fredericksburg bank case.

Indicted yesterday by a Federal grand jury, he was released on $2000 bond for his appearance in Federal District Court here April 12.

Maryland Dairy Sued For Lacking Permit

Elkton, Md., April 6 (AP).—Samuel T. Deshane has until Thursday to file an answer to a Maryland State Board of Health suit that he is operating a dairy farm without a permit.

The suit, filed in the Circuit Court here, alleges that Deshane was convicted in July last year of selling milk without a permit. The suit claims the sentence was suspended, but that Deshane has continued to operate his farm and retail milk route.

MY GRANDCHILDREN HAVE GROWN UP SINCE YOU SAW THEM, JOHN!--SUNNY'S A FRESHMAN IN HIGH SCHOOL AND DENNIE IS TELLER IN OUR HOMETOWN BANK!
THE RAIN IS SLACKENING, SENATOR! --IF YOU'LL CALL ME A CAB, I'D BETTER START HOME--!
NONSENSE! I DON'T PAY YOU SO MUCH YOU CAN AFFORD FOURTH ZONE TAXI RATES, YOUNG LADY! I'LL DRIVE YOU!
BUT--!
DON'T DISAPPOINT HIM, MY DEAR! NO DOUBT YOU HAVE THINGS TO TALK ABOUT?-- OFFICE BUSINESS, NATURALLY!
WELL, AUNT MARY--! NOW YOU KNOW WHY I SENT FOR YOU!

THIS AMERICAN NOBLEMAN, HAPPY THE EASTER, IS EXILED FROM YOUR COUNTRY--YET HE IS PRODUCING A MOTION PICTURE?
QUITE SO, MILADY NINE! HIS REPUTATION PRECEDED US --AND MONEYED PEOPLE IN THE MIDDLE EAST INSISTED HE DO A PICTURE ON THE NEWLY FREED WOMEN OF ASIA!
WE WERE SEARCHING FOR THE ONE PERFECT FEMALE TO PORTRAY OUR HEROINE --WHEN WE WERE CAPTURED BY YOUR TRIBESMEN!
WHAT MUST THIS WOMAN BE LIKE, CANYON?
BEAUTIFUL, EXOTIC, MYSTERIOUS...
IN OTHER WORDS, EXACTLY LIKE ME --AND YOU JUST HAPPEN TO HAVE A CONTRACT IN YOUR POCKET!

JOE PALOOKA

DERL SAYS THEY'RE ON THE WAY OUT. WE'RE TO LOAD ALL THE EMPLOYEES FIRST.
OKAY.
YOU'LL SURE BURN, MARVIN! WE'VE GOT ENOUGH EVIDENCE TO CONVICT YOU TEN TIMES OVER....GET ALONG, RAT!
THIS IS JIM DERL-- WE HAVE MARVIN AND HIS MOB IN CELLS. I HAD TO USE FISTS A BIT... HOW ARE YOU FELLOWS...
WE'RE GREAT...COME ON OVER, JIM...WE'RE HOLDIN' UP TH' LOBSTER THERMIDOR AN' WELSH RABBIT TILL YA ARRIVE... COME ON FAST!

BARNABY

I think Gorgon can handle his part in my radio show all right, Barnaby. If he'll practise up on his barks--
Arf! Arf!
But, gosh, if he can talk--
The popularity of talking dogs isn't what it once was. You see, people DO weary of an idea--
I guess those things kind of run in cycles.
Yes. And now, m'boy, let us turn to a more important aspect of my great program--
Toin this way, pal.
The invisible Leprechaun! Is he going to be in your show too, Mr. O'Malley?
All I need is a little oiging . . .
Jack Morley

MICKEY FINN

SOMETHING MUST'VE HAPPENED TO PHILIP TODAY, MICHAEL! HE CAME HOME IN ONE OF HIS MOODS AND WENT RIGHT UP TO HIS ROOM!
SERGEANT HALLIGAN TOLD HIM THE TRUTH ABOUT A FEW THINGS, MA! TO GET THAT SENATOR IDEA OUT OF HIS HEAD!
WELL, DID HE GET IT OUT OF HIS HEAD?
I DON'T KNOW! HE LEFT THE OFFICE IN A HUFF --I'LL GO UP AND SEE WHAT HE SAYS NOW!
SERGEANT HALLIGAN HAD TO SAY WHAT HE SAID, UNCLE PHIL! IT WAS THE ONLY WAY TO GET YOUR FEET BACK ON THE GROUND!
WELL, THEY'RE BACK ON THE GROUND ALL RIGHT! I'M THROUGH WITH POLITICS FOREVER!
--AND I'M THROUGH BEIN' SHERIFF, TOO! I'M GOING TO RESIGN IN THE MORNING!

PENNY

MY FATHER WON'T LET ME LEARN TO DRIVE EITHER, MYRTLE. HE SAYS I HAVE TO WAIT ANOTHER WHOLE YEAR.
SOMETIMES I THINK PARENTS ARE DEFINITELY RETARDED.
I MEAN, YOU'D THINK WE HAD UTTERLY NO SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY.
WELL, I SEE JENNIFER GOT HER LEARNER'S PERMIT.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Alexandria Food Donor Receives Letter From Poland

This isn't funny. It's just a true story of the aftermath of war.

A District Liner who lives in Alexandria, Va., sent a CARE package to Poland several months ago.

The recipient must have copied down the name and address of the donor, because yesterday a letter of thanks arrived.

After a sobering recitation of the gratitude with which food is received behind the Iron Curtain, the letter (half in Polish, half in French) concluded with:

"Since you live in Alexandria, perhaps you could help us locate our nephew, Victor Lazarus, from whom we have not heard since the war began. We have been told that he may be either in Alexandria or in Cairo."

Apparently the abbreviation "Va." is not readily recognized in Poland.

INFORMATION, PLEASE

"Can somebody solve this mystery for me?" asks Peggy Feyling of 812 K st. se.

"I got this match folder somewhere in the vicinity of 16th and Q sts. nw.:

"Who are Anne and Dutch, and what's the significance of June 20, 1948? Can any of your District Liners end the suspense?"

I dunno. Can you, District Liners?

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

We're sorry to spot an error in your column. You said that WINX doesn't carry any soap operas, but this indicates you don't listen to Howard Williams' program.

Howard's "Bandstand" presents the fascinating drama of Sedgewick Turntable and Madge McGillicuddy.

This is the world's worst and shortest (one minute) soap opera, and we sponsor it.

Melvin Foer
Melart Jewelers, Inc.

Dear Mel:

I can't listen to Howard's excellent program very often because while he's spinning those records I'm up to my eyebrows in late news items for my own program, which follows.

I'll take your word for the presence of a soap opera on WINX but, without even hearing it, I'll challenge your statement that it's the world's worst.

In one minute it just couldn't be as bad as the others are in 15.

Bill.

"I DIDN'T RAISE MY BOY TO BE A NUMBER"

A great hue and cry is being raised about the plan to assign numbers to all newborn babies.

Opponents of the scheme charge that it's downright cruel to saddle an infant with No. 108-49-752369 and expect him to carry that burden through life.

However, I'm willing to wager that if the babies were given a voice in the matter, they'd much prefer numbers to names like Launcelot and Algernon.

At least the numbers will be assigned to them by lot, rather than by caprice.

The only way to get a low number will be to have the foresight to be born shortly after midnight on January 1. Failing of that, even the children of politicians won't be able to get low numbers.

The only thing that disturbs me about the suggestion is its romantic implication. Can't you just picture No. 108-49-752369 slipping his arm around No. 122-49-638194 and whispering:

"Honey, I can't live without you; will you change your number to mine?

"With your cosines and my cosigners, we'll build our little cottage in the country, and never go off on a tangent.

"And some day—who knows! Some day perhaps we'll hear the pitter-patter of little digits and then we'll really have achieved happiness to the nth power. Oh, say the word, dear—and make me the happiest number in the world."

Frankly, I don't think it adds up.

NEW YORK.—Irwin Shaw again has rented a home in California to complete his novel about the war. It was Shaw who once announced, in rejecting screen-writing offers: "No. The warm climate isn't conducive to work. In California a guy should do nothing but lie on his back and let the bananas drop on his face."

Howard Whitman, the magazine writer, confesses that the book project on which he's been working secretly is "Sex and Education." It will be published this spring.

Former Ambassador Gerard, who was operated on two weeks ago, is out of the hospital and completely recovered. He's 84 years old.

John Garfield and the staff with which he made "Body and Soul" have decided to return to Enterprise Productions for their new movie, "Tucker's People." The background-shots will be made in New York this month. . . . George V. Allen of the State Department, newly appointed to supervise the "Voice of America" broadcasts, said this week that his first step, in learning about the "Voice of America" programs, was to listen to the Soviet broadcasts attacking the series.

Eamon de Valera asked Frank Monaghan for a copy of "Heritage of Freedom," the official book of the Freedom Train, to take back to Ireland. De Valera said he wanted it to study the copy of the Treaty of Paris, in which Great Britain recognized America's independence.

A new executive at the MGM studios, who is so bewildered by his job that he has been unable to do any work, asked that an assistant be assigned to him. "No," he was told, "because that would mean we'd be getting two indecisions instead of one."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Recruiting Spurt Jolts UMT

By Drew Pearson

A sudden spurt in recruiting after the first of the year almost upset the Pentagon's plan to high-pressure Congress into a new draft act and universal training.

PEARSON

It wasn't publicized, but both Air Force and Navy figures shot far above their monthly quotas. Even recruiting for the Army ground forces hit a postwar high, just a little short of its assigned goal.

From less than 8600 recruits in November and December, Air Force records bounced up to 14,573 recruits in January, sagged down to 11,270 during February, then picked up again during the first few weeks of March. But even the February figure was higher than the monthly goal of 10,000 men.

The Navy rose from 14,309 in December to 19,834 in January, then back to 16,598 in February. Both were well above the monthly quota of 15,000.

On the other hand, the Army with a monthly quota of 20,000, only recruited 17,076 in January and 15,934 in February. But this was still a tremendous boost from 8953 in November and 11,396 in December.

Margarine Battle

Congressman August Andresen of Red Wing, Minn., a power in the House Agricultural Committee, is threatening Southern Democrats with antitobacco, anticotton and antipeanut legislation unless they give up their fight for repeal of the margarine taxes.

Until last week, all the margarine bills had been bottled up in committee by the Republicans, led by Andresen. But Congressman Harold Cooley of North Carolina has now mustered 218 signatures on a discharge petition, and will force a bill before the House this week.

When Andresen heard about it, he hit the ceiling. He warned Southern colleagues that he expects to take over as Agriculture chairman next year, and swore he would make it tough on Southern legislation. He is counting upon a Republican victory at the polls in November, which might elevate the present Agriculture chairman, Cliff Hope of Kansas, to the Cabinet as Secretary of Agriculture.

Meanwhile, housewives are paying taxes on margarine as high as 10 to 12 cents per pound.

Behind Overrider

Story behind the congressional overrider of the President on the tax bill is that Truman originally intended to send his veto message to Congress on April 5—the last day he could act—instead of April 2.

He suddenly changed his plans, however, upon learning that House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn planned to leave for Texas during the weekend and would not be on the floor to lead the debate against the overrider.

So Truman called in Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky, told them of his plans to send up the veto message three days early so the leaders could rally Democrats in both Houses to make a series of speeches. They were to charge the Republican tax writers with trying to bankrupt the Nation in order to win votes in the next election.

However, these White House plans fell through. Rayburn, who is still sore at Truman for splitting the Democratic Party on the civil rights issue, didn't even bother to take part in the debate. In fact, there wasn't a single speech by a Democrat in the House supporting Truman's tax position.

In the Senate only three Democrats—Barkley of Kentucky, Hatch of New Mexico and Kilgore of West Virginia—took the trouble to speak against the GOP motion to override the President.

Air Armada

While the Pentagon boys emphasize the importance of the draft, the National Defense Research and Development Board has written a confidential report urging the need of an armada of cargo planes. In this age of blitz warfare, supply lines must be swift and flexible, which means America must build up a vast merchant marine of the air.

The report emphasizes the growing threat of Russian submarines, which could make sitting ducks of our ocean transports. Russia's underwater navy is already five times larger than the German U-boat fleet at its peak, the report states. What's more, Russia possesses the deadly German XXI which is "60 times more difficult to locate and kill" than standard World War II subs.

The present strategy of digging in and stockpiling material at forward bases is also rejected by the research board.

"Targets should determine the location of bases, not vice versa," the board argues. "The need for maintaining the base should cease when the target is destroyed. Advance bases should become as expendable as shell cartridges."

This means construction and supply should be cut to a minimum, and air transport must become the backbone of supply.

"Although World War II strategy was determined largely by the availability of shipping, in the next war the availability of the air lift will be the controlling factor," the report declares.

4000 Planes Needed

In closed-door testimony, military chiefs have warned that they must have 4000 cargo planes with the carrying capacity of C-54s, ready to take off at the drop of the first enemy bomb. Against this need the certificated airlines now have in the air less than 60 freight planes. An additional 125 planes are operated by veterans' air freight lines, still waiting for CAB certificates.

Evening at home

A pleasant evening spent at home . . . Is worth a great deal more . . . Than traveling to the farthest land . . . Or swimming at the shore . . . It far surpasses scaling heights . . . Vacationing by car . . . Or moving in the midst of all . . . The luxuries there are . . . Because a pleasant evening at . . . The family fireside . . . Is one of real companionship . . . And no uncertain pride . . . It is the time to sit and talk . . . Of opportunities . . . And share the everlasting wealth . . . Of golden memories . . . To count the many blessings that . . . Are part of every day . . . With love and laughter in the house . . . And no one far away.
